Peace Prize For Labor

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The Nobel Peace Prize was awarded today to the International Labor Organization (ILO), the Nobel committee announced.

The prize this year is worth $72,700.

The ILO was one of 45 candidates proposed to the Nobel committee, composed of members of the Norwegian Storting (parliament).

The Geneva-based ILO was founded in 1919 as part of the Versailles peace treaty ending World War I.

"Its purpose was declared to be to improve working conditions in various countries in order to create more stable social conditions and thereby contribute to the safeguarding world peace," the Nobel committee's announcement said.

The will of the late Swedish dynamite inventor, Alfred Nobel, provided that the peace prize should be awarded to "the person who shall have done the most or the best work for fraternity among nations, for the abolition or reduction of standing armies and for the holding and promotion of peace congresses."

While the will specifies a person, the award has been given several times to institutions. It went to the International Red Cross Committee in both world wars.

The ILO is the third United Nations body to receive the award. The U.N. Children's Fund received it in 1965 and the U.N. high commissioner for refugees in 1955.

The award was made evidently to mark the 50th anniversary of ILO, which was founded April 11, 1919.

The ILO secretariat, the labor office, has been headed since 1948 by an American, David A. More.

President Backs Up Haynsworth Effort

Claims Judge Target Of Character Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. has been subjected to vicious character assassination, and even if the judge asked him to withdraw his nomination to the Supreme Court, he would not do so.

Nixon took this stand at a one-topic news conference called hurriedly in his office.

He said he had gone over the complete record of the case of the man he tapped for the Supreme Court and all of the criticism and charges that had been raised.

He said he is standing by his judgment that Haynsworth should have the position.

And he said he is confident that if senators study all the documents and charges involved, enough of them will come to the same conclusion he has and will vote for confirmation.

Nixon said of Haynsworth:

"I find Judge Haynsworth an honest man, a lawyer's lawyer and a judge's judge. I think he will be a great credit to the Supreme Court and I intend to stand behind him until he is confirmed."

The South Carolina jurist, chief justice of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, has run into strong opposition on his nomination to replace former Justice Abe Fortas on the Supreme Court.

Opponents have cited what they consider antilabor and anti-civil rights rulings he has made. They also have raised charges of conflict of interest, on grounds that he held stock in some companies directly or indirectly involved in matters before his court.

Haynsworth has denied any conflict, and has furnished to the Senate Judiciary Committee a full record of his stock holdings and transactions. He also has offered to put his holdings in trust if he is confirmed.

Nixon said Haynsworth's entire record and life had been exposed before senators considering his nomination and that he was put through "what I believe to be vicious character assassination."

Nixon said as a result of his review of the Haynsworth case, the justice comes through as a man of integrity "and deserves even more the support of the President and of the Senate."

Nixon got around to specifics on four or five points, noting in passing that he had had some experience in investigative procedures. He said he had studied the case fully, had read Haynsworth's income tax re-

FIRST OFFENDERS

Proposal To Cut Drug Penalties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration proposed today to reduce to a misdemeanor the crime of simple possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs, regardless of the drug involved.

The offense is now a felony, with consequent higher penalties.

Reversing a previous stand, the administration suggested that a more flexible penalty structure is needed in order to "make the punishment fit the person involved" and the crime.

More realistic penalties should lead to better law enforcement, it said.

Testifying before the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, John E. Ingersoll, director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, proposed that federal laws draw a distinction between narcotics users and traffickers.

He proposed several alternatives to legislation submitted last July 15 by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In perhaps the most important change, he suggested that, in all cases, possession with intent to sell remain a felony and "possession for one's own use, regardless of the drug involved," be made a misdemeanor.

Under present law, a first offense for simple possession of either hard narcotics or marijuana calls for maximum penalties of a $20,000 fine and 2 to 10 years imprisonment.

The administration's alternate proposals would lower the maximum fine to $5,000 and provide for a sentence of up to one year imprisonment.

For second offenses, the maximum fine would go to $10,000 and the offender could be given a sentence of up to 2 years, compared to a 5 to 20 year term under present law.

Ingersoll also outlined other changes, including a provision to require "a special parole term" for persons convicted on charges of trafficking in drugs and narcotics. This would make it mandatory for such persons to be placed under supervision for a designated period of time, regardless "whether they are incarcerated or their sentence probated or suspended."

Ingersoll contended the flexible structure would induce prosecutors to initiate more cases and make courts less reluctant to sentence violators.

Recognizing widespread disagreement on the dangers of marijuana, Ingersoll said the department believes there is a need for more knowledge on its effects and endorses a proposal by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-

Two Gangs Stage Brief Marin City Gun Battle

A brief gun battle, evidently between two groups composed largely of San Franciscans, erupted in Marin City last night, but the exchange ended sharply when one side fled.

Two groups, one inside 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 3, and the other outside, hidden behind bushes and cars, traded gunfire, but the outside group fled shortly after sheriff's deputies arrived.

Nine persons were arrested and one man was wounded slightly.

The trouble reportedly started after the group from San Francisco beat a Marin City man, but the sheriff's office today said it had no information on the cause.

Reportedly, the persons inside the building were attempting to retaliate when they fired from the second story apartment. The men who allegedly did the beating fired back and fled, according to unconfirmed reports.

One deputy, who said the cause was unknown, admitted he had heard "there was a disturbance earlier" but deputies had not been wanted.

About a dozen heavily armed deputies surrounded the building at 419 Drake shortly after 6 p.m. and called for the persons inside to surrender.

About 10 minutes later, deputies said, a white rag was waved from the window and the nine came out.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, discharging a firearm and conspiracy, were Jerry Ray Wade, 19, of 105 Shaver Street, San Rafael, and Hayward L. Coleman, 18, Henry McGee, 21, Harry Lee Shorter, 23, Harker Shorter, 19, and Iraminter Shorter, 22, all of San Francisco.

Booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of the same penal code sections were Gloria Jones, 16, of 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 3, and Joe Garrett, 16, and Carl Shorter, 16, both of San Francisco, deputies said.

Gregory Graham, 19, of 409 Drake Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a superficial wound in the forehead, possibly caused by a bullet.

The six persons booked into County Jail were held on bail of $6,250 each to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Vietnam Cease-Fire Plan Rumored In Nixon Speech

The President may propose the cease-fire during his Nov. 3 address to the nation on the Vietnam situation, a White House source said yesterday. (See moratorium story, page 6.)

Indications Nixon may, in fact, have been affected by opposition to the war expressed in last Wednesday's Vietnam Moritorium Day piled up as the President spent the weekend huddled with his top military and diplomatic advisers at Camp David.

And former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who last week emerged from a meeting with Nixon to endorse his Vietnam policy, said in Tokyo he is sure the United States will carry out "a systematical and accelerated withdrawal of U.S. forces" from South Vietnam.

The White House cautioned today against advance speculation on the Nov. 3 speech.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegeler said there will be no official or authorized discussion about the speech or any speculation on what it will cover from the White House, the State Department or the Defense Department in advance of delivery.

It will be a review of the entire Vietnam situation, Ziegler said, but he declined to comment on speculation such as reports that Nixon may propose a unilateral cease-fire or announce additional withdrawal of some 300,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Humphrey was among a number of prominent figures—in and out of the administration—who spoke out on Vietnam over the weekend.

According to Newsweek Magazine, Nixon has been urged by his military advisers to proclaim a U.S.-initiated cease fire so enemy violations could be used "as evidence of the enemy's reluctance to end the war."

The advisers feel, the magazine said, a unilateral cease-fire "would create no great risk to U.S. troops in the field."

The White House source said Nixon could be expected to announce such a cease-fire during his Vietnam address or, by not mentioning it, signal to Hanoi the idea has been rejected.

The President conferred over the weekend at the Maryland retreat with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin P. Laird, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his national security adviser, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

Humphrey said when he talked about troop withdrawals with Nixon he had "encouraged the President to give it all possible support on the executive level."

In Washington, Sen. Fred Harris, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, called for speeded up troop

Storm Laurie Heads To Louisiana Coast

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tropical storm Laurie whistled across the Gulf of Mexico toward Louisiana's vulnerable coastline with near-hurricane force winds today.

After a night of little intensification or movement, Laurie picked up speed and resumed its path to the north-northwest. Winds were 60 to 70 miles per hour.

"Laurie is expected to move toward the north-northwest at 8 to 10 miles per hour and reach hurricane force this afternoon," the Weather Bureau said in its 11 a.m. (CDT) advisory. The Weather Bureau also forecast a change to a more northerly course tonight.

An Air Force reconnaisance plane reported Laurie, which was a poorly organized mass of squalls and showers early this morning, had intensified and was better organized late this morning.

Meanwhile, a helpless tanker wallowing in seas whipped by Laurie was taken in tow for a hazardous trek toward calmer Gulf of Mexico waters.

Coast Guard officials said the cutter Diligence was plowing through 10-foot seas toward Tampa with the disabled Mission Santa Cruz.

A spokesman said the towing operation was dangerous because of the high seas, wind gusts "and especially because the Diligence is half the length" of the fuel-filled Mission Santa Cruz.

The Mission Santa Cruz lost power yesterday when her boiler tubes ruptured. She was enroute to Newport, R.I., from Corpus Christi, Tex.

Deputy Testifies Of Seeing Kennedy Car 'After' Accident

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A deputy sheriff testified today that he had seen Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile in which Mary Jo Kopechne died approximately an hour after the time Kennedy said it had gone off a bridge and overturned in a pond.

Christopher Look Jr. of Dukes County, Mass., told a hearing on a petition by a Massachusetts prosecutor for an autopsy on Miss Kopechne's body that he was heading home from work early on the morning of July 19 when he saw a black sedan.

Look said "there were two persons in the front seat and possibly another person or some object in the back" when the car drove past him and came to a stop.

"I got out of my car and as I approached the taillights shown on my uniform. The time was about 12:45 a.m. on the morning of July 19."

Look said that as he approached the car, "it suddenly took off and went down Dike Road toward the bridge and the beach.

Look was among the first witnesses to testify before Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court as the hearing opened.

"Did you have any conversation with anyone in that car?" Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., asked Look.

"No, sir!" Look replied.

"Did you cry out to anyone in that car?"

"No, sir!" Look said.

Look said he observed the license plate of the car, that it bore a Massachusetts registration, that the first letter was "L" and that "there were some 7s in it."

Kennedy's license plate number was L78207.

Kennedy, when he reported the accident, said it had occurred before midnight July 18.

Look testified he was at the scene of the accident when the partially submerged car was pulled from the water.

"The instant I saw the registration, I went to a police officer and I told him that's the same car I had seen previously the night before at approximately 12:45 on Chappaquiddick road," Look said.

Another witness, John N. Farrar, a 33-year-old scuba diver from Edgartown, described how he had brought Miss Kopechne's body to the surface.

Earlier, the judge refused to allow statements made by Kennedy to be introduced in evidence.

Police Chief Dominick J. Arena of Edgartown, Mass., the first witness at the hearing on a petition by a Massachusetts prosecutor to exhume the body of the 28-year-old former secretary, told the court that he had taken a statement from Kennedy.

AMC Agrees To Purchase Kaiser Jeep

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors announced today it has agreed to buy Kaiser Jeep Corp. for $80 million.

The agreement was announced jointly by AMC and Kaiser Industries Corp.

The agreement calls for payment of $10 million in cash, $10 million in AMC's negotiable five-year notes and 5.5 million shares of American Motors Capital stock which is currently selling for about $11 a share.

The $10 million in negotiable notes is subject to adjustment following an audit of Kaiser Jeep, AMC said. A definite agreement on the purchase is being written, AMC said, and will be subject to approval by board of directors of both firms.

"American Motors and Kaiser Jeep manufacture noncompetitive product lines with complementary management and dealer organizations," the AMC announcement said. "American Motors produces a board line of passenger vehicles in a wide range of price classes, and Kaiser Jeep specializes in the manufacture of a line of four-wheel drive pleasure and utility vehicles and heavy duty military and government vehicles."

Through Saturday, Kaiser had produced more than 73,000 trucks this year. During the same period AMC had built about 215,450 cars.

New York Hails The Championship Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The victorious Mets rode up lower Broadway's "Canyon of Heroes" today for a delirious official reception at city hall marking Mets Day in New York.

Manager Gil Hodges led the parade of open convertibles which transported the members of the amazin' baseball team from the Battery through a blizzard of tickertape and confetti to city hall. Hodges was so infected by the enthusiasm poured on his team that he frequently grabbed confetti and threw it into the air himself.

The Mets' fans repeatedly broke through police lines to surround the motorcade. They screamed, hugged and kissed their favorite players, demanded autographs, and waggled signs, most of which read, "Mets, We Love You!" Some placed wreaths around the Mets' necks.

A boisterous crowd of 5,000 jammed City Hall Plaza to greet the Mets at noon under a welcome banner that had been painted on the back of one used for the recent welcome of the moon astronauts.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who was accompanied by Mrs. Lindsay and Mets owner Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, slapped the players on the back and told them:

"For eight years, New York has loved a ball team that wasn't always easy to love, But today, it's all changed. Because today they're number one."

Last 24 Hours Bring A Hike In Vietnam Activity

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting increased sharply in the past 24 hours in Vietnam, with 197 enemy troops reported killed, but a U.S. spokesman said activity "is still at a relatively low level."

Seven Americans and six South Vietnamese were reported killed in seven clashes scattered across the country from the Mekong Delta to the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang. Sixteen Americans and 21 South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

The heaviest fighting raged deep in the Mekong Delta 142 miles southwest of Saigon. There, 400 South Vietnamese troops supported by American helicopter gunships reported killing 96 Viet Cong. It was the biggest battle of the year for the South Vietnamese.

The South Vietnamese said six of their men were killed and 16 wounded in the five-hour fight in the U Minh Forest, a swampy area of tall trees and undergrowth used by the Viet Cong as a major military base. copter gunship was shot down and destroyed during the fighting and one crewman was wounded. Another U.S. helicopter was shot down and destroyed 30 miles northwest of Saigon, and again one American was wounded.

This raised to 5,993 the total number of U.S. helicopters and fixed-wing planes reported lost in the war. There have been 3,113 helicopters reported lost and 2,880 fixed-wing aircraft.

North Vietnamese troops bombarded a 50-man U.S.-South Vietnamese platoon with mortars before dawn Sunday 63 miles southeast of Da Nang, rocket grenades. Five Americans were killed and five wounded out of the 14-man Marine squad in the platoon. Three government militiamen were wounded, and at least four of the enemy were reported killed.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported a terrorist bomb attack and the mining of a bus that killed five civilians and wounded 37 other persons, 29 of them civilians.

The U.S. Command reported in a weekly summary that American troop strength dropped by about 4,000 men last week for the second successive week reflecting the withdrawal of 35,000 troops that began last month. The summary said that as of last Thursday, 501,900 U.S. troops were in Vietnam, compared to 505,600 the previous week.

As part of the withdrawal, the largest pullout of American air forces to date is under way, sending 67 Marine planes and helicopters to Okinawa, along with 785 airmen.

Composer Of 'Zorba' Score Sent To Prison

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Miki Theodorakis, who composed the music for the movie "Zorba the Greek," has been sent to a prison camp by the military-backed Greek government, according to reports circulating here.

Theodorakis, regarded as a leftist by the government, had been banished to a mountain village with his wife and two children a year ago.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Is Reassigned

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — An Air Force captain from San Francisco who participated in a Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstration has had an official reprimand placed on his record and is being reassigned to a base in Kansas, official sources said yesterday.

Capt. David I. Greenly, 27, was on hand at the U.S. embassy during "a silent vigil for peace" Wednesday along with his wife and agroup of Peace Corps workers. Greenly is a doctor at the Ankara American Hospital.

The local U.S. commander had issued an order putting the demonstration off limits to U.S. military personnel.

Greenly was reassigned to McConnell Air Force Base at Wichita.

Change In Seoul

SEOUL (AP) — Premier Chung Il-kwon, his cabinet and two other high government officials resigned today to clear the way for President Chung Hee Park to remold the government.

It had been widely speculated that Park would reorganize the cabinet if he won the referendum last Friday on a constitutional amendment to allow him to run for a third term in 1971. The vote was nearly 2 to 1 in his favor.

In addition to the cabinet, resignations were submitted by Kim Hyung-Wook, director of the powerful Central Intelligence Agency, and Chief Presidential Secretary Lee Hu-Rak.

Kims' secret police are under constant attack from opposition parties, which claim their chief function is to keep tabs on opposition to the government. Lee was considered one of the president's most influential advisers.

Bolivia Crisis

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — President Alfredo Ovando ordered all Bolivian businesses and government offices closed today. Speculation was that he hoped to gain time to prevent money from flowing out of the country because of his nationalization of Bolivia Gulf, a U.S.-owned petroleum company.

There also were reports that Ovando's military regime would suspend foreign exchange trading to prevent devaluation of the peso. The present exchange rate is 12 pesos to one U.S. dollar.

Banks in the country were closed last Friday.

Mail Strike

ROME (AP) — Millions of letters, packages and postcards piled up in Italian post offices today as mailmen went out on a four-day strike. It was the first of a series of walkouts that will affect more than five million Italian workers this week.

The mailmen struck for two days last week, delaying delivery of an estimated 13.5 million letters and 230,000 parcels. Post office officials and unions said after the four-day walkout, it would take two weeks to get deliveries back to normal.

The mailmen will be joined by other postal workers in a nationwides trike Oct. 23-24. All the workers demand a reduction in working hours and the hiring of more personnel.

Runoff In France

PARIS (AP) — Five former Gaullist cabinet ministers easily gained National Assembly seats in special elections yesterday. But former Premier Maurice Couve de Murville must enter a runoff.

Couve de Murville polled only 41 per cent of the vote against a centrist and scattering of leftists. He is expected to win the runoff next Sunday.

The other five Gaullists polled 62 per cent or more. They are Pierre Messmer, longtime defense minister; Edgar Faure, former education minister; Jean Chamant, once minister of transport; Joel le Theule, ex-information minister, and Pierre Dumas, a junior minister of social affairs until last June.

Trade Vow

GABARONE, Botswana (AP) — President Seretse Khama, elected Saturday to a second term, indicates he will try to loosen Botsmana's strong trade ties with South Africa and Rhodesia, its powerful white-ruled neighbors.

Khama said he would strive for trade "interdependence" although the geographic position and trade patterns established while the country was the British protectorate of Bechuanaland make Botswana "pretty well dependent" on South Africa. The country has South Africa, South-West Africa and Rhodesia on three sides.

Hanoi In A New Anti-U.S. Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — North Vietnam vowed again today that the people of North and South Vietnam will fight on until all U.S. troops are removed from Vietnam.

North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong and Premier Alexei Kosygin signed a joint communique after a week of talks. It said:

"Carrying into life the behests of Ho Chi Minh, the people of South Vietnam, together with their compatriots in the North of the country, relying on the support of all progressive forces of the world, are determined to carry forward their armed political and diplomatic struggle until the national aspirations of the Vietnamese people are fully satisfied and until Vietnamese soil is cleared of the American aggressors and their henchmen."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Moscow "stated its readiness to continue the necessary assistance to the Vietnamese people in their struggle for the liberation of South Vietnam, in defense of North Vietnam and for the peaceful reunification of the homeland."

The 1970 military and economic aid agreement, signed Wednesday, called for Moscow to send Hanoi an undisclosed amount of arms, ammunition, other military equipment, food, oil, metals, cloth, medicine and other supplies. Washington has estimated the value of previous Soviet aid to Hanoi at more than $1 billion a year.

The Soviet Union in turn insisted on "the full and unconditional withdrawal" of U.S. troops and their allies from South Vietnam.

The communique said Moscow fully supports the positions of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and its creation, the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

The communique said Pham Van Dong left today. He was scheduled to stop in Peking en route home.

Zucker will outline the work of his 28-man staff and the programs and budget figures of his department for the past four years.

Supervisors will then go into another closed meeting to discuss charges against Dr. Clyde G. Miller, director of community mental health services, and Dr. Donald P. Wilson, director of the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital.

In the afternoon, the supervisors will appoint three from among six nominees to the board of directors of Fair-Marin. The six are Stephen A. Zellerbach, Dudley F. Miller, R. H. Miehling, Thomas Foris, Stanto Nash and Mrs. R. S. O'Connor.

County Administrator Alan Bruce will report on citizen complaints that Miller used county funds to mail documents in his defense in the current controversy between himself and Wilson. "There is nothing in the package distributed which can be construed as self-servicing or as personal defense of Dr. Miller on personal questions," said Bruce.

Supervisors will review the workable program for community improvement, a document prepared by the planning department to qualify the county for federal housing funds and discuss a priority list of highway projects to be recommended to the State Highway Commission.

The board also is expected to reject a $25,000 claim by Glenn E. Sykes of Corte Madera for stab wounds he suffered at Manzanita School in Marin City last Nov. 8 when he was attacked while picking up his daughter, a teacher's aide at the school.

Sykes alleged that the county and the county superintendent of schools office allowed dangerous conditions on the school premises and failed to provide adequate lighting.

Pipe Wrench Burglar Hits A Hub Business

A burglar armed with a pipe wrench stole office machines valued at $805 from a San Anselmo firm Saturday, then apparently was frightened off while burgling a doctor's office, San Anselmo police reported.

At 9:30 p.m., Dr. John E. Dumon entered his office at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and found office equipment piled on the reception room couch. As he went through the office, Dr. Dumon heard noises at the rear of the office, evidently the burglar escaping, police said.

Dr. Dumon found nothing missing, but the rear door had been forced, the burglar using a pipe wrench to twist the doorknob and break it.

Almost simultaneously, a policeman on patrol at 9:35 p.m. found the door to Scottish and Newcastle Importers, 412 Red Hill Avenue, had been forced open in the same way. Missing were a typewriter and an adding machine.

Cache Of Sleeping Pills Brings Youth's Arrest

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was booked into Marin County Jail early yesterday after sheriff's deputies reported they found a cache of Seconal in his glove compartment.

Dennis Joseph Taylor, 18, of 145 Mabry Way, was booked on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and possession for sale, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and being drunk.

Deputies said they discovered Taylor with two juvenile girls parked on Civic Center Drive about 12:30 a.m. yesterday. The trio appeared to be intoxicated deputies said.

Officers placed them under arrest and discovered the pills in a search of the car.

One of the girls, a 16-year-old from San Rafael, could not be roused and she was taken to Marin General Hospital, where she was revived and then taken to the mental health center, deputies said.

Three of the pills were found in her pocket and she was arrested for possession of dangerous drugs and curfew violation.

The other girl, a 15-year-old from Terra Linda, was cited for curfew violation.

Taylor was released on $1,250 bail to appear at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Conn., for a study into marijuana usage.

The new proposal would make a second conviction a felony with penalties of up to two years in prison and a $10,000 fine, with comparable higher sentences for marijuana sellers.

The new administration stand represents a victory for governmental health officials who publicly disagreed with the more stringent stand taken by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In his September testimony, the attorney general proposed that marijuana be put in the same category with such hard drugs as heroin with a possession conviction resulting in a two to 10-year jail sentence, a maximum $20,000 fine, or both.

turns, looked at his financial statements, and his statements to senators, and had considered reports of the Justice Department and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Nixon disputed opposition contentions that Haynsworth should have disqualified himself in cases involving litigants who were customers of a firm in which the nominee held stock. He said Haynsworth in no instance was influenced by the stock ownership and that the American Bar Association also took this position.

If stock ownership were to be considered, he said, probably half of the federal judges would be impeached, including Supreme Court justices.

The President took issue, too, with contentions that Haynsworth had a substantial interest in litigation in a case before his court.

Fire Hits USO Club In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Two explosions and a fire roared through the American USO club in downtown Saigon early Tuesday (Saigon time) causing extensive damage and forcing scores of Vietnamese to flee from nearby apartments.

There was no immediate report of deaths or injuries in the fire that broke out about midnight with a massive blast, apparently caused by propane gas exploding in the service club kitchen.

The explosion was heard throughout downtown Saigon and attracted hundreds of persons into the streets despite the curfew.

200,000 Gallons Of Water Lost In Break

Some 200,000 gallons of water cascaded through Stinson Beach early yesterday caused by a fire hydrant broken from its pipe by an unknown driver of a car about midnight, reported George P. Leonard, owner of the Stinson Beach Water Company.

The damaged hydrant on Lincoln Avenue, above the business section, was not discovered until 5 a.m., Leonard said. There half-million gallons of water were at hand and service is back to normal today.

withdrawals and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said United Nations Secretary-General U Thant should negotiate a political settlement of the war.

Harris spoke on the NBC radio-television program "Meet the Press" and Muskie appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Harris said Nixon has acknowledged the war can't be won militarily and added that the President "ought to get about getting us out of it on a much more rapid and systematic basis.

"I think the key word is systematic," the Oklahoma Democrat said. "It's by that way that we can signal Hanoi and signal Saigon in a meaningful way that we are on the way to allowing the people of South Vietnam to achieve self determination."

Muskie said U Thant would be "a natural" to get the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—together on a coalition government for South Vietnam.

"He's an Asian himself," Muskie said. "He knows the area—is known there. And he knows how to move in an Asian situation of this kind."

And Sweden's new prime minister, Olof Palme, in an interview Sunday, defended his country's humanitarian aid to North Vietnam and asserted that in the South "the NLF at present is more representative of the aspirations of the Vietnamese people than the junta in Saigon."

The prime minister was interviewed in Stockholm for the CBS program "Face the Nation," broadcast yesterday from Washington.

The Saigon government also came under attack from Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., who has proposed that Congress require a complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam by Dec. 1, 1970.

Nitrogen Jet Engine Tested

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass reported today that Soviet scientists are testing an experimental jet engine which uses nitrogen for fuel and may be capable of use on "superfast" airliners flying in the upper atmosphere.

Tass said new tests of "automatic apparatuses" aboard "flying laboratories"—apparently protoypes of the engine—achieved "an unprecedentedly high speed of the flow of a jet gas stream in flight—120 kilometers per second." This is about 75 miles a second.

Tass did not say when or where the tests were conducted.

College Student Body Officers Hit Rafferty

Student body officers from nine Bay Area Colleges, meeting at the College of Marin on Saturday, passed resolutions condemning Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, and the Regents of the University of California.

About 100 student leaders, representing Area 7 of the California Junior College Association attended. Present were student officers from Chabot, Diablo Valley, Contra Costa, Redwoods, Laney, Merritt, Napa, Santa Rosa, Solano and Marin.

The resolution condemning Rafferty for his "Operation Turn-off," a program of student locker searches to find concealed drugs, drew cheers and whistles from the young people and passed 9-0.

The students also voted to censure the Regents for their handling of the Angela Davis case. Miss Davis, a philosophy teacher at the University of California at Los Angeles was first fired because she is a member of the Communist Party, then permitted to lecture noncredit courses.

The students leaders asked that teachers in the state be judged on the basis of "their academic ability, not their political beliefs."

A resolution censuring Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed budget cuts for higher education was met with cheers.

By a 6-1 vote, with Diablo Valley opposed and two colleges, Chabot and Napa abstaining, the students voted to support the planned November Moratorium and urged immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam.

The students passed 20 resolutions which will be voted on at the November state convention of the state-wide junior college association.

Other Resolutions Passed Included:

DRAFT COUNSELOR — Establishment of a draft counselor, to be salaried by the state association, on every junior college campus.

ANTICENSORSHIP — No censorship of student publications, either by faculty or administration.

BOARD REPRESENTATION — Election of a student, with voting privileges, to sit on each junior college board of trustees.

NEW CLASSES — Classes in ecological and environmental studies for all colleges.

POLITICAL GROUPS — Establishment fo a political group, including representatives of political organization on every campus. The group would discuss and make recommendations on all educational and political questions affecting students.

VOTING AGE — Immediate action to lower the voting age to 18.

Draft Guess Game Likely In Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's draft lottery system — if it passes Congress — is sure to bring out a talent among the country's 18-year-olds for figuring mathematical probabilities.

Critics say the plan will leave most young men guessing about just when they might be called the following year and their chances for escaping the draft entirely.

But armed with a few basic figures those guesses can get pretty close. And some men won't have to guess at all.

The plan for drafting 19-year-olds first on a lottery basis is likely to pass the House late this week. It is still an open question in the Senate.

The 365 birthdates for the following year would be drawn out of a fish bowl at a public lottery in late September or early October each year.

There's little guesswork for able-bodied men whose 19th birthdays fall on the first dates drawn: they'll be among the first men called early the next year.

And men with birthdays on the last 150 or more dates drawn will likely escape the draft entirely.

Everybody else will have to take out his scratchpad and pencil and start figuring the odds on the basis of the number of men in the draft pool and the rate at which they're being called up each month.

If the system were in effect now, as Selective Service officials explain it, 18-year-olds would figure there would be something like 600,000 available for the draft next year after rejects and deferments.

Draft calls hopefully will drop off to something like 200,000 from this year's 300,000 plus.

That would mean men with birthdays on the last 200 or so dates drawn in the lottery would likely escape the draft and those with the first 100 birthdates drawn would probably be called. The remaining 65 birthdates would be borderline cases.

The callups vary from month to month but a man who drew the 100th date could figure he'd be called near the end of the year, a man who drew 50 would probably be called about mid-year.

Students and technical people getting deferments would draw their draft eligibility placement for their 19th years like everyone else and would come back into the draft pool with that same placement when their deferments ended four years later.

All this is how the lottery system is to work when it is well established.

Secret War In Laos Will Be Scrutinized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, declaring it a "travesty" to deny that Americans are fighting and dying in Laos, today began a week-long effort to plumb the depths of U.S. involvement in that shadowy Asian nation.

The Missouri Democrat is chairman of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee which has called Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and other top officials to testify behind closed doors.

Some of the witnesses will be soldiers and civilians summoned home from Laos just to testify.

Although the hearings are closed, Symington has promised to make the record public as soon as possible and has indicated there may be open hearings later.

The main question Symington has set out to answer is deceptively simple: Are an increasing number of Americans fighting and dying in a war that may become another Vietnam?

"To deny there is fighting is a travesty, when not only the enemy but also the American participants, including those who are casualties and some of their families, know the truth," Symington said in a statement.

The senator said trips to Laos by subcommittee aides and members convinced him "the secrecy surrounding our relations with that country has gone on far too long."

"If whatever we have done is right, the American people deserve to know it," he said. "If whatever has been done is wrong the secrecy can only compound that wrong rather than right it."

The hearings into Laos are part of a broad look at American commitments abroad which the subcommittee began earlier this month with closed sessions on the Philippines.

Although the Symington hearings are the first formal inquiry into the U.S. involvement in Laos, people have been asking questions for years.

It is known that U.S. carrier-based jets were bombing Communist-led forces there five years ago. When the U.S. build-up in Vietnam started Air Force jets joined in the pounding of Laos and North Vietnam.

Nearly 100 U.S. fliers have been lost over Laos.

THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the news that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," is the way one of our buyers put it.

Spirit Queen Crowning Will Cap Drake's Homecoming Events

Crowning on Friday of the Spirit Queen and a dance Saturday will climax Sir Francis Drake High School's homecoming week which opens today on the San Anselmo school's campus.

Six full days of special events highlight the annual homecoming observance.

Each member of the student body was scheduled to bring a flower to school today to decorate the campus. In addition, a bicycle race was also scheduled.

Tomorrow's schedule has the senior members of the varsity football team being auctioned off as slaves with the proceeds going to the Mexican school aid program.

Wednesday, students and teachers will meet in study sessions to discuss school problems.

Thursday, the slaves will wear bizarre costumes planned for them by their masters for the day. Also on Thursday will be the annual Powderpuff football game pitting the upper classmen against the freshmen and sophomores.

Friday will be marked by a jam session, spirit rally, parade and the homecoming game against San Marin High School.

Seven girls are seeking the spirit queen honor. They are Linda Everson, Theresa Carlisle, Mo Champie, Sally Helms, Pamela Murray, Marianne Soldavini and Christine King.

Hospital Land To Be Sought

Developer Paul Golis and attorney Maurice Fredericks are expected to ask the Rohnert Park City Council tonight to donate six acres of land for a hospital site.

Golis and Fredericks are also expected to urge the council to form a seven-member committee to plan medical facilities in the area.

The council will also hear a presentation from John Henman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, on plans to have the organization become automomous through membership dues.

Henman is expected to ask the council to do away with the business license tax since the annual chamber allocation would not be necessary.

Agnew Attacks Viet Moratorium

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Backers of Nixon administration Vietnam policy, led by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, have launched a counter-offensive against effects of last Wednesday's Vietnam Moratorium Day and those planned for days ahead. (See related war policy story, page 1.)

Agnew yesterday blasted leaders of the antiwar protest movement as "hard-core dissidents and professional anarchists" who are being encouraged by "an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals."

But like President Richard M. Nixon's promise that he would not be affected by demonstrations against the war, Agnew's attacks were likely to spur Moratorium leaders to greater efforts.

"We think that it would be un-American and immoral to stop our actions now," said Jerome Grossman, a stationery manufacturer from the Boston suburb of Newton and one of the Moratorium's earliest organizers.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed in Long Beach, that Americans demonstrate in support of U.S. troops in Vietnam on Nov. 11—Veterans Day.

And Gen. William Westmoreland, former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said American fighting men were disillusioned and disappointed by the Oct. 15 call for an immediate withdrawal from the southeast Asian country.

"My guess is that the vast majority of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam are rather disappointed to see this development," said Westmoreland, now Army chief of staff, at a news conference in Brownwood, Tex.

The vice president, apparently selected to be the administration's spokesman on antiwar protests, said last Wednesday's demonstrations served only "as an emotional purgative for those who feel the need to cleanse themselves of their lack of ability to offer a constructive solution to the problem.

"Unfortunately, we have not seen the end. The hard-core dissidents and professional anarchists within the so-called peace movement will continue to exacerbate the situation," Agnew said at a Republican fund-raising dinner in New Orleans.

Goldwater, claiming "the majority of responsible Americans" support the President's Vietnam policy, said Veterans Day demonstration—coming just two days before the second round of antiwar activities are scheduled to begin—would be "not only fitting but, I believe, entirely necessary."

Grossman said Moratorium Day planners hoped to focus on local activities rather than large, central rallies during November.

He said local committees will urge congressmen to return home to discuss Vietnam with their constituents. Various groups have planned activities for Nov. 13, 14 and 15—with one group calling for a massive demonstration in Washington Nov. 15.

"We hope that President Nixon in his speech on Nov. 3 will accede to the expressed desire of the American people for an immediate end to the war," Grossman said. "If he does, we will fold our tents, and be happy to go back to our 'business as usual' activities.

"But we think that it would be un-American and immoral to stop our activities now," he said.

Fill Control Ordinance Hearing Set

All owners of property along shorelines and waterways in Marin will be affected by a proposed new ordinance to control filling, excavating or building on tidal waterways and wetlands.

The ordinance, entitled "Protection of Tidal Waterways," will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission next Monday on the third floor of the Civic Center administration building.

Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning in the county planning department, said those interested in the hearing should call the planning department at Civic Center on Friday to get the approximate time of the hearing.

Under the proposed ordinance, major fills and excavations would be under the jurisdiction of the planning commission while minor fills and excavations would come before a fill committee. The planning staff proposes that the fill committee be composed of the public works director, planning director and the director of parks and recreation.

The ordinance would take the place of several other existing regulations. If approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, these other regulations such as the Richardson Bay fill regulations and the Tomales Bay interim ordinance could be repealed.

Top McCormack Aide Denies Stock Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said today his suspended top aide denied taking any money for arranging a meeting about a stock case before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

McCormack said the aide, Martin Sweig, made an appointment for the meeting at the SEC and attended the session.

"He told me he just went there and didn't participate in the meeting in any way," the speaker told a news conference. "He said he was looking at the pictures on the wall. He admitted he made a serious error in judgment."

McCormack announced Sweig's suspension last Thursday after his administrative assistant was named in an SEC complaint as having interceded in the stock case along with Nathan Voloshen, a long-time McCormack friend.

The complaint said Voloshen was retained by Parvin-Dohrmann Co., to try to lift a ban ordered by the SEC on the sale of its stock. The complaint said Sweig arranged a meeting with the SEC for Voloshen, who was paid $50,000 by Parvin-Dohrmann for his efforts.

"Did you ask Mr. Sweig if he took any money from Mr. Voloshen," McCormack was asked.

"Yes I did," the Speaker replied. "He (Sweig) denied it emphatically."

In the SEC suit, which accuses a group of Parvin-Dohrmann stockholders of fraudulent activities in taking over the firm last year.

McCormack said he suspended Sweig because he had always told those associated with him: "I did not want them to make any appointment with any sensitive departments. That has been my policy for years."

"At the appropriate time, when I have obtained all the facts," McCormack said, "I will take such further action as is warranted. In the meantime, I want to point out that under our system of government, a man is assumed innocent until proven guilty."

McCormack, in response to questions, said he has "no interest, directly or indirectly" in the Parvin-Dohrmann firm.

McCormack said he has known Voloshen at least 10 years and described their friendship as "a public one, as distinguished from a personal or private friendship."

However, McCormack said when he learned several weeks ago that Voloshen was under investigation "I told him that I did not want him to come into my office any more."

Wrecks of five Civil War blockade runners have been found off the South Carolina coast.

East Germans Skyjack Plane, Given Asylum

BERLIN (AP) — Two East German hijackers were granted asylum in West Germany yesterday, and the Polish airliner they commandeered at gunpoint returned to the eastern zone with its other 63 passengers and nine crewmen.

The two men, described only as being in their early 20s, stepped from the plane at Tegel Field, in the French sector of Berlin, seconds after landing and said they were defecting. One had a pistol in his hand.

Witnesses at the field said two Communist MIGs shadowed the Lot Airlines plane, a four-engine Ilyushin 18, as it made its approach but "it landed anyway," a policeman said.

There were unconfirmed reports that a crew member was injured slightly by the hijackers when they commandeered the plane over East Berlin.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said airmen in the Tegel control center had no idea that the plane was about to land.

"He came out of nowhere," the spokesman said, "then he just landed. There was no voice communications with him. He flew a very irregular pattern."

The Polish government television service said "two armed individuals" forced their way into the pilot's cabin and terrorized the crew. It said the pilot notified the Warsaw airport of the hijacking immediately after the two entered the cabin.

The flight originated at Warsaw, was scheduled to stop in East Berlin and then Brussels.

The plane stayed three hours in West Berlin, then flew to East Berlin's Schenefeld Airport. Another Polish airliner picked up the Brussels passengers there and flew them to the Belgian capital.

One American was reported among the passengers, but he was not identified.

At the Berlin Wall, another East German escaped by climbing the 10-foot barrier as East German border guards fired at him with machine pistols.

Identified as a 34-year-old East Berliner, he came through the hail of bullets untouched, but injured his legs when he dropped into West Berlin. He was taken to a hospital.

Stabbed Body Of 2-Year-Old Girl Is Found

LOS GATOS (AP) — A neighbor found the stabbed body of a baby girl in a vineyard last night 90 minutes after her parents had reported her missing.

Santa Clara County sheriff's deputies quoted other neighbors as saying a tall man about 20 years old wearing a T-shirt was seen sprinting from the area moments before the discovery.

The child was Shelly Holmboe, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Holmboe.

Deputies said they had no clues but were checking to determine if there was any connection with the death and the killings of Deborah Furlong, 14, and Kathy Snoozy, 15, whose stabbed bodies were found in nearby San Jose Aug. 3.

They said they also were checking to see if there was any connection with the deaths of five San Francisco Bay Area persons whom a phantom writer named Zodiac counts as his murder victims.

Tip Of Arab Bomb Aboard Israeli Ship

LONDON (AP) — Police and customs officials in all British ports have orders to search all arriving Israeli ships. The orders came from the London Port Authority which said it learned an Israeli ship headed for Britain might be carrying a bomb planted by an Arab.

The name of the ship was not announced. Officials said Scotland Yard relayed the bomb warning after receiving a tip from Israeli intelligence.

The only Israeli vessel to arrive this weekend was the Zim Line's 2,325-ton freighter Kineret. She was searched after she docked in London Saturday but no bomb was found. Arab terrorist set off a bomb at Zim's London office in August.

A Zim spokesman in the Israeli port of Haifa said the line's 4,000-ton Rachel, on its way to London with a crew of 24, was searched yesterday for a bomb but none was found.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli government spokesman and the Israeli command said they had no knowledge of the bomb report.

One report said Israeli intelligence was trying to contact other Israeli ships at sea and tell them to start searches for bombs.

Copter Cable Breaks, But Three Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three youths being rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter after their raft ran into shoals plunged 25 feet into San Francisco Bay yesterday when the hoist cable on the copter broke.

The Coast Guard said it was the first time to their knowledge that a Coast Guard hoist-basket cable ever had broken during a rescue.

Mike Henry, 22, and Danny Thomas, 11, had cuts on the arms and legs and were taken to the Public Health Service Hospital for a checkup of a complaint of back injuries. Ronnie Stewart, 13, was unhurt. All are from San Francisco.

The Coast Guard said the Stewart boy swam back to rocks from where he was picked up in a basket hoist by a second helicopter.

The other two were fished from the water where Henry was keeping the Thomas boy from sinking. The first helicopter landed in the water to get them.

The after-dark operation near the foot of Carroll Street was helped by headlights from automobiles parked on the shore.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the hoist-basket cable is tested out to support a dead weight of 600 pounds, which is more than the weight of the rescued trio. He said a Coast Guard board would investigate.

The prie-dieu on which President Dwight D. Eisenhower kneeled when he was baptized, after becoming President, will be housed in the Chapel of the Presidents in the new National Presbyterian Church and Center in Washington, D.C.

Czech Brass Gets Hearty Airport Fete

MOSCOW (AP) —The three top Czechoslovak leaders arrived here today for a big Kremlin welcome, including a 21-salvo artillery salute, designed to show approval for the recent purge of Prague liberals.

Communist Party chief Gustav Husak, who replaced liberal reformer Alexander Dubcek last spring under Soviet pressure, Premier Oldrich Cernik and President Ludvik Svoboda stepped from their plane at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport to what Tass, the Soviet news agency, described as a hearty welcome.

The airport was decked with flags of both countries, a band played the Soviet and Czechoslovak national anthems, and a 21-salvo artillery salute was fired to mark their arrival, Tass said.

With Svoboda, Husak and Cernik were top members of the Prague leadership. They included Lubomir Strougal, a party secretary and chief of the regional Czech party; Vasil Bilak, a party secretary, and Stefan Sadovsky, chief of the regional Slovak party. All three are members of the party's ruling Presidium.

Food Stand Amendment Introduced

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A bill to allow elderly persons to exchange food stamps under certain circumstances for meals perpared and served by nonprofit organizations has been introduced by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

The bill would amend the Food Stamp Act of 1964 to authorize the secretary of agriculture to designate specific church, and other charitable groups, to accept food stamps in exchange for prepared meals.

Under the present act, persons who otherwise meet age, residency and income requirements are not eligible for food stamps if they do not have cooking facilities. The effect of the present act, Clausen said, is to deny food stamps to physically handicapped or sick persons unable to shop or prepare their own food.

Artificial Sweetener In 15 Pct. Of Drinks

CHICAGO (AP) — The major producer of cyclamate says 15 per cent of all soft drinks sold in the United States in 1968 contained the artificial sweetener which has been banned by the federal government.

Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago, which manufactured more than half the cyclamate used in this country, said yesterday it had stopped producing the sweetener "pending further discussions."

Millions of weight-conscious Americans will have to turn to new low-calorie nourishment. The artificial sweetener has been widely used in about $1 billion worth of foodstuffs sold annually—not only soft drinks but canned fruits and vegetables, ice cream, cookies and diet mixtures.

A spokesman for Pillsbury Co. in Minneapolis said the firm would replace cyclamate with other sweeteners in its no-calorie and low-calorie lines.

One soft drink manufacturer —PepsiCo—announced that it would soon start marketing a cyclamate-free diet drink with only one-sixth the calories of Pepsi-Cola.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has banned the sale of cyclamate sweetened beverages as of Jan. 1, and of other foodstuffs containing the substance as of Feb. 1.

The department acted Saturday after receiving reports of two studies indicating that rats given big doses of cyclamate developed cancer.

Meanwhile, a Cambridge, Mass., scientist said that experiments showed large cyclamate doses injected into hamsters produced coronary disorders and death.

Dr. Fred Homburger of the Cambridge Bio-Research Institute said the effect developed within three months after t he animals were treated with the sweetener.

Another scientist, Dr. David Stone of the Worcester (Mass.) Foundation for Experimental Biology, said rats fed with cyclamate produced offspring who appeared more nervous and active than normal.

Abbott Laboratories financed one of the studies on rats which revealed cyclamate's cancer-causing properties.

A statement by the company said the rats which developed cancer had been administered more than 50 times the maximum amount of cyclamate which health agencies previously had suggested humans limit themselves to.

The Abbott statement added: "It is critically important to emph

The Abbott statement added: "It is critically important to emphasize that this new perspective on artificial sweeteners should not be a cause for panic on the part of the general public."

Cyclamates accounted for 4 per cent of Abbott's $351 million in total sales last year, the spokesman said.

Five Named To Study Abroad

Five Terra Linda High School students have been selected to participate in the Experiment in International Living as foreign exchange students next summer.

The students and the countries they will visit are Pat Delp, Spain; Nan Nebel, Germany; Debbie Amandoli, Italy; Gordon Walker, France, and Andy Bollen, Austria.

If one of the students is unable to attend, an alternate, Steve Roach, will go to Brazil.

The students will divide their time living with European families, touring the country and spending time in a metropolitan area.

Czech Skips Ship At Docking To Fulfill A Nine-Year Dream

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jiri Vokroualik says he had planned for a long time to seek freedom in America.

While biding his time in Prague, he took a machinists' course. Finally, he was able to sign on as a motor machinist on a Czech freighter.

His ship steamed slowly to Japan and then to Los Angeles for a brief refueling stop before setting out for Peru.

Immigration inspectors had finished their routine check yesterday of the Vitkovice—the first Czechoslovakian ship to call here in several years — when Vokroualik approached them on the dock and asked for political asylum.

"I plan my freedom for nine years," the dark-haired 26-year-old told newmen later. "I know of what it is, the United States, from my history books and from my radio. I know it is good place where people have liberty.

"Help me stay here. I have no family here. I have no money. I have hands. I can work good."

Vokroualik told of attending Prague's High Technical Institute to become a mechanical engineer while living with his mother, father and one younger brother.

In hesitant English he said his passion for reaching the United States was kindled when, at 17, he found an American history book on a back shelf in a library. And the passion flamed when he heard about America on Radio Free Europe.

The Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia in August 1968 confirmed his plans, he said.

"I learn how it is not to be free. I am in square when tanks come, many people die. I have only my hands. I cannot fight tanks with my hands.

"I come to America so my hands can work with machines and not to fight tanks."

Authorities turned Vokroualik over to police custody in adjacent Long Beach, pending an immigration hearing. They explained that the seaman had to be jailed temporarily because he had sneaked off his ship and technically was a deserter.

To be able to stay in the United States, an immigration official said, "he will have to convince the board of inquiry that his claim that he will be abused if he is forced to return is valid."

The official added: "There is every reason to believe he will be allowed to stay."

Youth In Wild Battle At Jail

A 20-year-old youth, arrested on a drug charge, went berserk in the Marin County Jail Saturday night and battled five sheriff's deputies for more than 15 minutes before being subdued.

Additional charges of assaulting a peace officer were filed against Gary Michael Melby, who refused to give an address.

Melby was brought to the jail about 6:30 p.m. by Tiburon police on a drug charge. During the booking procedure Melby suddenly punched jailer Doug Barrett and began attacking other deputies.

Several deputies suffered cuts and bruises and Barrett was sent to Marin General Hospital for X-rays of his back. Melby, who is being held in lieu of $6,250 bail, required 15 stitches in his head after the skirmish.

Driver Makes A Wrong Turn

A Kentfield woman who took a wrong turn on her way home from work Saturday spent the night on a deserted road trying to get her car out of the mud.

Ross police found Mrs. Cecilia Panholzer of 12 Laurel Avenue, Kentfield on Skewes-Cox Road at 5:37 a.m. yesterday placing pieces of wood beneath the wheels of her car in an effort to get it back on the pavement.

Mrs. Panholzer, who was unharmed, told police she had made a wrong left-hand turn at 10 p.m. the previous night and when she tried to turn her car car around it went off the road.

Football equipment valued at $116 was stolen Saturday night from the Middelfield High School team bus while parked at Durst Field, Petaluma.

School officials said items taken included three football jerseys valued at $30, three helmets valued at $66 and two pair of cleat shores valued at $20.

Police also reported that vandals had broken the windshield wipers on the Napa High School football team bus Friday night when the team played Petaluma Senior High School.

Violin Spider Concern In Petaluma

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Concern about a South American spider has spread from Southern California to the San Francisco Peninsula, but authorities say there is no cause for alarm.

The honey bee actually is more dangerous than any crawling insect, says Benjamin Keh of the state Vector Control Bureau in Berkeley.

"Why doesn't anybody ever ask me about the deadly honey bee?" he said yesterday.

During a 10-year research period, 124 deaths from bee stings were recorded while fatal bites by spiders of all kinds totaled 66, he reported.

None of the peninsual spiders has been identified as a South American violin, named for a distinctive pattern on the back, but the concern is continuing, Keh said.

Up to 30 spiders have been brought in for identification here in San Mateo County, vector control specialist Philip A. Duffy reported.

In neighboring Santa Clara County the total is nearly 300, said insect control supervisor Dean Ecke.

The concern began to be noted after a South American violin, to which two deaths in the United States have been attributed, was discovered near Lompoc in the Central California coastal area last June.

Panel To Study Freeway Bypass

Realignment of the proposed De Long Avenue extension east of the projected Highway 101 bypass will be considered by the Novato Planning Commission in an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The state Division of Highways wants the city to select an extension route in order to be able to use dirt from the work for construction of fills for the bypass.

The De Long interchange will be the major off ramp for Novato when the freeway bypass is completed.

The commission will also consider a variance for Novato Toyota to install two signs on its garage at Highway 101 and Olive Avenue.

Indianapolis has been the capital of Indiana since 1825.

Waterfront Challengers Organize A New Group

Conservation-oriented Sausalito residents, who earlier this month challenged the proposed central waterfront plans as abandoning the waterfront to the tourist, have organized as the Sausalito Coalition for an Open Waterfront.

Stephen Fraser, coalition executive director, said today large numbers of concerned residents, including architects, urban planners, conservationists, economists "and other concerned local citizens, including many property owners," will attend the Sausalito City Council's 8 p.m. hearing today in city hall on the waterfront plan.

The council at its last meeting indicated it did not expect to adopt the plan, prepared by William E. Spangle Jr., San Mateo planning consultant, at tonight's meeting.

The plan calls for limited commercial development along the waterfront, partially on existing filled land and partially on piers and docks extending into the water.

It also calls for development of a neighborhood commercial district along Caledonia Street.

The coalition charges the city has suffered a net loss of more than $100,000 by its "open door attitude toward tourist oriented activities," noting that revenues from parking, sales taxes and fines are exceeded by the cost of fire, police and public works services for the tourist inflow.

Deukmejian Will Speak At Dinner

State Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, Republican floor leader and announced candidate for the GOP nomination next year for California attorney general, will speak at a "party-to-people" dinner on Oct. 28 at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael.

The dinner, to start at 6:30 p.m., is being sponsored by the Marin County Republican Central Committee. Ticket sales are being handled by Jane King Fairchild of San Rafael.

God has listened to you enough times.
Now how about listening to Him?
More than a few things are troubling our cities, our world, our souls.
Sometimes, we raise our hands heavenward and say, "When oh when are you going to change it all, Lord?"
And "changing it all" is just what He expects us to do!
Listen: "Love your neighbor as yourself."
If that were put to practice—really to practice—ghettos would not exist, wars would cease, hunger would end inhumanity would be stricken from the dictionary.
A perfect world.
Will we ever see it?
One thing certain, we won't even begin to see it, if we don't start doing what God has asked of us for heaven only knows how long.

MacArthur's Landing Is Re-Enacted

RED BEACH, Leyte, Philippines (AP) — U.S. and Filipino troops joined forces again today for a small-scale re-enactment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines 25 years ago today.

Some 200 Filipino soldiers and marines splashed onto Red Beach from landing barges following earthshaking explosions in a mock sea and air bombardment. U.S. planes flew over, and Filipino paratroopers jumped.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos and U.S. Ambassador Henry A. Byroade led scores of military and diplomatic dignitaries attending the ceremonies. Crowds of Filipinos lined the beach.

Notable among the officials was Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Rumulo, who stepped ashore 25 years ago with MacArthur and the late Sergio Osmena, president of the Philippines at the time.

Wreaths were placed on the tombs of unknown soldiers of each country, and memorial services were held for the dead. A cornerstone was laid for a spacious Leyte Landing Memorial Park.

Speeches recalled the heroism, glory and comradeship U.S. and Filipino forces shared. But Marcos also emphasized changes in Filipino-American relations since then.

He said that while both countries must be proud of their history together, there is a demand now for a fresh assessment of the relationship. He said all current agreements and treaties between the two nations must be reassessed. He said new generations have little use for the sentimental ties of days gone by.

The United States and the Philippines will begin talks soon to renegotiate the treaties and agreements pertaining to the four bases in the country at which about 30,000 Americans are stationed.

A majority of American marine producers expect an increase during 1969 in premium volume for import cargo insurance, according to a nationwide survey by Marine Office of America. At present, foreign interests now control 70 per cent of this insurance.

Blue-Collar Workers Are Crossing The Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report shows one out of every five blue collar workers is likely to cross the job color line into a white collar position —many of them taking at least a short-term pay cut.

But most workers who make the shift from production jobs to management, professional, technical, clerical or sales positions figure the switch is worth it in the long run, the report says.

"Most respondents were convinced that their socioeconomic status had risen above that of their parents and above the current status of most of their boyhood friends," said the survey of 452 workers.

The report was published today in the Labor Department's Monthly Labor Review. It said job switching is largely haphazard, and urged government employment agencies, employers and unions to make it easier for workers to climb up the job ladder.

The study by University of Wisconsin economic professors David B. Johnson and James L. Stern said 39 per cent of blue collar workers making the switch moved into managerial jobs and increased their base pay by nearly 15 per cent.

But, it added, "Men shifting into professional-technical jobs suffered an average loss of weekly gross income of 5.7 per cent. In terms of base pay without overtime, however, the loss was only 2.7 per cent."

Blue collar workers shifting to clerical jobs lost 9.8 per cent in gross pay, 6.3 per cent when lost overtime was excluded.

The workers interviewed gave many reasons for wanting to make the job switch.

"Very prominent among them were reasons related to an improved financial situation resulting from steadier work in the white collar job, higher fringe benefits, and prospects for better long-run earning opportunities," the report said.

"The job search patterns of blue collar workers show that individual, unguided efforts were the most important means of achieving a shift to a white collar job," the report said.

"Our findings indicate that employers should give consideration to adoption of formal programs for upgrading blue collar workers into professional-technical and clerical classifications," it said.

It also urged better career guidance by federal-state Employment Service offices for blue collar workers who are frequently ignorant of opportunities to move into white collar jobs.

And, it added, new training programs are needed to move more youths into apprenticeship and free skilled blue collar workers for higher jobs without worsening the shortage of skilled men.

Girl Booked On Inmate Talking

An 18-year-old San Rafael girl was arrested Saturday on suspicion of communicating with a jail inmate.

Irene L. Bradley, of 35 Fairfax Street, was arrested by sheriff's deputies after retired San Rafael Police Officer Arthur Fellows reported she was yelling to prisoner Casey L. Porter through a jail window.

The girl posted $625 bail and was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today at 2 p.m.

Attar taken from roses grown in Bulgaria for perfume sells for $2,100 a pound.

Deputy Has A Rought Time In Nudity Arrest

Anyone who's envied Marin County Sheriff's deputies who have made arrests on nude girl swimmers, should think again.

It's no picnic. Ask deputy Joseph Kelley.

Kelley went to Muir Beach Saturday afternoon after receiving a complaint that a girl was running nude on the beach.

The girl, Shirley S. Orman, 22, of Sebastopol, refused to go to jail peacefully, however, and Kelley was forced to aid her progress somewhat.

In the battle that followed Kelley sustained several claw marks on his face and arms, was spit on and as a grand finale, was bitten on the hand, a wound which required treatment at Marin General Hospital.

The girl was booked investigation of resisting arrest as well as for nudity. She was unable to make the $625 bail and was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today at 2 p.m.

Seventy-one of every 100 Americans have some type of life insurance.

Park Facility Pact On Agenda

Award of a contract to provide a spray pool and small boat lagoon in Pioneer Memorial Park will be considered by the Novato City Council in an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Novato Community House.

The council earlier rejected a bid of $53,300 for the work — $20,330 above the budgeted sum. New bids are to be received tomorrow night.

The council will also consider purchasing the Rodoni property adjacent to the community house and set policy on pedestrian walkway easements.

Did Russia Fail In Troika Space Flight?

MOSCOW (AP) — The failure of Soviet cosmonauts to put together a space station on the three-ship flight last week could result in a shift of emphasis back to unmanned flights.

The lack of any spectacular achievement by the seven spacemen seems to have put the proponents of manned flights on the defensive. They talk as if they are trying to stave off a return to the policy of extreme caution that followed the Soyuz 1 crash in April 1967 in which a cosmonaut was killed.

This tragic setback obviously shook the Kremlin badly and made it extremely leery of manned flights. The Soviet press took to extolling unmanned flights, saying they were just as useful as manned missions in obtaining scientific information and preferable because no risk of human life was involved.

The de-emphasis of the cosmonaut program took some of the sting from comparisons with what the United States was accomplishing with men in space during this period.

A more favorable attitude toward manned flights started to show after the successful flight of Soyuz 3 last October and the linkup of Soyuz 4 and 5 in January.

The Soviet leaders seemed reassured of the safety of manned flights and once again confident that their space program could hold its own in direct competition with the U.S. effort.

If the Soyuz troika had produced a big leap foward, more manned flights could have been expected in the near future, with perhaps launchings to the moon or plants from an orbiting platform.

How serious the trouble was will be kept secret. Possibly it was minor and will not significantly slow down the manned program. But if it was serious and the Kremlin's old worries have revived, the Soviet leaders could well prefer to retreat to the former, safer position. This could mean a long reappraisal before any more manned flights.

In one interview, the unidentified chief designer of spaceships said: "No matter how perfect automatic equipment is and how high the level of automation, it is the man whose decisions are most important. In the conditions of flight, especially when various operations are being performed, the cosmonaut plays an extremely great role. In the formula man-machine, the machine is merely an object to be controlled."

Another unidentified scientist who took part in developing the Soyuz control system said: "The best results are yielded by a reasonable combination of man the researcher and automatic equipment."

Another space authority, identified only as a "leading specialist," declared: "The building of orbital stations is the central problem of cosmonautics today. Extraterrestrial laboratories will have to be first built on earth, then dismantled and taken into orbit and fitted together into a single whole."

The chief designer endorsed this emphasizing the importance of welding in space, tried for the first time in Soyuz 6.

"Welding in space holds great promise," he said. "some people believe now that it will be possible to build various objects in space, assembling them with the use of automation alone. But it is not like that. I believe that the assembly of various constructions will be mechanized to the utmost, but manual work will still be needed. Welding is just this type of work."

Four GIs Killed In Korea DMZ

SEOUL (AP) — The United States and South Korea requested a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission tomorrow to protest the "murder" of four U.S. soldiers in an ambush Saturday by North Koreans.

North Korea has not yet responded to the request, a U.S. spokesman said.

The spokesman said the four soldiers were aboard a one and one-half ton truck returning from a guard post inside the demilitarized zone.

The North Koreans ambushed the truck with grenades and small arms fire, the spokesman said, and the four Americans were found in the truck shot in the head.

A short time later, American patrols spotted four North Koreans fleeing back across the DMZ but lost contact after an exchange of fire, according to reports.

The spokesman said the North Koreans dropped two blood-stained items they took from the four dead soldiers, indicating they had ambushed the truck.

The incident occurred in the central portion of the 18-mile sector of the DMZ that the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division guards.

The last serious incident in the area occurred July 21. Five Americans have now been killed in DMZ clashes this year.

Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe.

The true value of this $6,367* investment becomes more apparent after your first panic stop or unexpected curve.

The announcement of the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe might easily become lost amid the din of pronouncements like "daringly different," "startlingly bold," and "dramatically new" which emanate from Detroit each year at new car introduction time.

But it hasn't escaped the notice of automotive experts and Mercedes-Benz enthusiasts. They recognize that the 250 Coupe introduces the pure, simple and honest styling of a Mercedes-Benz in a classical coupe configuration.

Sharply raked windscreen and formal rear pillars of the 250 Coupe are attractive indeed. But the true beauty lies in the way it performs in a tight situation.

Reacts professionally under stress

The rake of the windscreen and the graceful slope of the formal rear pillars give the Coupe a certain élan. Yet Mercedes-Benz scorns the concept of automobiles that rest their reputation on beauty—but then turn ugly in a tight situation. The true beauty of the Coupe, they insist, is the professional way it reacts under the stress of an emergency. A beauty you have to experience to appreciate.

You know the feeling. Another driver runs a stop sign. Or brake lights suddenly flash ahead of you on a busy, high-speed expressway. No matter how beautiful your car is on the outside, your heart shudders momentarily as you make what is aptly termed a "panic" stop.

You may still get that feeling the first time a similar situation confronts you in the 250 Coupe. But after you experience the enormous stopping power, you begin to appreciate the priceless value of this $6,367 automobile. For suddenly you are a more confident driver.

Disc brakes reduce fade

Hopefully, you will never need the heroic stopping power of disc brakes. But Mercedes-Benz refuses to just hope. So they insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Automotive engineers acknowledge the superiority of disc brakes over common drum brakes.

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in smoking panic stop situations—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus resist fading.

Racing car suspension

If you ever built a soapbox racer, you know the principle of a solid-beam rear axle—one wheel at each end of a rigid shaft.

In combination with springs and shock absorbers, a solid-beam axle is a simple, relatively inexpensive way to suspend the rear of an automobile. The design enjoys widespread acceptance—in fact all domestic sedans use solid-beam rear axles.

But like most simple solutions, it raises other problems. You have to choose between boulevard ride and surefooted handling. Soften the suspension and you sacrifice road holding—so important in those circumstances that demand sharp reflexes from both car and driver. Stiffen the suspension and the ride becomes unduly harsh. You improve cornering—at the expense of your backbone.

But there is another way. Independent rear suspension. Put four joints in the axle to allow each rear wheel to move over bumps independently of the other just as the front wheels do.

The ride is comfortable, controlled. Less pitching and wallowing. At the same time it plants the rear wheels intimately on the road.

All Grand Prix racing machines employ independent rear suspension for its tenacious road holding. So do all Mercedes-Benz automobiles.

Enjoy driving again

The sophisticated braking and suspension systems that make you a more confident driver also work to make driving enjoyable again. In an era when most automobiles are designed to transport you from point A to point B in ultimate isolation and boredom, the 250 Coupe is a revelation.

With its 2.8-liter overhead camshaft engine, the responsive and obedient Coupe is engineered for those red-blooded souls who refuse to relegate their driving skills to monotonous turnpikes. Designed for more than just "straight line" driving, Mercedes-Benz automobiles exhibit the versatility of a decathlon champion under all types of driving conditions.

So avoid the expressways when the mood strikes you. Take that interesting back road and enjoy scenery more dramatic than someone else's exhaust pipe. You'll find the 250 Coupe and all Mercedes-Benz motor cars make driving something to do—not something that must be done.

A lasting investment

It takes a bit longer than your first refreshing drive to appreciate the durability of the 250 Coupe. Perhaps 50,000 miles or so. Then you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle. For the Coupe, like every Mercedes-Benz, is not bolted into being like most cars, but fused into a single rattle-thwarting unit by thousands of welds.

But Mercedes-Benz engineers don't stop there. They stubbornly insist that each component be designed and inspected to be as staunch as the next. Vital engine parts are probed with X rays to spot invisible flaws. Tolerances are checked on special marble tables with instruments so precise a human hair propels the recording device off the scale. Even items like washers, screws and dashboard knobs are regularly sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectrography.

The end result of this demand for perfection is not something that you can see, but something you will appreciate—in time.

Understanding Mercedes-Benz styling

Ten years ago, rocket-ship taillights, bumper exhausts and wrap-around windshields were "in." Today it's decal "racing" stripes, peekaboo headlights and spoilers that don't really spoil anything at legal speeds. Tomorrow—who knows?

Mercedes-Benz does not employ "mod" designers to create and pander to these fads. For fads seldom last more than a couple of years. Certainly not the lifetime of a Mercedes-Benz.

Designed around the passengers and the machinery it encloses, the Coupe emerges with simple, functional, uncluttered lines.

Example: The graceful roof was engineered as an integral part of a sturdy safety zone surrounding the occupants.

Example: The hood covers the engine. Period. You don't push around yards of sheet metal in front of the radiator for the sake of imagined status.

Drive the 250 Coupe for ten years—and it will be on its way to becoming a "classic"—not a laughable reminder of passé fetishes.

STICK 'EM UP FOR BENEFIT

Make Every Penny Count

Shopping these days can be a traumatic experience for the housewife. With prices going up, up and away women are dismayed to know that this year's forecast is that inflation will hit a new high. There are some ways to make every penny count. But you've got to work at it.

1. Be A Listmaker. The smart shopper maps out her strategy before she engages in the battle of costs vs. pocketbooks. Lists are indispensible in keeping impulses under check and making the shopper walk the straight and narrow path of real economies. A list should be flexible enough to include the daily "specials" the store is featuring. Shopping list rarely contain items like macadamia nuts, grape leaves, sturgeon, however.

2. Coupon Clippers Unite. This should be your battlecry because manufacturers and food processors do have periodic deals that are to your advantage. Cents-off coupons and stickers, those get-one-free offers mean money in your pocket, so never carelessly toss away any that come your way.

3. Supermarket "Specials" Really Are. No need to be skeptical about those "special" signs in most markets; often items are lower-priced to move them out before a new shipment is expected. If you have a running familiarity with the specific prices on certain items you always buy, you'll know how valuable the "specials" are. Those large end-of-aisle displays where food is especially price-worthy are called "loss-leaders" in market parlance. They are the bait to pull you into purchasing something else you may not need. Weigh the loss leaders carefully; if you normally use the product and it's well-priced, consider stocking up; if you don't like it to begin with, even a half-priced can of peas, for example, is no bargain.

4. Learn to Read a Label. Any supermarketer worth her salt should set about on a concerted label-reading program because under the new truth-in-packaging regulations all pertinent data is inscribed there — like weights and measures. Check comparative contents and prices of several brands and you'll find the one that's a slightly better buy. Even if the saving is small, remember those little pennies saved can grow into big dollars earned at the checkout counter.

5. Stock up in Quantity on Canned Goods. The marvelous advantage of buying food in cans or glass jars is that they can be stored easily and for long periods of time. And because canned items range over just about everything you'll always have a supply of something in the house. Also, items that are out of season in your area are usually priced much higher than the same processed foods available all year.

6. Unusual Package Sizes? You Pay For It! Some manufacturers put the same product into different kinds of packaging — sometimes in a decorator flacon; other times it's a container made from a different material. Compare and you will see that with odd shaped packages, it's the customer that usually pays the bill. Most foods container sizes fall within a category of standardization. Unit costs are less, and you save without really knowing it.

7. Less-Than-Perfect Items are Priceworthy. Day-old bread and slightly crushed ladyfinger cookies, a little overripe fruit, or bruised vegetables are not necessarily to be passed by. Consider your needs; of, for example, you are making French toast, day-old bread is perfect. And a toothpaste container that has lost its outer cardboard container still has all the product inside. Opened packages should not be bought, but where the container is slightly askew and there is a reduction because of it, it's worth your consideration.

8. Practice the Art of Planning Ahead. Read the food pages of your newspaper — they offer the specials of the week. Make out your shopping list according to your particular tastes and needs. Plan your meals.

9. Finally, when you go supermarketing, try to "go it alone." There is nothing that can wreck even a carefully worked out budget faster than a winsome little boy or girl in the candy-ice-cream-cookies section. Children are incipient impulse shoppers, and it's hard to refuse a pleading eye turned toward a totally unnecessary 79-cent bubble bath plastic toy (when you know the 39-cent kind in the plain carton is just as good.)

In this day of the ever-rising price index, shopping can be a trauma or a triumph depending on how you go about it. Little economies all along add up to big savings when you reach the checkout counter.

Barbecue

Line an outdoor grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. Build the fire on the foil. The liner reflects heat and distributes it evenly over grill surface, cooking food faster. It also catches drippings and makes quick work of clean-up.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Do People Make An Issue Out Of Those Who Don't Drive?

DEAR HELEN:

I've always lived near my work, so I never needed a car. About two years ago I moved about two miles out of town in another state and found it easy to bicycle to town for my needs, several times a day if I so desired.

When I take trips, I fly, boat, bus or taxi and am more relaxed because I'm not watching the road constantly. Certainly I can afford to pay cash, even for a Rolls Royce, but I just don't care to drive.

So what's this thing about cars most everyone has? Some people will actually make an issue over my "deprivation"! I'm not exactly the village idiot. Other non-drivers I've met aren't stupid either. Yet we're looked upon as somewhat simple, especially if we choose to shop by bike. — ART

DEAR ART:

Not by me, you aren't.

I think you're a healthy, happy individualist. Stay that way! — H

DEAR HELEN: A word of cheer for the teen-ager whose mother is a hopeless alocholic. Her letter could have been written by me many years ago.

I am now age 50; my mother still calls regularly and we attempt a conversation through her drunkenness. I was never able to help her. To this day she doesn't admit she drinks.

During the early years of my marriage, I felt so inadequate and inferior that I too thought I would crack up. But I found an older friend whose insight and understanding brought me through. Here is what she told me:

"Every condition in life is a blessing, even your childhood experiences that seemed unbearable. Every hardship is a blessing. Had your life been a bed of roses, you might not be the fine person we know today. Now it is up to you to weed out all the sad experiences of your early life, think about them calmly and see that they haven't hurt you, but have only taught you to be more kind and understanding. The soul is a shining indestructible thing, and cannot be harmed by past experiences."

Well, to complete my letter, I have been married 30 years to a wonderful man. He is very successful in his profession. I finally completed college when our son was eight years old, and have been able to do the things I never dreamed possible as a teen-ager. Many of my friends, coming from happy homes, are either divorced, alocholic, discontented or sick. I feel sorry for my mother, but she cannot hurt me any more. Perhaps she helped, by forcing me to have strength to endure.

Please keep on telling young people with miserable family lives that it is up to them to live each day with as much patience, endeavor, respect and confidence as they can, even though the going is very rough. It will not last forever, and when they are removed from the condition, they will be surprised to find themselves equal to anyone or anything. — ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE

DEAR ANOTHER:

Thank you for saying it so well.

If only there was a wise and understanding listener for every miserable young person — just one adult who cared enough to help reidirect a life — think how many people might later be saved from the pyschiatric couch! — H.

Personal to "Repulsed": I can't print your letter for obvious reasons, but because I have received so many like it, I must answer: Ultra-modern marriage manuals, with their anything goes philosophy may be causing more sexual problems than they cure for husbands often disregard the end of the sentence: "If it is mutually accepted." Most women don't accept such practices, and if it isn't your pleasure, it isn't your duty. Love is sharing, not demanding — H

U.S. Politicians Get Fashion Nod

LONDON (AP) — Tailor and Cutter, bible of men's clothing, compared the dress of American and British politicians and found the fashion prizes belong overseas.

It said the British voter does not want his public figures to look richer, better or smarter than himself —and "the average public figure is only too happy to oblige."

"In the United States," the magazine observed, "success is something to be applauded. A president in a silk mohair dinner jacket and a vicuna topcoat is the public declaration of the heights to which any citizen may arise."

Art Deco's Fashion Influence

What is art deco? It is a style which captures the mood of an era and flashes it on today as an important fashion influence.

Beginning about 1910 and continuing to the late 30's, art deco dramatized both fashions and home furnishings. In fashion, it's characterized by fluid, body-following lines; soft geometrics in prints; deep-colored geometric shapes in jewelry and imaginative uses and combinations of colors and materials.

For fall 1969, accessories flashback the art deco measage, with verve.

In handbags, the art deco direction takes to swingy little mesh bags, grained leathers and distinctive trims such as mirror effects, buckles and other belted looks.

The pantsuit set turns to bold and rustic-looking shoulder bags and large luggage-handled satchels with outside pockets, stitching, touches of gold hardware and intricate closings.

Box handbags fill the need for trim-line accessories to complete dress and suit turnouts. Shapes are square, elongated or oval treasure chest types.

Jewelry makes the clearest statement of the art deco feeling. Geometric shapes are carried out in white metals, bright enamels and jewel-colored glass, in rings, pendants and pins.

General trend in costume jewelry is toward the bold, heavy and colorful. Some pieces, especially body jewelry, taken on total costume significance, as in chain boleros, vests and belts.

Necklaces are close to the neck in heavy choker and jewel-collar styles. Others are simple gold wires, with an ornament at the throat.

Animal jewelry is a favorite — serpent and ram's head bracelets and rings, turtle, fish and zodiac jewelry.

Earrings are large, and many have a dangling, symmetrical Far Eastern look.

THE FIRST LADY

Mrs. Nixon became First Lady of the land on January 20, 1969. She wore this mimosa yellow gown at the Presidential inaugural ball in Washington that night.

The way to the White House is never easy, or even expected. This has certainly been so for Pat Nixon. Her life, from its earliest years, has been characterized by quiet tenacity in the face of difficulties. She has worked hard and devotedly for those things which meant most to her: family, husband and children, and then the public duties consequent on the entry into political life. Love, unselfishness and determination have been evident in her tireless loyalty.

She was born Thelma Catherine Ryan on March 16, 1913, in Ely, Nev. Her Irish father, then a miner, gave her the nickname "Pat" because she was born on the eve of St. Patrick's Day. She grew up on a ranch which her father bought in Artesia, Calif., when he gave up mining. Her mother died when she was 12, and she looked after her two brothers and father. She nursed her father through his last illness; after his death, she went to New York, a 17-year-old, and worked for two years as an X-ray technician to earn the money for college.

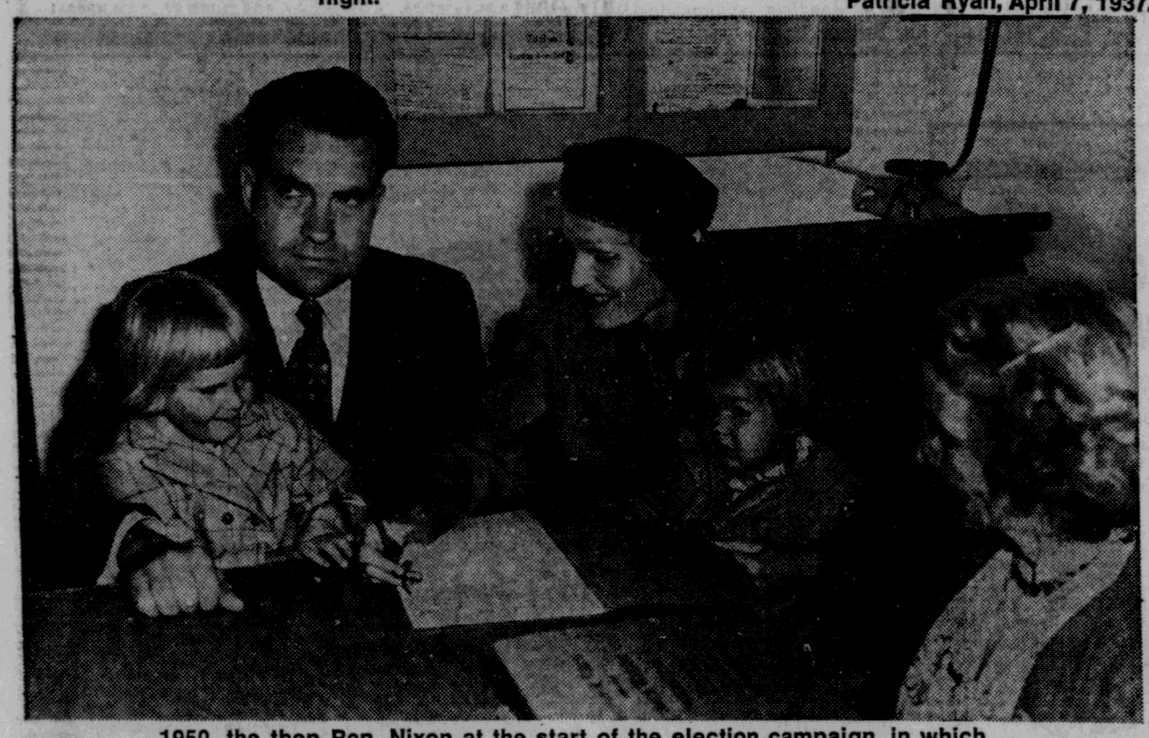
After working her way through the University of Southern California, she taught high school in Whittier, Calif., where she met Richard Nixon; he proposed the first night. They were married in June 21, 1940, but Mrs. Nixon continued to work up to and through the war to help with their joint finances.

The first political campaign was in 1946, when Nixon was elected to Congress. Since then, at his side, she has fought through seven other campaigns, two of them particularly bitter defeats. As the wife of the vice president (1953-1961), she visited some 60 foreign countries with her husband. In 1957, she won one of the many distinctions of her own: the Homemakers Forum awarded her a silver bowl as "the nation's ideal wife."

Mrs. Nixon could justifiably feel proud of the fact that her husband is President of the United States, since he himself says of her, in one of his frequent tributes, "She is my greatest asset."

A photograph signed on the back "Patricia Ryan, April 7, 1937."

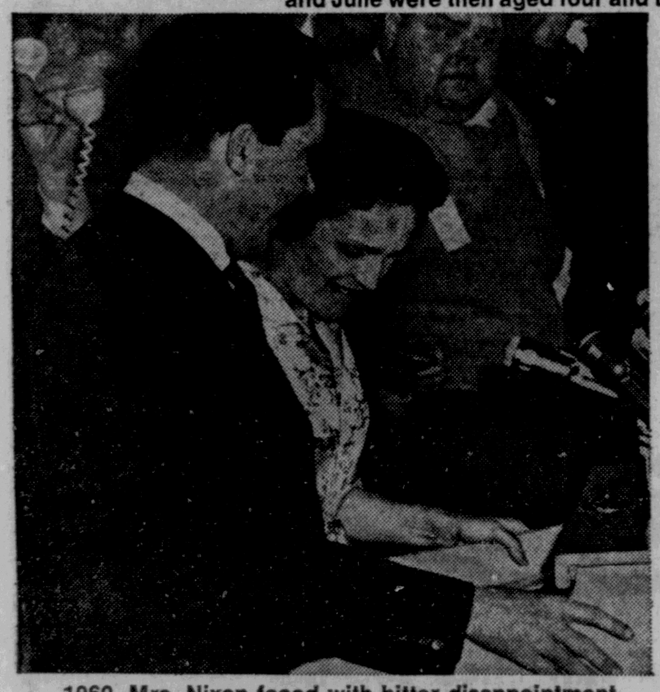
It was said of Mrs. Nixon, during the last campaign, that Nixon still won his loudest round of applause simply by mentioning Pat.



1950, the then Rep. Nixon at the start of the election campaign, in which Nixon was a successful candidate for the Senate. Their daughters Tricia (left) and Julie were then aged four and two respectively.

In 1955, traveling through South America with the then Vice President Nixon, Mrs. Nixon is greeted by a little boy in Honduras.

1960, Mrs. Nixon at a meeting of the Senate Ladies Red Cross Unit.



1960, Mrs. Nixon faced with bitter disappointment as her husband, Vice President Nixon, concedes the presidential election to his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy.

1968, a twentieth birthday party for Julie Nixon, cutting her cake as her mother watches; beside Julie is her fiance, David Eisenhower, behind are her father and her sister, Tricia.

January 20, 1969, a proud and joyful Mrs. Nixon, just after her husband had taken the oath as 37th President of the United States.

ON THE HOOD

Gray-Hair Ride For The Boss

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Harry Brodey took a 90 mile-an-hour ride yesterday—one the hood of a car.

He came out of it with cuts on his hands and possibly a gray hair or two.

Brodey, 54, president of Brodey & Brodey, Inc., a scrap metal firm, was working at his office Sunday when three men strolled up to him,.

He asked them what they wanted, and they ran.

Brodey chased them outside and leaped onto the hood of their car as they jumped inside.

"I thought they wouldn't start the engine with me on the hood, and that maybe I could buy time this way until the police arrived," he said.

Seven Brodey employes working on a loading dock heard the car screech away, saw the boss on the hood, and called police.

Brodey's head was toward the windshield. He grabbed a windshield wiper in each hand and held on.

Police gave chase and said the car reached speeds of up to 90 m.p.h. as they pursued it.

Then a train blocked the way and the men stopped and backed up to turn around. The car struck a parked car and the men fled on foot.

Still on the hood, Brodey pointed to the fleeing men and police ran after them.

Two got away, but an officer brought back a third. Brodey said he was the driver.

"I'm sure he was the driver," he said. "I was staring in his face for 10 minutes through the windshield."

Charles W. Anderson, 22, of Indianapolis, was charged with malicious trespassing, assault and battery with an automobile, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, reckless driving and fleeing a police officer.

OPERA REVIEW

'Grand' Is Word For The 'Aida' Opener

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Grand opera in the fullest sense of the word "grand" was the new production of Verdi's "Aida" unveiled Saturday night at the San Francisco Opera House.

It will probably be considered the high point of the season for visual splendor and for some incomparable musical moments.

The talents of British stage director Anthony Besch, making his local debut, combined with those of set designers Skalicki and West made this production of "Aida" among the most dazzling I have seen.

Sets were stunning, from the stark simplicity of the king's palace, the temple of the God Ptah and the judgment hall of the Temple of the Goddess Isis, to the ethereal beauty of a moonlite scene on the banks of the Nile to the magnificent triumphal scene within the gates of Thebes. Striking use of light and color was the secret.

Musically the performance was a major triumph for the Welsh soprano Gwyneth Jones as Aida, who proved even more than in "Fidelio" why she is world renowned, and equally Czech mezzo Margarita Lilova as the jealous Princess Aneris, a role usually sung by a contralto.

The opera was off to a slow start in Scene I, Act I when French tenor Guy Chauvet as the Egyptian officer Radames was so insecure vocally and so stodgy that I feared a fiasco. The famed aria "Celeste Aida" fell flat. Furthermore he looked more like a Roman general than an Egyptian warrior. But he improved steadily. By Act III he almost measured up to Aida.

In Act III Miss Jones was awe-inspiring in the beauty of her pianissimo singing and technical fluence in her highest register. Her rapturous aria "O Patria Mia" was exquisite and moving.

She and Miss Lilova shared honors in their Act II scene, and Miss Lilova was at her best vocally and dramatically in her final scenes in the opera.

As Aida's father Amonasro, bass-baritone James Farrar made an auspicious debut in a powerful portrayal of the savage Ethiopian warrior king. The bearing and virile bass of Clifford Grant conveyed perfectly the majesty of the king of Egypt, and Ara Berberian in the role of the high priest Ramfis had the best opportunity he has had recently to show off his resonant bass.

As always, the triumphal scene in Act II was the opera's spectacular apex for visual splendor and overwhelming sonority, largely due to the big chorus augmented by the San Francisco Civic Chorale which is directed by Marin's own Winifred Baker.

An interesting and flashy departure was a highly acrobatic male ballet instead of one danced by women. The dancing of the priestesses in Act I and Moorish slave women in Act II was not remarkable.

Sensitive rapport with the singers in their arias and other set pieces and authoritative command of all resources in the big cimaxes marked the conducting of Jean Perisson in a spirited orchestral performance.

Only one thing bothered me, and that was the final scene of the lovers' entombment. The lowering of the whole crypt on an elevator-like platform to me was surprising, inexplicable and unjustifiable.

FIRST AID — Handcuffed Donald L. Humes watches as highway patrolmen give first aid to severely injured Don Borges on the shoulder of Panoramic Highway. Borges and Humes reportedly were in a stolen car which overturned at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Patrol Copter Used In Pairs Capture

PATROL RESCUE — Injured Don Borges lies on a sling as highway patrolmen prepare to fly him to Marin General Hospital from Mount Tamalpais. Borges reportedly was at the wheel of a stolen car when it crashed on Panoramic Highway yesterday. (Photos by James C. Dukes, California Highway Patrol)

The California Highway Patrol's helicopter unit Sunday aided first in the capture and then in the evacuation of two car theft suspects said to have stolen a vehicle from the Mount Tamalpais theater parking lot and later wrecked it.

The unit was flying over Mount Tamalpais about 4 p.m. when the airborne officers received word that a car belonging to Gerald A. Laster of San Francisco had been stolen and was believed heading towards Bolinas on Highway 1.

BEACH SEARCH

The copter quickly began searching the beach area and landed next to the stolen car just three minutes after sheriff's deputy James Current found it overturned four miles east of Bolinas and Shoreline Highway.

Patrol officers said that the car has apparently hit an embankment on the right side of the road and swerved clear onto the left shoulder of the road, injuring both the driver, Don Borges, address unknown, and Donald L. Humes, of San Francisco.

Borges had been thrown from the car and was seriously injured, officers said, so he was placed in the helicopter and rushed to Marin General Hospital in just eight mintes while an ambulance carrying Humes took 50 minutes to reach the hospital.

Both men were reported in fair condition today at Marin General with lacerated eyebrows and possible head injuries.

BOTH BOOKED

Both were booked in absentia at Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft. Bail was set at $1,000 each.

Borges is also being held on a traffic warrant of $120 issued by the Atherton Police Department for a reckless driving citation, officers said.

Officers said it was the first time that the new helicopter unit had been used for capturing a suspect or for evcauation in Marin County.

Four Papers Lose Legal Advertising

Four Marin publications, the Tiburon Pelican, Larkspur-Corte Madera Times, Ross Valley Times and the Sausalito News, have lost their status as general circulation newspapers.

The ruling against the publications was made Friday in Marin County Superior Court by Judge Thomas F. Keating as the result of an action filed in February by John T. Luc, publisher of the Tiburon Ebb Tide.

All the affected journals are owned by Random Hill Publications Inc.

Under terms of the ruling, the publications will no longer be permitted to publish legal advertising.

In making his decision, Judge Keating declined to spell out any reason.

Luc had contended the papers did not qualify for general circulation status because they were not published and printed in Marin County and because the publications' names had been changed. Last year all four were amalgamated into a newspaper known as the Herald Tribune.

Harry N. Johnson, a director of the publications firm, was not available for comment on the ruling this morning.

Gelding Taken

A 7-year-old Anglo Arab gelding was taken from the home of Dorothy V. Brown, Bear Valley Road, Point Reyes, Wednesday, she reported to sheriff's deputies Thursday. Value of the horse was not listed, deputies said today.

Pollution Showdown Is Expected On Thursday

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND—The war between the City of San Francisco and the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board is expected to escalate Thursday when the board sets the legal stage for forcing compliance with its antipollution regulations.

The board warned last month that it may order a halt to all new construction in San Francisco if the city continued stalling promised action on a pilot project to solve its massive pollution of the bay. A new state law, to be effective Jan. 1, will give the board this power.

To set the legal stage for this penalty, the board is to adopt cease and desist orders against the city when it meets at 10 a.m. in San Mateo City Hall, 330 West 20th Avenue. San Francisco supervisors and Mayor Joseph L. Alioto have been invited to explain their position at the meeting.

San Francisco's problem is its unique system of combining sewer and storm drains. As a result, a heavy drizzle overwhelms the city's sewage treatment plants and raw sewage is dumped into the bay.

The city repeatedly has promised to experiment with new treatment facilities to handle the huge flows in wet weather, but last month its supervisors again postponed action to begin their construction.

On the afternoon agenda, beginning at 1:30 p.m., are staff reports on progress by dischargers in meeting board requirements, including the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, San Quentin Prison and Gilardi's Resort in Sonoma County.

The evening session, beginning at 8 p.m., will be to hear state plans for continued studies under the San Francisco Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Program, which envisions a multibillion-dollar regional waste water system.

Youth Cited On Marijuana Count

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth was cited for possession of marijuana after he was arrested Saturday night when San Rafael police raided a large, noisy party at 520 C Street.

Police allegedly found a marijuana cigarette in his possession.

The youth was released in custody of his parents to appear later in the San Rafael Police Department juvenile office for a hearing.

Cyclist Treated For Crash Injuries

Donald John Gerletti, 24, of Richmond, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for bruises on the right leg and left hip suffered when his motorcycle's wheel shattered and he was thrown off, Sausalito police reported today.

The 6:55 p.m. accident was at Bridgeway and Harbor Drive, police said.

Businesses Lose $300 To Thieves

Three San Rafael businesses lost approximately $300 in cash in three weekend burglaries.

George Leonetti, manager of the Fuller Paint Store, 636 Lindaro Street, told police $200 was taken from the store's cash register sometime Saturday night. Entrance was gained by forcing a door.

In a second theft, William W. McNerney reported between $15 and $20 in change taken from the register at Mac's Saw Service, 1013 Second Street. The burglary occurred Friday night and the shop was entered by breaking a rear window, according to police.

The San Rafael Union Station, 34 Ritter Street, lost $75 in a Saturday night burglary, according to Roy Lee Taylor, an employee. Taylor told police he found the money gone and the station door open when he came to work yesterday morning.

Car Strikes Wall, Auto–Youth Hurt

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth, Richard G. Hennig of 1720 Grand Avenue, was treated for scalp and finger cuts at Marin General Hospital Saturday night following an accident on Park Street.

According to police, the mishap occurred at 10:35 p.m. when the Hennig car struck a parked auto at 190 Park Street, then hit a retaining wall. The parked car is owned by the A & S Shooter Association Inc. of San Rafael.

A passenger in the Hennig car, Thomas J. Tanages, 16, of 5 Lochinvar Road, was uninjured.

Mexico City is the oldest city in North America.

Nicasio Bussing To Be Discussed

The problem of bus transportation from Nicasio and the San Geronimo Valley to Sir Francis Drake High School will be discussed by the Nicasio School District trustees at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

The district has been faced with curtailed bus service to the high school for several months. The trustees will discuss possible alternatives with Greyhound Lines or having the students drive their own cars, according to secretary Beverly Alberigi.

The trustees will also discuss the possible purchase of approximately one acre of land from the Marin Municipal Water District to add to the school property and the purchase of a metal shed for custodial storage.

One-Way Toll System Year Old, Successful

One year ago yesterday the Golden Gate Bridge pioneered its one-way toll collection system, a now permanent system that has proven to be a complete success.

Despite grave warnings that vehicles would tangle with the toll booths as they drove through in the toll-free, northbound lanes, about 31.3 million vehicles have made it across the bridge in 12 months without a single injury accident at the toll plaza, bridge officials reported.

As a result of its success, the system has been adopted by the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings on many of its bridges, and toll bridges around the world are considering switching to the system, which speeds traffic and reduces the number of toll collectors needed.

Figures still are being compiled on the financial effect of the system.

The present system, however, will be reversed to collect from Northbound drivers in about three years, after construction of a new southbound roadway behind the administration building.

Fresh Water Pump, Fixtures Missing

A $75 fresh water pump and two marine light fixtures were reported stolen sometime Thursday night from a cabin cruiser in the San Rafael Yacht Harbor.

Kenneth R. Ball of San Anselmo, owner of the boat, told San Rafael police the thief apparently entered through an unlocked door.

Ross Valley Kiwanis Club Installs Slate

Lawrence B. Malkin of Marinwood, as assistant administrator at Marin General Hospital, has been installed as president of Ross Valley's Kiwanis Club.

Other new officers are Roger Fields of San Anselmo, first vice president; Eugene Farrar of Greenbrae, second vice president; Jerry Frazier of San Anselmo, secretary, and Clint Waltermire, San Rafael, treasurer.

Nothing Taken In Post Office Burglary

The Inverness Post Office was burglarized Wednesday night, but nothing was believed taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

Two boxes were broken into, but both were unassigned, Postmaster Megan M. Mery told deputies Thursday.

Drug Suspect Booking Made

Noel K. Jewkes, 29, of 2 Washington Street, San Rafael, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and two traffic warrants.

Sheriff's deputies said they found Jewkes parked on a private road off Shoreline Highway and a record check produced the warrants, one from San Francisco and one from Daly City.

A subsequent search of Jewkes revealed a vegetable substance in his pocket which he identified as "marijuana cake."

He was held on bail totaling $960 to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Hair Length Talk

The "political implications" of Tamalpais High School District's controversy over hair length will be considered by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 201 of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael, committee chairman S. Robert Politzer reported.

Bridge Directors Dash Transit System Hopes

Twenty-seven years ago, the commute ferry service between Marin and San Francisco was forced out of business by the Golden Gate Bridge.

Last Thursday, directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District voted to put ferries back into business, at the district's expense.

IN THE YEARS since 1942, when the last of the ferries quit running, congestion on the bridge and its approaches — especially the approaches — has increased to the point where it is no longer possible to commute by car to San Francisco faster than it once could be done by a combination of railroad and ferries.

Principal reason for the congestion, as any bridge toll taker would tell the directors if they asked him, is that most of the cars carry only one or two riders each. The bridge, therefore, can accommodate only a small fraction of the number of commuters possible if there were adequate mass transit facilities.

The bridge directors, however, never ask the toll takers. And though they may ask their innovative new general manager, Dale W. Luehring, they are inclined to ignore his suggestions — as they never ignored the "it can't be done" ultimatums of his very noninnovative predecessor, James Adam.

LUEHRING HAD URGED that the bridge district go into the bus business. Greyhound buses carry less than a fifth of the commuters because their schedules are unsatisfactory. Greyhound Lines is not interested in improving the service because, as its officials have repeated many times, it wants to get out of the commute business.

If another fifth of the commuters could be induced to ride buses, the congestion could be reduced while steps were taken toward a rail rapid transit system — either through a tube, over another bridge, or on a second deck of the present bridge (though engineers hired on recommendation of the bridge district's former general manager always said "no" to this last).

San Francisco members of the bridge board, wedded to the past in this as in many other things pertaining to their city, insisted on ferries. Luehring then came up with a proposal to start both a bus system and a ferry system.

BUT THE SAN FRANCISCANS, over the opposition of North Bay members of the bridge district board, turned this down flatly last Thursday. They want ferries, period. Nothing else.

That this will do little to solve the problem does not bother them. That present-day ferries must be less adequate than those of a generation ago, for lack of the connecting rail system, does not bother them. They just want ferries.

The high hopes that were attached to entry of the bridge district into the transit picture have thus been dashed. Even James Adam at his most adamant could not have been more blindly stubborn than these San Francisco directors.

Suction Cup Feet

Anyone who has watched a lizard scurry across the ceiling knows that he just has to have suction cups on his feet. But examination with the naked eye and the optical microscope show only rows of ridges covering toes and soles.

How lizards managed their marvelous feats of agility remained a mystery until recently. Under the great magnification of an electron scanning microscope, the ridges proved to be made up of tens of thousands of tiny stalks, each with a tiny suction cup on the end.

For every mystery science clears up, it uncovers one or two more, however. This time the electron microscope posed another riddle. Why are the North American lizard's feet so much dirtier than his Asian cousin's?

"Max Rafferty says it's perfectly proper—we're looking for narcotics."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Communists Have Odd Idea Of Peace

I wonder if the people who are demanding accelarated withdrawal of troops from Vietnam ever consider the Communists' idea of "peace".

Cheddi Jagan told the International Conference of Communist and Workers Parties held recently in Moscow: "The people of the whole world owe a debt of gratitude to the heroic Vietnamese people for stalling the imperialist juggernaut. By dealing crushing blows, Vietnam transformed the U.S. political scene, and forced even hawks like George McBundy to become doves. Today, it is sounding imperialism's deathknell. Tomorrow, more battles in other areas of Asia, Africa, and Latin America (the most aggravated front of imperialism) will create its graveyard."

'Unsponsored' Plan Another Protest

In response to your editorial "Sponsorship is Spurious, But Protest is Real", I agree wholeheartedly that the protest is real. Perhaps some of the sponsorship is spurious, perhaps not. I write on behalf of many unaffiliated Marin women who are unsponsored, who may prefer to be unsponsored but who urgently feel that the United States must withdraw from the war. We will come together (as our own sponsors) this month to decide if and how we can participate in the moratorium which is nationally planned for Nov. 15. I invite all interested women to join us for an informal gathering on Oct. 23 at my home.

Mrs. CLIFFORD JOSEPHSON

Not All Clergy Agree On Vietnam

Current mushrooming pressure on our federal government . . . to get out of Vietnam immediately boasts impressive support. Leading educators, senators and clergymen are being heard. They have a right to be heard. I wonder if the encouragement from the North Vietnam — Viet Cong delegations in Paris are really comforting.

I personally feel a need to state that not all clergymen and churches are joining the clamor. And I resist any inference that we who approve our government's present efforts are therefore sub-Christian, lovers of violence, or behind the times. . .

On the surface, opponents in the great argument appear to assume that we all share the will and ability to reach a mutually agreeable solution. It seems to me, however, that two vastly different philosophies are squaring off and will never be able to agree. This deep conflict divides churches and clergy. We too find ourselves poles apart. . .

Military power is certainly not the solution to human problems. It can only restrain evil. It cannot take evil out of society. We all need to get this point straight. The Bible does not offer either force or gentle restraint as able to change the ills of this world.

The Bible does offer God's power to all who come humbly confessing their sins and turning to Christ as the Savior whom God has provided. Has the Church outgrown its call to witness this central truth? . . .

SMALL WORLD

No matter how thin you slice it—

One Symphony Helps Another

Phillip S. Boone, president, San Francisco Symphony Association has made some seriously short-sighted statements (I-J, Oct. 9) about the solution to the fiscal problems of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

As one who is deeply involved as volunteer for musical enrichment of our lives through good live music, it is clear that without regional development and appreciation of music, the San Francisco Symphony would be facing even more problems than he projects.

For 18 years the Marin Symphony Guild has been building audiences and musicians not only through our very fine community orchestra, the Marin Symphony, conducted by Sandor Salgo, but also through our top-graded Marin Youth Orchestra, the Workshop for Strings, and our Music for Minors program. We sponsor and support all of these very worthwhile programs, which in turn are reflected in additional interest and support for the San Francisco Symphony. An appreciation of fine music leads to a desire to hear more not less or it. . .

Tamalpais Creek Horrible Example

This is an open invitation to all in Marin to come to Kentfield and to drive down College Avenue; take a long, hard look at the Corte Madera Flood Project. Make up your own minds whether this is an example of how you want your county to look at the cost of your tax money. Then earth-lovers, take a hard look at your world now. If you see a small area that thrills your soul, some grassy spot or rounded contour of California gold, work to preserve it. Prevention is the only answer, and no one who sees the problem can afford to wait for someone else to do it for you. What we don't preserve today, we won't have tomorrow.

Beware of whom you put in office and whom they hire to do the jobs. Be clever, be wary, be alert. Work for something we can point to and say proudly, "There is evidence of good planning for the benefit of all people." I've never heard anyone proud of Corte Madera Creek Project, except the Corps of Army Engineers and the cement manufacturers. Marin County residents will be excusing this error for years. It is now ready to be used as an example. Let Tamalpais Creek not have died in vain. Don't waste time shaking your finger in disapproval of past action; look at the rape of Tam Creek; come see the bigger concreek; act now!

Congress Should Seize Chance To Help End Vietnam War

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Now is the time when those who want peace in Vietnam can do something about it.

The American people and the American government can either move together to seize the moment or throw it away by allowing the extremists — left and right — to cancel the will of the realistic peace-seekers.

The opportunity for joint action by President Nixon, most of Congress and most of the nation is at hand. The ingredients for its success are coming into view.

THE ELEMENTS of such a joint initiative would be these:

1 — That it be recognized that the 1964 Tonkin Resolution, by which the Congress overwhelmingly authorized President Johnson to help defend South Vietnam, no longer reflects the realities either in Vietnam or in the United States. It is outdated by events.

2— That the Tonkin Resolution, which expressed the view of Congress on the conduct of the war, be replaced by a new resolution expressing the view of Congress on the conduct of the peace.

3 — That the President and the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Congress join to shape the peace resolution to reflect the maximum area of agreement on how the best the United States can get an acceptable peace.

THERE ARE GREAT advantages in such a course.

It would make Congress and especially the Senate, which has a constitutional duty to "advise and consent" on foreign policy, an active, helpful, responsible participant in dealing with the paramount issue before the country.

It would force Congress to replace talk with action, to come to grips with the hard but necessary choice of goals — surrender and defeat or a measured de-escalation while South Vietnam steadily takes over its own defense.

Congress ought to choose its policy and thus stand up and be counted. When it does, it will help shape a national will to carry out that policy.

FOR MONTHS now Congress has been demanding a larger participation in the shaping of foreign policy. Now is the time to do something about it. Does Congress want to share responsibility or only talk about it? Here is its opportunity — to vote its own conviction in replacing the war-guide resolution with a peace-guide resolution.

A meaningful peace resolution could be achieved only at the active initiative of the President. His is the primary constitutional duty to negotiate the peace. But he needs the support of Congress in waging the peace just as Lyndon Johnson needed the support of Congress in waging the war.

We are convinced that Mr. Nixon and the majority of Congress can reach an agreement on what such a peace resolution should contain. And when they do, it will help greatly to create a national consensus behing it.

THE AREAS of agreement between the responsible doves and President Nixon are far greater than many realize.

This is revaled by two facts:

All the leading Democratic doves voted for the minority Vietnam plank at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Today Mr. Nixon is carrying out every provision of that plank and — at points — more.

The dove-supported Democratic plank advocated "phased withdrawal" of all foreigh troops from Vietnam. Richard Nixon has gone further. He has begun phased withdrawal of U.S. troops without the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops. The dove-supported Democratic plank opposed "unilateral withdrawal." The President has gone beyond it with a beginning unilateral withdrawal.

It opposed "surrender" — and so does Mr. Nixon.

Probably some will not stand by the position they took at Chicago. But responsible leaders like Hubert Humphrey, Clark Clifford, Mike Mansfield, George Aiken and many others would.

A consensus on how best to end the war is coming into being, and the President and Congress ought to seize it.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

'Understanding Gap' Endangers Education, Controller Says

By JAMES K. WOODWORTH

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — "Higher education is threatened by an 'understanding gap' between the campus and the general public."

That statement, made recently by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, could be the understatement of the year.

Flournoy was referring to the Angela Davis case at the University of California at Los Angeles, where Miss Davis has been fired by the board of regents because she is an admitted Communist. She, in turn, has claimed the firing resulted, not becuase she is a Communist, but because she is a Negro.

THE CONTROLLER said he was appalled at the gap reflected in faculty members' lack of understanding of the public's current attitudes toward the campuses and the public's lack of understanding of the attitudes of faculties and students.

Flournoy cited the need to restore in faculties and administrators the belief that "the people of California are, in fact, committed to quality public education and the academic freedom it requires." But he warned that it is also necessary to restore in the public the belief "that the role of quality education requires the interchange and examination of widely divergent views, the academic freedom necessary for any effective exchange or exposure."

THE STATE CONTROLLER said the principle of academic freedom was "unnecessarily jeopardized" by the action of a faculty member in assigning Miss Davis to teach a course at UCLA after the board of regents had initiated proceedings to dismiss her for her Communist membership.

This, he said, was "unbelievable" and "unnecessarily provocative and inflaming."

Flournoy said, "On the other hand, I'm equally concerned by the frequently manifested public attitude that attacks individual faculty appointments or guest appearances. This is an attack on academic freedom which is so vital to quality in public institutions and higher education."

AS POINTED OUT by the state controller, there is a common notion among faculty members and students that "the public should keep its nose out of their business."

"So long as we are trying to preserve and expand a system of public higher education, the public will have the ultimate power to effectuate its reaction to campus doings through the power of the purse, or through pressure upon the citizen governing boards," he pointed out.

"The furor or threat of retribution over a single appointment can do extensive damage to academic freedom and quality public higher education."

The policy of the board of regents, that no Communist will be employed in higher education, is a logical position for that board to take.

'Ship Jumper' Bills Hint At Big Payoffs

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, — Since Congress convened early last January, a flood of 965 "ship jumper" bills have deluged the Senate Immigration Subcommittee.

It is estimated that Asiatics and other foreigners who entered the country illegally paid some $2 Million to lobbyists, lawyers, senatorial assistants and possibly even senators themselves to get these measures introduced.

Of the 100 senators, 84 sponsored such "private" bills, as they are officially known.

These are among the highlights so far uncovered by the staff of the Senate Ethics Committee, which is investigating what is behind the curious tidal wave of such legislation.

BILLS OF THIS kind are an old story in Congress. But they have been so numerous this session that on the demand of Sen. John Williams, R-Del., the ethics committee launched a probe. Williams cited reports that some senators claimed they knew nothing about bills that bore their names, also that sizable sums were paid to have the measures introduced.

According to some accounts, as much as $2,000 was paid for a bill.

For an alien facing deportation, that might not appear excessive. The mere introduction of such a measure automatically causes the Immigration Bureau to defer deportation proceedings for a year. In many cases, the individuals involved are "ship jumpers" — hence the designation "ship jumper" bills.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ethics committee chairman stressed that intent of the investigation is to get at the bottom of charges that such measures have been introduced "without the full knowledge of sponsoring senators," and that "payments were made to senators."

THE SENATE Immigration Subcommittee, shich has jurisdiction over "ship jumper" bills, is headed by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., who is also chairman of the judiciary committee, of which the subcommittee is a part.

With two exceptions, every one of the eight member subcommittee is listed as sponsoring several or more of these measures. The exceptions are Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and John McClellan, D-Ark.

One subcommitteeman, Philip Hart, D-Mich., is one of the biggest sponsors of this type of legislation. Thirty-three of these bills were introduced in his name.

Other significant facts brought to light by ethics committee staff probers:

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., tips the list with 71 "ship jumper" measures. Next highest are Senators Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., with 57; Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, with 52; Walter Mondale, D-Minn., with 43; Hugh Scott, Pa., Republican floor leader, with 42; Joseph Tydings, D-Md., with 41; Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., with 31; Spessard Holland, D-Fla., with 30.

SEN. JOHN Sherman Cooper, Ky., ranking Republican member of the ethics committee, holds that the solution to this problem is relatively simple. He contends it is to be found in two corrective measures:

Prohibit the immigration subcommittee from accepting such "private" bills. Cooper points out that the House Judiciary Committee took such action several years ago, with the result that "ship jumper" measures no longer appear in the House.

Require all bills to be offered from the floor of the Senate chamber and solely by the members sponsoring them. This would put an end to bills being given committees by members of senators' staff with the legislator's name typed in — as is the case with virtually all the "ship jumper" measures.

Just One More Chance To See Marin Art And Garden Fair

The Marin Art and Garden Fair, taken for granted as a traditional Marin event for 24 years, will become a thing of the past after next year's performance in Ross.

There will be one more showing in Ross next July. After that, it will move to the Civic Center. Even the name will be changed because Fair-Marin Inc. will run it from 1971. The Ross property is owned by a non-profit corporation known as the Marin Art and Garden Center, and that name won't move to the Civic Center.

THE ART AND GARDEN Center is proud of its accomplishments during the quarter century existence of the fair. No funds from the county treasury have been spent on the fair. The center has put on the show with the help of annual appropriations from the State Division of Fairs.

Because of its success, the state has appropriated capital allocations over the years totalling $1,985,000, of which $1,176,000 was used for site development and construction of the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

For probably the last time, manager Marcelle McCoy presented her annual fair budget to the county supervisors a couple weeks ago. It was a routine item that was sent on to the state for approval and an annual appropriation of $57,797.

But for the fair, the 1970 budget represents the end of an era. From the woodsy setting in Ross, the 1971 fair will move into the spanking new auditorium, and the whole atmosphere will necessarily change.

IN THE VAST open area around the auditorium, you just can't create overnight the atmosphere in Ross, where age-old trees interlock overhead to create a natural canopy.

The auditorium building will have to be the focal point, and the fair designed for interior showing rather than in a sprawling garden atmosphere. Trees such as those in Ross just can't be grown in a year or two.

If you want to see the Marin Art and Garden Fair, your last chance is next July. Thereafter, there will be a totally different show.

DESPITE ALL the careful attention paid to the skylight in the new Hall of Justice, it still leaks. But not nearly as badly as the older administration building.

Apparently it just isn't possible to make the plastic-type canopy water tight. After a long dry summer, openings seem to develop at the seams, and it takes the first good drenching to seal them together. Even then, a few drops keep drizzling down onto the floors below.

FLOYD HOVLAND, who's in charge of shrubbery and landscaping at the Civic Center, is right proud of his famed Clivia (Kaffir lily) which comes out with gorgeous orange blooms each year around February and March in the central planting area of the Civic Center's basement floor.

But he wishes they wouldn't get so uppity and start blooming in October. One clivia blossomed out the other day, which was fine. Except that everybody kept stopping Hovland to ask him how come this time of year.

To save time and the embarrassment of trying to explain the freak display. Hovland quietly snipped off the bloom and warned the rest of the clivia to wait until next spring.

DID YOU KNOW that W.P. Duhamel, former veterans service officer, used to be an optometrist in San Francisco until the 1930's? That's where he got the name Doc. Next to his optometrist's office, he used to have a veterans' employment office. This got him interested in veterans' affairs.

Improve Gnoss Field, Novato Chamber Urges

Funds spent on airport improvement by the County of Marin should be spent at Gnoss Field, the county airport in Novato, not at Smith Ranch Airport in Santa Venetia, the Novato Chamber of Commerce board has voted, according to secretary Billie Garl.

The board, meeting Thursday, said it considered Smith Ranch Airport a private enterprise, Mrs. Garl reported.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board also:

MEMBERSHIP — Made final plans for a one-day intensive membership drive for Thursday.

BUSES — Backed the use of buses for rapid transit over other types of transportation.

BROCHURE — Named Windsor Publications of Los Angeles to produce a brochure on Novato, with expenses to be paid by advertising.

BIRTHDAY — Named Robert Dorian Chairman of a committee to make plans for observance of the city's 10th birthday.

DIRECTOR — Named Le Roy Winters to replace William Siler on the board of directors.

Cold Bay Is A Nothing Place —But Oh! To Be There Now!

Cold Bay, Alaska, is a nothing place — nothing at all — nothing.

It is barren, bleak, windswept, desolate. As a nothing place it has few peers, except perhaps Kiska, Iwo Jima, Parece Vela, or Gallup, New Mexico.

The mountains jab at the gray sullen skies and the peaks are lost in clouds. You don't know whether they're real mountains or just monstrous piles of snow and ice which never melt and are most of the time gray and only some of the time white and glistening in the seldom sun.

The waters of the bays and inlets are gray, lead-gray, heavy-gray and ominous. And there's a coldness to the waters, a coldness so cold, a coldness so cutting it's difficult to believe it sustains life. Yet the streams pulse with fish and the bay bulges with Alaskan king crab, so dedicious with sour bread and a chilled good bottle of Chablis or Riesling.

THE MAN in the quonset hut on the north side of the long air strip — the airlines sometimes use Cold Bay, Alaska, as a refueling stop when the winds are bad and against them on the great circle route to Tokyo — the man in the shack, Moresby by name, is always and understandably glad to see us. He never fails to ask if I brought my rifle along, for he knows how much I enjoy hunting and how much I'd like to get in the way of one of those big bears that live there. He knows this and his eyes shine as he pours coffee for us. The coffee smell fills the air and the warmth of the cup feels good to your hands and good to your face as you bring the cup up. He laughs and telis of — you know the story. You've heard it before. You know it but you listen and you laugh at the excitement that comes each time he gets to the part where he says: " . . . and there he was — big as a barn, I tell you, and he came at me cracking across the muskeg. It was raining a fine rain, a drizzle. I snapped my rifle up. My foot slipped in the mud and I fell. I scrambled up and tried to get my feet on something solid. That big bruiser was coming down on me like a freight train. Man! He was all mouth and teeth and mad! I looked through the scope and he was close, so close all I could see through the glass was hair . . . !"

THEY TELL some great stories up there in Cold Bay, Alaska and some not so great. And you listen to their great and their not so great stories and all the while your mind is clicking off how you're going to make it back there, back with your rifle, that is, and your heavy down jacket and your sleeping roll.

You ask him: "Where do you go to get the big ones?"

Casually he waves out there. "Just across the runway," he says and you blink, thinking, "I'm getting the business," and you're thinking, "but that's all right. It's part of the business. You've got to know what's true and what's the ol' business. It's all right for thats part of the business, getting the business."

It's a Robert Service land it is and his lines come to you out of the night:

"Were you ever out in the Great Alone,
When the moon was awful clear,
And the icy mountains hemmed you in
With a silence you most could hear . . . ."

Yes, Cold Bay, Alaska, is a nothing place —nothing at all — nothing! But I'd give a full month's pay to be there, me and my rifle, for a couple weeks this fall. Me and my rifle and that great big brownie, a the great Alaskan bear.

Men reject their prophets and slay them, but they love their martyrs and honor those whom they have slain. — Fyodor Dostoievsky.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hysterectomy Patients May, Rarely Go Through Pregnancy

VAN DELLEN

A 39-year-old woman with large fibroids moved along with the right tube and ovary. had her entire uterus (hysterectomy) re-

Two months later, tests revealed that she was pregnant. Shortly thereafter pain developed in the lower abdomen and emergency surgery was performed.

The woman was pregnant in the left tube. An ovum fertilized prior to surgery was trapped in the tube where it settled and began to enlarge.

THIS IS A RARE occurrence but it demonstrates the astonishing ability of some women to conceive despite seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

A group of physicians from Meadville, Pa., reviewed the medical literature relative to pregnancy following hysterectomy and found only 29 reported instances during the last 100 years. In 10 of these, conception took place before the operation.

In the remainder, the beginning of a subsequent pregnancy varied from four months to 11 years after surgery. Why?

MANY HYSTERECTOMIES are partial. The part of the uterus that protrudes into the vagina (cervix) is left in place to lend support to the pelvic organs. In many instances, the severed ends of the tubes are implanted into the cervical wall. Now and then the cervix and a part of the uterus remains.

We must assume that the open end of the tube connecting with the cervical passageway allows sperm to meet an ovum. This explains why 50 per cent of the subsequent pregnancies in this group were in the tube and 26 per cent were in the ovary or abdominal cavity.

BUT IN A SMALL percentage, the fertilized ovum became implanted in the remaining uterine tissue. None of the women delivered full-term babies. Three were premature, and of these, only one infant lived.

These investigators added one patient to the 100-year list, Following a partial hysterectomy she conceived and had two babies via caesarean section.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

BEER STINGS

S.K. writes: Whenever I drink beer I develop a stinging, prickly feeling after retiring for the evening. If I have mixed alcoholic beverages, sores show up. Does this sound like an allergy or a disease?

REPLY

This sounds like an allergic reaction although the development of sores after having a mixed drink is most unusual. I assume that your "sores" are not hives.

CONTACTS AND CATARACTS

Mr. S. C. writes: How much time must elapse before a person who has had cataract surgery can be fitted with contact lenses?

REPLY

The person can usually obtain the lenses six weeks after surgery. Some eye specialists do the fitting three to four weeks after the operation.

ENLARGED UTERUS

Mrs. B. writes: What could cause an enlargement of the uterus, other than pregnancy?

REPLY

Fibroids and cancer are common causes. Now and then, enlargement of the abdomen is due to an ovarian cyst. Some of these tumors have weighed 50 to 128 pounds.

SAGGING FACE

N. A. writes: Does the face ever go back to normal after Bell's palsy?

REPLY

In the majority of sufferers, telltale evidence of the disease remains. It may, however, be so slight that only an expert could not the change.

Today's Health Hint — The family of the alcoholic must be understanding and patient.

France Might Link Mart With British Atom Tie-Up

PARIS (London Express) — A new hint that France might demand a nuclear tie-up with Britain as the cost of British entry into the Common Market has come from Jacques Duhmel, the minister of agriculture, and one of the leading architects of France's European policies.

In an interview in Paris Match, Duhamel says the entry of Britain into the Common Market will bring advantages to Europe.

One is British technological know-how which will help Europe close the yawning technology gap which now exists between the market and the U.S.

The second, he says, is military, for France and Britain are the only two European nations to have independent nuclear forces. "If Europe is to have her own nuclear defense capability, it can only be through an agreement between France and Britain," said Duhamel.

The third is British democracy "which guarantees a certain conception of the liberty of citizens."

This is not the first time the upper echelons in the French government have hinted at the need for a nuclear link between Britain and France. During his campaign for the presidency, Georges Pompidou mentioned it more than once and indicated that it was a subject which might be taken up in the immediate future, apparently before any formal talks over the economic terms on which Britain might enter the Common Market.

The nuclear issue would be the hottest on any agenda dealing with Britain's future relations with Europe. As such, defense matters are not mentioned in the Rome treaty which founded the market — so this would be the subject of a bi-lateral negotiation between Paris and London.

For France, a nuclear deal with Britain would prove an inexpensive way of obtaining the final secrets of the thermo-nuclear bomb which she is finding economically more and more difficult to afford with her own national bomb test program.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson would find himself in an impossible position before French suggestions that he share Britain's nuclear secrets with anyone in Europe. At a time when Washington is pressing hard to have international terms on the non-proliferation of nuclear arms accepted, it is difficult to see Washington agreeing to Britain sharing secrets with France, who has always refused to rally to the non-proliferation treaty discussions at Geneva.

So if the French demand for a nuclear tie up were to be accepted, it would mean a total nuclear break between Britain and America. It is doubtful if Wilson would ever be ready to pay that price, even for Europe.

The French proposal could then be used as a means of justifying Britain's continuing bad faith towards Europe and a means of stalling her admission into the community.

Chamber Sets Road Priority Presentation

A priority list for recommended 1971-72 state highway construction in Marin will be presented to the board of supervisors tomorrow by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The list is essentially an updating of 1970-71 priorities approved by supervisors last April.

The chamber asks the state Division of Highways to make construction of the Novato bypass of Highway 101 as top priority, to include improved Highway 101 access at Gnoss Field and the McGraw-Hill Co. north of Novato.

Other recommended priorities are to widen Highway 101 to eight lanes from the Spencer Avenue overcrossing on the Waldo Grade to Terra Linda, widen and realign Tiburon Boulevard, reconstruction of Highway 101 to freeway standards between North San Pedro Road and Terra Linda, review of the North San Pedro interchange design with an eye toward a median strip wide enough for rapid transit and interim improvements to Shoreline Highway between Highway 101 and Point Reyes Station.

Safety Plan For Railroads Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by the "new and catastrophic potential for death and destruction" in train wrecks, the Nixon administration has proposed the first comprehensive federal railroad safety legislation.

Sending the recommendations to Congress, Transportation Secretary John Volpe last week cited "a steadily rising trend" in rail accidents, many involving shipments of hazardous poisons and explosives.

"Existing rail safety statutes are inadequate to enable the government to respond to the problem," Volpe said, noting that—in an abrupt about-face since last spring—the railroads themselves now seem to agree.

Unlike airlines and trucks, railroads thus far have escaped any sort of comprehensive minimum safety standards set by the government, despite attempts in the past to pass such legislation.

The proposal itself does not outline specific safety measures, rather it would permit the secretary of transportation to draw up regulations setting minimum standards for, among other items, tracks, rolling stock and loading procedures.

The administration bill, written from the report of a task force composed of railroad management, labor and government representatives, is the third such safety measures to be introduced this year.

Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., have introduced their own bills—both of which remain in committee.

All three measures are prompted, in part, by these statistics:

Since 1964, derailments of trains carrying hazardous materials have forced the warlike evacuation of more than 40 American communities.

Train accidents have increased from 4,149 in 1961 to 7,294 in 1967, up 75.8 per cent. Train accidents exceeded 8,000 in 1968.

Volpe estimates that three-fourths of all accidents are caused by factors—such as improperly maintained track and defective rolling stock—not covered by existing rail safety laws. Labor proponents of safety legislation estimate the percentage is closer to 95.

In 1968, there were 812 persons killed and 20,801 injured in train accidents, excluding grade crossing collisions between trains and motor vehicles. Some 3,816 persons died in grade crossing accidents last year.

Loss of life in accidents involving hazardous materials has been relatively light so far. But John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, points out "it is now obvious that railroad derailment accidents, dangerous enough in themselves, have acquired a new and catastrophic potential for death and destruction previously unknown."

Groppi Denied First Jail Mass

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Rev. James E. Groppi was not permitted to attend mass yesterday, but will be allowed in the future.

The militant Roman Catholic priest began a six-month jail term over the weekend, and captain of the guard Michael Colloton said his only orders were "to make sure you don't treat him (Groppi) any different than the others."

Groppi will be assigned to the medium security block and given a job in the laundry or tailor shop, a spokesman said. As a medium security prisoner he will be allowed to attend Sunday mass at the jail, but prison rules prohibit his offering mass because wine is used in the service.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Remote Beach Rescue Is Made

Marin County firemen combined with Point Reyes National Seashore rangers and sheriff's deputies Saturday to rescue a Kentfield woman with a fractured leg from a remote beach near Tomales Bluff.

Caroline Spiller, of 9 North Ridgewood Road, was struck by a log in the surf while she walked with friends on a beach about 4:30 p.m. on the McClure Ranch. She sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

The firemen, rangers and deputies were summoned to the area and the firemen used cables and a basket to pull the injured 50-year-old woman up a steep 200 foot cliff.

Frank Jr. Seems Lost In Big Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra Jr. opened his CBS special last night singing from inside a giant slipper that swings high over a Las Vegas entertainment palace. He closed it singing from the turret roof of another.

In between, the young man led the viewers on an impressive tour of the Nevada city and its environs. It was a crowded hour.

The Doodletown Pipers sang a number crawling on the desert and splashing in a fountain pool. Sammy Davis Jr. and a chorus danced around the Hoover Dam —perhaps the world's largest backdrop. Nancy Sinatra sang while wandering amid flashing neon signs. Young Sinatra rode a dune buggy while singing and poised dangerously at the top of some desert rocks. Frank Sinatra Sr. joined his son in a number.

The show used all sorts of camera tricks, from wild optical effects to slow motion. There was even an aerial ballet—to music—by the precision flying team of the U.S. Air Force.

In all this, the star of the show, a quiet-mannered fellow with a pleasant but hardly electrifying voice and presence, seemed lost.

The show made some stabs at comedy, with bits by Arte Johnson of "Laugh-In," Jack Leonard, and Jack Benny. None of it worked well and was the weak spot in the hour.

"The Advocates," a new, live series Sunday nights on a national hookup of educational stations, this week debated whether Congress should pass the Goodell bill to require withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam in 14 months.

No one-hour program could handle the enormously complex question in much depth or with great effect. This program's format works against satisfactory exploration of pros and cons. It is a strange combination of debate, interview and cross-examination, all broken into short segments.

Both sides had film clips showing the atrocities of war. There were interviews with Sen. Charles Goodell stating his case. Sen. Barry Goldwater was interviewed on his position.

Nolan Says Some Changes Due For Hapless 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If man can go to the moon and the New York Mets can win the World Series, the San Francisco 49ers can win a football game.

But when?

"We're apt to make some changes," 49er Coach Dick Nolan declared yesterday after the Atlanta Falcons, without linebacker Tommy Nobis and quarterback Bob Berry, beat the 49ers 21-7 in a ragged National Football League game.

The loss, in which the 49ers gave up four fumbles and had three passes intercepted, left them 0-4-1 in NFL play. They were 0-6 in the exhibition season.

BIG DAY

Rookie safety Jim Weatherford sparked the Falcons with an interception and two fumble recoveries, one of which he returned 74 yards to give the Falcons a 14-0 first-quarter lead following Jim Butler's four-yard scoring plunge.

Weatherford wrestled the ball from the 49ers' Clifton McNeil following a pass completion and scampered down the sideline while most of the 49ers thought the play was over.

"I was already down," said McNeil, "The whistle didn't blow and Weatherford grabbed the ball away from me."

After the 49ers' Gene Washington made a leaping catch at the Atlanta one, Falcon corner back John Mallory apparently prevented a 49er score by recovering Ken Willard's fumble.

LAKES SCORES

But three plays later, Falcon quarterback Randy Johnson, hit by linebacker Dave Wilcox, fumbled and 49er tackle Roland Lakes carried the ball into the end zone from the two for San Francisco's only touchdown.

Atlanta's Bob Etter missed field goal tries of 30, 46 and 45 yards and the 49ers had a chance to tie in the last quarter when Wilcox's second interception gave them the ball on the Falcons' 13.

But after replacing 49er quarterback John Brodie, Steve Spurrier and Doug Cunningham botched the handoff. Atlanta's Ron Acks recovered.

Six minutes later, rookie Bruce Lemmerman, activated only last week, threw a 20-yard scoring pass to Gail Cogdill to clinch Atlanta's victory.

LOUD BOOS

Brodie was roundly booed by the 28,684 fans-smallest crowd of the year at Kezar-despite his 159 yards on 19 of 31 passes. But two of his passes were intercepted and a half dozen others were almost picked off.

"My right elbow and shoulder are hurting," Brodie said. "It's been with me all year. I don't seem to have any strength."

Spurrier will step in if Brodie isn't ready for Baltimore, said Nolan, who added he would make some other changes "just to shake them up."

Atlanta center Bruce Bosley, a 14-year veteran playing his first game against the 49ers after they cut him, remarked: "I feel badly about beating my old friends but not about beating the 49er organization."

San Marin Rules In Novato

By GARY TISCHLER

The upstart, the kid brother, the new kid on the block is king of the hill in Novato.

San Marin High School's unbeaten football team, only in existence for less than two seasons, severely thrashed Novato High School's proud but frustrated Hornets, to win the first great Novato rivalry, 9-0, before more than 2,000 screaming fans on a balmy, Saturday afternoon on Novato High's field.

In the end it was the toe of Urbano Bouscieguez, or the fear of what it could do, and an offense that seemed to have missed the game entirely, which betrayed Novato.

And it was Bouscieguez, the running of Steve Lambert, and a tremendous defensive effort which turned the trick for the Mustangs, who now have a string of 14 straight victories, counting an unbeaten 9-0 junior varsity season last year.

Bouscieguez kicked a 19-yard field goal the first time the Mustangs got the ball, after a Novato fumble.

That field goal loomed as big as a house and it was still on the Hornets' mind almost three quarters later when the Mustangs where in scoring position again with a fourth down on the nine. San Marin lined up in field goal position again, but what happened was that holder Pete Sorenson, a tiny, 135-pound back, got up and tossed a wobbly but accurate pass to end Bill Eckoff in the end zone for the touchdown. Ironically, Bouscieguez missed the extra point kick, the ball hitting the right goal post.

That was all the scoring, but in between, the game was everything one could hope for from a heated rivalry. The fellows obviously knew each other.

DEFENSE

After the San Marin field goal, the first half turned into a titanic defensive struggle, with neither team making any offensive headway. Linebackers Dave Perron and Neal Given, end Lynn Marritt and tackle Russ Weklych were the defensive standouts for Novato while linebacker Jack Burnam, tackle Tom Fowler and Kerry Atkinson and end Bob Fowler stopped the Novato offense cold.

The first half was also a red banner day as flags flew all over the place and both teams were faced with such impossible third down plays as third and 34 for a first down.

Nothing, however, could get the Hornets going. Novato, which had lost, 10-0, to San Rafael a week earlier, never even threatened this time, coming up with just 10 yards total offense, and one first down.

JAVEES LOSE

Another Mustang streak did come to an end that afternoon. Novato stopped San Marin's previously unbeaten junior varsity, 7-6.

The amazing Mustangs remain unbeaten In Marin County Athletic League play with a 2-0 record, and are still unbeaten on the season with a 4-0 mark

Lamonica's Passing Game Delights Record Crowd

Bills Use O.J. Simpson As A High Priced Decoy

OAKLAND (AP) — For six weeks, the Oakland Raiders had been waiting for Daryle Lamonica's passing game to get in the groove. Yesterday, it grooved all over the place.

Lamonica threw six touchdown passes — all in the first half — in leading the Raiders to a 50-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills.

It was the first time this season the Raiders have played like the American Football League title contenders they are supposed to be.

Lamonica missed his chance for a record-tying seventh touchdown pass in the second half and the fact that the Raiders led 42-7 at intermission might have had something to do with it.

NOT EASY

"I told the team to play it as though it were 0-0," said Raider Coach John Madden. "But it's not easy to play that way when you have a 35-point lead."

Though the Raiders are 5-0-1 and atop the AFL's Western Division, they have had some close calls to weak teams and Lamonica's passing had been spotty until last week when he did well in the Denver show against the Broncos.

But yesterday's performance put to rest any lingering doubts that the man who had led the Raiders to an AFL title and a Western Division crown in the last two years might have lost something.

Lamonica said he had finally gotten over the wrist injury that had troubled him earlier in the season and added: "I really felt strong today. I had more zong on my ball and I was getting set up better."

Was he upset about not getting the seventh touchdown pass?

OWN WORLD

"I don't think about things like that," he said. "When I'm out there I'm in a world all my own and the only thing I think about is winning. I've got a few more years and I'll have a chance to get seven some other time."

Both AFL and National Football League touchdown pass records are seven, with Lamonica's teammate, George Blanda, setting the AFL mark with the Houston Oilers in 1961. In the NFL, Sid Luckman, Adrian Burk, Y. A. Tittle and Joe Kapp have done it.

Two of the scoring tosses were caught by Pete Banaszak, 10 and 1 yards; two by Fred Biletnikoff, 16 and 23 yards; one by Billy Cannon, 53 yards, and one by Warren Wells, 13 yards. In all, Lamonica completed 21 of 36 passes for 313 yards.

EARLY OUT

Lamonica left the game with more than 10 minutes to go and Madden said he never had a second thought about taking him out.

"I would never chance an injury to my starting quarterback with a 40-point lead just for the sake of a record," said the Raider coach. "That would be the worst thing imaginable."

Totally lost in the glow of Lamonica's performance — which came before an Oakland Coliseum record crowd of 54,418 — was the return to the Bay Area of O. J. Simpson, who began his football career here.

SIX CARRIES

O. J. only carried the ball six times, though he gained 50 yards, and was hard put to hide his disappointment at not doing

HE WON'T QUIT

Wyoming Coach Expects Ouster

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Coach Lloyd Eaton, who brought the University of Wyoming from a position as a regional football power to one of national prominence, hinted last night he "wouldn't be surprised" if he is released from his contract.

"But," Eaton said, "you know damned well I'm not gonna quit."

Eaton, whose Wyoming record is 55-20-2, and whose lifetime record is 12th best nationally, stirred up a controversy Friday when he dismissed 14 black gridders — six of them starters — from the unbeaten Cowboy club for disciplinary reasons.

Eaton's action sparked an all-night meeting of the universities board of trustees—including Gov. Stan Hathaway. The group eventually upheld the dismissals.

Eaton denied a report he had submitted his resignation at the meeting.

Saturday, Wyoming fielded an all-white team and rolled over Brigham Young University, the center of the controversy, 40-7 for its fifth victory this season and fourth in conference play.

The 14 athletes had worn black armbands Friday in protest of the Mormon Church's doctrine which limits Negroes to positions low in church hierarchy.

Yesterday, the faculty senate at the university voted, 21-17, to oppose the dismissals and asked instead that the athletes be temporarily suspended until a faculty-student investigation be conducted. A number of faculty members threatened to resign if the dismissal weren't rescinded.

Marin Loses Heartbreaker To West Valley Gridders

By DAVID EINSTEIN

SANTA CLARA — With shocking suddeness that turned a storybook comeback for College of Marin into a heartbreaking defeat, safety Steve Malone raced 58 yards with an interception in the final quarter Saturday night to give the state's fourth-ranked West Valley Junior College a 34-27 victory over the Tars.

Marin came right back to score its second touchdown of the quarter, which had it not been for Malone's dash would have tied the score.

The defeat, in the first league game for both teams, was a crushing blow to the Tars' hopes of repeating as cahmpions of the Camino Norte Conference.

West Valley, of Campbell, twice held two touchdown leads in the fourth quarter, after a seesaw first half.

Viking flanker Larry Ray, who tied the score at 13 all in the waning seconds of the first half on a seven yard touchdown pass from Bill Barnes, burst 23 yards midway through the third quarter to give West Valley a lead it never relinquished.

The Vikings made it 27-13 in the opening moments of the final period when Barnes capped a 56-yard drive with a 27-yard scoring toss to Scott Loomis.

It was at that point the Tars stole the momentum. They closed the score to 27-19, marching 64 yards in seven plays. Jim Peters, whose two yard sneak in the second quarter gave the Tars their only lead, dove over, agains from the two.

Following the Marin kickoff, West Valley moved for a first down, but then the Marin defense held. And then it happened.

Peters took a step back on first down, and fired a pass at

Lee Says Too Many Mistakes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There's a long National Basketball League season ahead, but coach George Lee says his San Francisco Warriors "made enough mistakes and missed enough easy shots" in their opener to last the rest of the way.

The San Diego Rockets outscored the Warriors 9-8 in overtime at the Cow Palace Saturday night to win 125-124.

Lee noted that the Warriors had 20 turnovers to 13 for the Rockets and a shooting percentage of 40 to 44 for the winners.

Stu Lantz scored the goal that the regulation time ended, and Lantz also made the jump shot that won in the extra period.

Elvin Hayes led the Rockets with 29 points, and John Block and Don Kojis each had 26 and paced the early scoring. The big guns for the Warriors were Joe Ellis with 29, Jimmy King with 23, and Jeff Mullins with 22.

San Fancisco's next game is in Atlanta Wednesday.

Taft J.C. Romps Past Sonoma St.

Shades of Arizona Western were in the air Saturday night in Sonoma State College's first-ever football game under the lights looked much like its first under the sun.

Taft Junior College romped to a 43-6 win over the Cossacks at Taft, Kern County, in a game coach Lloyd Helgeson said "looked a lot like Arizona Western." The Matadors demolished SSC 65-0 in the first football game in Cossack history a month ago.

QUICK

Taft wasted no time getting on the scoreboard as it rolled up an 18-0 lead at the quarter mark and widened it to 24-0 at the half.

Sonoma State scored its lone touchdown late in the third quarter on what Helgeson termed "our best drive of the season." Quarterback Bill Cox hit ends Jack Trujillo and Dave Dohn on short passes and used halfbacks Herman Manuel and Luther Nelson in key running situations to drive 65 yards in 12 plays. Nelson plunged over from the one for the touchdown. Tom Hickman missed an extra point for the first time this season as his conversion kick was blocked by Taft.

Taft led 30-6 after three quarters, however, and scored twice in the final stanza for the 43-6 win.

WEIRD

The Cossacks lost what should have been a touchdown in the second quarter in the most unusual play in their five-game history. Cox dropped back to pass and, seeing end Dohn all alone at the Taft 10-yard line, lofted the ball towards him. But an official, figuring Cox would throw to the middle of the field, backed into the play and the ball hit him in the head.

"Dohn was exceptional," Helgeson said of the big end. He caught four Cox aerials for long gains on the night. Benny Guerra, a rugged SSC interior lineman whose aggressive play has highlighted the Cossacks' two wins this season, and tackle Jim Baker both earned high praise from Helgeson.

The Cossacks, now 2-2, return home Saturday against the San Francisco State junior varsity in a 1 p.m. contest at Petaluma's Durst Field.

Seals To Open A Home Stand

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Seals, embarrassed at Los Angeles Saturday night, are resting today prior to opening a six-game homestand tomorrow night with the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Appearing at the Oakland Coliseum Arena between now and Nov. 7 will be Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and New York in addition to the Penguins. In the season opener, the Seals and Penguins played to a 2-2 tie at Pittsburgh.

Coach Fred Glover, disappointed with Oakland's 5-0 loss to the Kings at Los Angeles Saturday night, planned to strees fundamentals and forechecking today in a workout.

Jack's Back On Golf Scene

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's bad news for golf's touring pros: Big Jack—the real Jack Nicklaus — is back, once again flashing the awesome form that made him the most feared competitor in the game.

"I guess you'd have to go back to Baltusrol" where he won the U.S. Open in 1967 "to find a tournament where "I've played so well," the Ohio strongman said yesterday after romping in with an easy victory in the $100,000 Sahara Invitational.

Nicklaus, who notched his 30th career victory before his 30th birthday, closed with a brilliant 65, six under par on the 6,751 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, for a 272 total, 12 under par.

He had a four-stroke margin over Frank Beard, the third-round leader, who finished with a 70 for 276. Dave Hill, 69, and Dale Douglass, 66, tied for third at 277 with Grier Jones, 68, and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, 69, next at 278.

But while it was business as usual for Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer had his troubles. The 40-year-old charger, attempting a comeback after a two-month absence forced by a hip ailment, closed with a disappointing 73 for 285, far back in the field.

Nicklaus, who has won this particular tournament four times in the last seven years, quipped: "I only need to win a couple more to get even with the (gambling) tables."

The powerful, golden-haired Nicklaus hadn't won since the San Diego Open early this year and has been on a diet for the last three weeks, dropping 15 pounds from his usual playing weight of 210.

Jack trailed Beard by one stroke going into the final round, but caught him on the first hole, chipping within six feet and canning the putt.

Tomales '11' Crushes Foe By 62-0

Tomales High School's football team may just be a little too good for the North Central II conference.

Tomales tore apart what was supposed to be an outstanding Middletown team, 62-0, at Durst Field in Pataluma Saturday night, going wild against a team that had allowed only six points in four games, all victories, while scoring 86 points.

Ron Petroni, the big halfback who rushed for more than 1,000 yards last season, had a tremendous day, scoring four touchdowns and 26 points while rushing for 144 yards in 11 carries.

Quarterback Dennis Rodoni completed 12 of 17 passes for two touchdowns and scored twice himself as Tomales rolled up 577 yards in total offense while holding Middletown to just 37 yards total offense and three first downs.

The game was the NCL-II league opener for Tomales, which has won the crown for the past two years.

PACIFIC-8 ROUNDUP

Stanford Vs. UCLA Top Game On Slate

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stanford and UCLA, who rate 1-2 in offensive power in the Pacific 8 Conference at the football season's halfway mark, clash at Stanford Saturday in the league's weekend headliner.

The unbeaten Bruins, 5-0, won their third Pac-8 contest by humbling the California Bears 32-0 Saturday. Stanford 3-2, brought its league record to 2-1 by outclassing the Washington State Cougars 49-0.

Jim Plunkett, the Pac-8's leading passer, has quarterbacked a Stanford offense that has compiled just over 2,500 yards in five games.

DUMMIT

Against the Indians, who are in a must-win situation, will be the league's second-ranked passer, Dennis Dummit. His U-clans have averaged nearly 300 yards against six opponents.

Plunkett threw two touchdown passes against Washington State and his third-quarter relief, Don Bunce, threw one and ran 43 yards for another.

Dummit passed for the Bruins' first two touchdowns and in the closing minutes, reserve tailback Bill Bolden scored two more on runs of 65 and 41 yards.

California and Washington State, meet in Spokane Saturday and a third conference game has Washington at Oregon. Nonconference action has Southern Cal entertaining Georgia Tech and Oregon State meeting Utah at Portland in a night gaem.

Like Washington State, Washington will be trying for its first Pac-8 victory. The Huskies lost 10-6 in the last second to Oregon State at Seattle Saturday.

Steve Endicott, who had five throws intercepted, connected on the big one, a 49-yarder to end Jim Scheele to win for the Breavers.

0-5 MARK

Washington is 0-5, with three conference losses, and Oregon is 1-1 in the Pac-8 and 3-2 overall. Oregon took a 60-13 pasting from the Air Force Academy in Colorado Saturday.

Southern Cal's home game with Georgia Tech is its last this year outside the conference. The Trojans were held to a 14-14 tie by Notre Dame in South Bend Saturday and have a 4-0-1 record with two conference victories.

Southern Cal had a slight edge in offensive statistics, but the Irish improved in the second half, got a break on a blocked kick and scored the tying touchdown. In the final minutes Notre Dame missed victory when a 48-yard field goal attempt bounced back off the crossbar.

Cliff Snow netted 62 yesterday to score a one stroke victory in the Mill Valley Golf Club's medal handicap tournament at the Mill Valley municipal course.

Snow, 74-12—62; Syl Auteri, 73-10—63; Frank Lyman, 77-14—63 Bill Hogan, 71-6—65; Lou Long, 80-15—65.

No Conflict With Heidi And Raiders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Daryle Lamonica didn't wait for "Heidi' this year.

A year ago, NBC-TV, which televises the American Football League "Game of the Week," pulled a classic boner by cutting into the end of the New York Jets-Oakland Raiders game to show a two-hour special of the famed children's book, "Heidi."

The Raiders and "Heidi" were both scheduled for NBC yesterday. Rallying behind the six touchdown passes of Lamonica, the Raiders took command early and soundly thrashed the Buffalo Bills, 50-21. The Raiders even got the job done before the scheduled air time of the children's classis, 7 p.m., PDT.

In other AFL action, Kansas City defeated Miami, 17-10; San Diego beat Boston, 13-10; and Denver topped Cincinnati, 30-23. The Jets entertain the Houston Oilers at Shea Stadium tonight.

The Kansas City Chiefs held on to second place in the West by riding the passing of Mike Livingston to a 17-0 halftime advantage, then staving off a late Miami rally.

The Chargers, two-touchdown favorites, fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter and didn't get the lead from Boston until the fourth quarter when quarterback John Hadl ran six yards for a touchdown.

Steve Tensi, playing in his hometown of Cincinnati, fired two touchdown passes and Floyd Little gained a team record 166 yards rushing to pace the Broncos' victory.

Lions' Mel Farr Out For Season

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions halfback Mel Farr, the National Football League's fourth leading rusher going into yesterday's play, will be lost for the season after suffering a knee injury in Detroit's 13-7 win over the Chicago Bears.

Farr was injured early in the first quarter and a Lions spokesman said he apparently tore ligaments in his right knee. He was scheduled to have surgery today.

He was replaced by rookie Larry Watkins, who gained 51 yards in 14 carries.

NFL HIGHLIGHTS

Early Look At Champs?

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The National Football League championship game is scheduled for Jan. 4, 1970, but a sneak preview may be forthcoming Nov. 23 when the Dallas Cowboys play the Los Angeles Rams in a regular season contest.

The two clubs were treated to record performances by their respective quarterbacks yesterday as both ran their records to 5-0 with convincing victories.

The quarterbacks in question are Craig Morton of the Cowboys and Roman Gabriel of the Rams, physically two of the bigger signal callers in the game with both standing 6-foot-4 and each weighing 215 pounds.

Despite a sore shoulder, Morton tied a Dallas club record by throwing five touchdown passes in the Cowboys' 49-14 victory over the hapless Philadelphia Eagles. All five scoring tosses came in the first half, three to Lance Rentzel and the others to Bob Hayes and Pettis Norman.

Gabriel, who passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more in Los Angeles' 34-21 victory over the Green Bay Packers, etched his name into the Rams' record book when he became the club's all-time leading passer with a career total of 1,019 completions. The former mark of 1,011 was held by Norm Van Brocklin.

In other NFL games, Minnesota beat St. Louis, 27-10; Washington tripped New York, 2014; Baltimore clubbed New Orleans, 30-10; Atlanta upset San Francisco, 21-7; Detroit held off Chicago, 13-7; and in a contest played Saturday night, Cleveland outlasted Pittsburgh, 42-31.

Rickie Harris scooted 86-yards with a punt return for a touchdown that capped a 20-point second half rally and powered Washington past New York.

Johnny Unitas looked like the "Johnny U." of old as he completed 20 to 28 passes for 309-yards and three touchdowns in the Colts' triumph over the Saints.

WIN OVER DRAKE

Redwood Stays In First Place

Redwood High School's football team still leads the Marin County Athletic League and the Giants will rule the roost for at least another two weeks since they have a non-league foe coming up this weekend.

The Giants made it three in a row over MCAL foes, topping Drake, 6-0, to inaugurate Giantsville Stadium in Larkspur Saturday and make a Homecoming Crowd, of 2,200 fans happy.

Quarterback Pete Cooney did all the scoring in the game when he climaxed a 70-yard scoring drive with a one-yard run to give the Giants the game.

The running of Mike Farley, Jay Lehman and Bob Piper, plus a 15-yard penalty, kept the drive going. The big play was a 12-yard bootleg run by Cooney, setting Redwood up with a first down on the two-yard line. Three plays later, Cooney burrowed into the end zone.

The lead looked mighty wobbly in the fourth quarter, when the Giants fumbled away a punt on their own 12-yard line. But Drake, which failed to get a first down in the second half, managed only six yards and couldn't score.

Tackles Tom Wickert and Ross Gondak, and linebackers Rick Puccinelli and Andy Annixter sparked a tremendous Redwood defensive effort which held the luckless Pirates to 77 yards total offense.

Redwood in now 3-0 in league play, a step ahead of Terra Linda and San Marin, at 2-0. The Giants are 4-1 on the season while Drake dropped to 1-2 in league play and 1-4 on the season.

Marin Footballers Lose To West Valley

split end Don James. But Malone, coming fast from his safety spot, gathered it in on the dead run and just kept going.

Again down by a pair of touchdowns, with about half the period gone, the Tars once more came back.

This time it was Kevin Wilson, replacing a stunned and dismayed Peters, who engineered the drive. He took the team 66 yards in 12 plays.

Three times along the way Wilson completer passes in crucial situations. On third down and nine from his own 45, he hit Mike Biber for 12 yards. On the following sequence, with third and five, he hit Keith Stirling, who scored the Tars first touchdown on a 14 yard run, with a 30 yard shot to the Viking six.

2,000 FANS

Then on fourth down, still on the six, Stirling slanted out of the backfield again, and Wilson found him for the touchdown, with 3:30 left in the game.

West Valley, before 2,000 fans, half visibly relieved, half bitterly disappointed, ran out the clock.

Sharon Walsh Bows In Finals

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, after pulling off a semifinal upset, lost in the finals of the State Center Tennis Tournament at Fresno yesterday.

Sharon, the national girls 18 champion, whipped Denise Carter of Los Altos, 6-4, 6-4 in Saturday's semifinals but lost to second-seeded Esme Emannual of South Africa, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5, in yesterday's finals.

Sharon then teamed up with Esme in doubles play, losing to Denise Carter and Katie Latham, 6-4, 6-3, in the finals.

Placaks Score In Swim Meet

The Placaks of San Rafael, representing the San Rafael Swim Club, did quite well at the Pleasant Hill "A" age group swim meet in Pleasant Hill Saturday and Sunday.

Bobby Placak picked up a second, two thirds, a fifth and a sixth in the boys 10-under group while Linda Placak got a third and a sixth and Nancy Placak got a fifth and a sixth in the girls 8-under group. Linda and Nancy are twins.

San Rafael Blanks Marin Catholic '11'

Scott Duncan scored on runs of 18 and 89 yards to give San Rafael High School a 14-0 non league victory over Marin Catholic High Saturday on San Rafael's field.

The Bulldog defense, which grabbed off five Marin Catholic Wildcat passes, set up the winning score, midway through the second quarter. Bob Peterson intercepted a Mat Hamilton pass on the San Rafael 32 and ran it back 23 yards.

From there, under the direction of quarterback Dirk Gansloser, the Bulldogs took five plays to score. Duncan, who led all rushers with 146 yards in 13 carries, took a pitchout on the 18 and rambled in for the touchdown.

An identical pitchout resulted in the final touchdown. In the last minute of the third period, following a Wildcat punt that put the ball on the San Rafael nine-yard line, Duncan took a lateral, this time from Lowell Widmer, and raced 89 yards untouched.

Every man in the San Rafael secondary got an interception, with Bruce Nave picking off a pair. The Marin Catholic offense, however, moved well on the ground, picking up all first downs that way. Mark Lewis was the workhorse, with 94 yards on 22 carries.

The field, which almost qualified as a marsh Friday night during the Tamalpais-Terra Linda game, was much improved and presented no real problems. Unexpected sunny skies brought out a crowd of nearly 600.

Sonoma Dragons Upset El Molino

By STEVE WYNNE

FORESTVILLE — Sonoma High School quarterback Dan Briggs ran, passed and kicked the Dragons to an upset 14-12 win over defending champion El Molino in a North Bay League Section II football contest here Saturday night.

Briggs ran for one touchdown, passed to tight end Glen Moll for another and booted a pair of extra points to figure in all the Sonoma scoring.

HEROICS

The Dragon effort barely overcame the heroics of brilliant Lion quarterback Perry Kozlowski, who scored every one of El Molino's points.

El Molino struck early in the game when it took the opening kickoff and marched 64 yards in nine plays to take a 6-0 lead. Kozlowski scampered the final two yards to paydirt. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

After halting the Sonoma offense, the Lions returned a punt to their own 46 and moved to their second and final touchdown. Kozlowski once again ran it in from the two for a 12-0 El Molino advantage. Again, the conversion attempt failed.

Sonoma dented the scoreboard in the waning minutes of the first half when Briggs capped an 80-yard drive by flipping a 24-yard scoring pass to Moll. Briggs kicked the extra point to cut the Lion lead to 12-7 at the half.

WINNER

Briggs scored the winning touchdown midway through the third quarter on a two-yard run. He again booted the extra point for the final 14-12 Dragon advantage.

The win was Sonoma's first in NBL-II play this season against one loss and a tie. El Molino is in the cellar with an 0-2 mark.

Today is Monday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1969 with 72 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1918, the Germans accepted President Woodrow Wilson's terms to end World War I.

In 1944, American troops landed on the eastern coast of Leyte Gulf in the Philippines. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who had been forced to leave the island two and one-half years earlier, said "I have returned."

In 1964 former President Herbert Hoover died at the age of 90.

In 1968, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy married Aristotle Onassis.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain said, "Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of joy you must have somebody to divide it with."

Corte Madera Police Shift Eyed

A proposal that a now-vacant police lieutenant slot be changed to a sergeant's position will be discussed when the Corte Madera Town Council meets at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The lieutenant post fell vacant when David L. McIntosh moved up to police chief. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher is recommending the spot be filled by a sergeant, which would give the force three sergeants and three-shift supervision.

The council also will discuss bicycle paths in the Marin County parks and recreation plan.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't Let A Singleton Cause You To Panic During Action

Millions of otherwise rational bridge players go through life in fear of small animals: They're in a hurry to take their aces before the mice get at them. I have made a patient study of both the European and the American mouse, and can assure my readers that the normal mouse has only a mild interest in aces. And after all, what bridge player wants to admit that he's worried about abnormal mice.

IN THE DUMMY

Declarer took the first trick with dummy's ten of hearts in order to lead the singleton spade. The average mouse-fearing bridge player would play the ace of spades at once from the East hand, and that would end the defense. East returns a trump, but South wins and ruffs a low spade in dummy.

South returns to his hand with the ace of diamonds to draw the last trump, and then he leads the king of spades. The queen of spades drops, and South is home. South needs luck, and helpful defense, to make the contract, largely because the opening trump lead got the defenders off on the right foot.

BETTER DEFENSE

East does better if he is not worried that the mice will get at his ace of spades. When declarer leads dummy's eight of spades at the second trick, East must casually play low.

East cannot lose his ace. South can ruff only two spades in the dummy, and East will eventually get his ace even if South guesses the winning play.

FINESSE TRY

In this position, however, South is almost sure to try a finesse with the jack of spades on the theory that East doesn't have the ace if he doesn't play it. South's natural bad guess allows West to take the queen of spades and return a second trump. Then South will go down two instead of making his contract.

An expert defender should make up his mind in advance that he will almost never play his ace when dummy's singleton is led through him. This bold decision will seldom cost a trick; and it will often pay big dividends.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠— Q 7 2
♥— 8 7 6
♦— K 9 2
♣— K 7 5 4

What do you say?

ANSWE: Bid two spades.

Your flat distribution tempts you to bid 1-NT, but then you won't know what to do if partner bids two spades. You can't afford to bid twice with this hand, but you also cannot afford to withhold the spade support. Show the support at your first opportunity and you can safely leave the rest to your partner.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Nest Egg Should Stay In Bank

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband plans to retire next year as his health is poor. We will have interest from savings of $15,000 and pensions of $250 a month. My husband would like to invest our savings in utility stocks for more interest than we get from the bank. I am not in favor; I think all stocks are a risk. What would you advise? — G. M.

A. Since part of your savings is in the form of E bonds your nest egg probably yields no more than an average of 4.6 per cent which works out to $690 a year. Even if you invested half your capital in high yield 8 6.5 per cent utility issues — the increment in annual income would be less than $150. The additional income is not sufficient to justify the worry that stock ownership would involve. I agree, all stocks entail risk. With many years of retirement and possible medical expenses you should not take that risk.

Q. I bought Aileen Inc. in 1961 at 25⅜. It went downhill and apparently skidded off the Board completely as I can't find it listed in the paper. What is a poor dumb investor like me to do now? — L. S.

A. Aileen is listed in the American Stock Exchange, but not all papers carry complete listings. Since 1961, Aileen has paid three 2 per cent stock dividends and in June, shares split two-for-one. Adjusted for these distributions your cost per share would be $11.96, for a gain if 256 per cent.

Aileen, a leading maker of knit dresses and sportswear for girls and women, has benefited from the growing popularity of casual knitwear. By manufacturing all its own knit goods, Aileen has achieved flexibility at substantial savings.

Profit margins have widened sharply to 11.9 per cent after tax in 1968 and 14.5 per cent in the first six months of 1969.

Peace Prize For Labor

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The Nobel Peace Prize was awarded today to the International Labor Organization (ILO), the Nobel committee announced.

The prize this year is worth $72,700.

The ILO was one of 45 candidates proposed to the Nobel committee, composed of members of the Norwegian Storting (parliament).

The Geneva-based ILO was founded in 1919 as part of the Versailles peace treaty ending World War I.

"Its purpose was declared to be to improve working conditions in various countries in order to create more stable social conditions and thereby contribute to the safeguarding world peace," the Nobel committee's announcement said.

The will of the late Swedish dynamite inventor, Alfred Nobel, provided that the peace prize should be awarded to "the person who shall have done the most or the best work for fraternity among nations, for the abolition or reduction of standing armies and for the holding and promotion of peace congresses."

While the will specifies a person, the award has been given several times to institutions. It went to the International Red Cross Committee in both world wars.

The ILO is the third United Nations body to receive the award. The U.N. Children's Fund received it in 1965 and the U.N. high commissioner for refugees in 1955.

The award was made evidently to mark the 50th anniversary of ILO, which was founded April 11, 1919.

The ILO secretariat, the labor office, has been headed since 1948 by an American, David A. More.

President Backs Up Haynsworth Effort

Claims Judge Target Of Character Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon said today Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. has been subjected to vicious character assassination, and even if the judge asked him to withdraw his nomination to the Supreme Court, he would not do so.

Nixon took this stand at a one-topic news conference called hurriedly in his office.

He said he had gone over the complete record of the case of the man he tapped for the Supreme Court and all of the criticism and charges that had been raised.

He said he is standing by his judgment that Haynsworth should have the position.

And he said he is confident that if senators study all the documents and charges involved, enough of them will come to the same conclusion he has and will vote for confirmation.

Nixon said of Haynsworth:

"I find Judge Haynsworth an honest man, a lawyer's lawyer and a judge's judge. I think he will be a great credit to the Supreme Court and I intend to stand behind him until he is confirmed."

The South Carolina jurist, chief justice of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, has run into strong opposition on his nomination to replace former Justice Abe Fortas on the Supreme Court.

Opponents have cited what they consider antilabor and anti-civil rights rulings he has made. They also have raised charges of conflict of interest, on grounds that he held stock in some companies directly or indirectly involved in matters before his court.

Haynsworth has denied any conflict, and has furnished to the Senate Judiciary Committee a full record of his stock holdings and transactions. He also has offered to put his holdings in trust if he is confirmed.

Nixon said Haynsworth's entire record and life had been exposed before senators considering his nomination and that he was put through "what I believe to be vicious character assassination."

Nixon said as a result of his review of the Haynsworth case, the justice comes through as a man of integrity "and deserves even more the support of the President and of the Senate."

Nixon got around to specifics on four or five points, noting in passing that he had had some experience in investigative procedures. He said he had studied the case fully, had read Haynsworth's income tax re-

FIRST OFFENDERS

Proposal To Cut Drug Penalties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration proposed today to reduce to a misdemeanor the crime of simple possession of narcotics and dangerous drugs, regardless of the drug involved.

The offense is now a felony, with consequent higher penalties.

Reversing a previous stand, the administration suggested that a more flexible penalty structure is needed in order to "make the punishment fit the person involved" and the crime.

More realistic penalties should lead to better law enforcement, it said.

Testifying before the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, John E. Ingersoll, director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, proposed that federal laws draw a distinction between narcotics users and traffickers.

He proposed several alternatives to legislation submitted last July 15 by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In perhaps the most important change, he suggested that, in all cases, possession with intent to sell remain a felony and "possession for one's own use, regardless of the drug involved," be made a misdemeanor.

Under present law, a first offense for simple possession of either hard narcotics or marijuana calls for maximum penalties of a $20,000 fine and 2 to 10 years imprisonment.

The administration's alternate proposals would lower the maximum fine to $5,000 and provide for a sentence of up to one year imprisonment.

For second offenses, the maximum fine would go to $10,000 and the offender could be given a sentence of up to 2 years, compared to a 5 to 20 year term under present law.

Ingersoll also outlined other changes, including a provision to require "a special parole term" for persons convicted on charges of trafficking in drugs and narcotics. This would make it mandatory for such persons to be placed under supervision for a designated period of time, regardless "whether they are incarcerated or their sentence probated or suspended."

Ingersoll contended the flexible structure would induce prosecutors to initiate more cases and make courts less reluctant to sentence violators.

Recognizing widespread disagreement on the dangers of marijuana, Ingersoll said the department believes there is a need for more knowledge on its effects and endorses a proposal by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-

Two Gangs Stage Brief Marin City Gun Battle

A brief gun battle, evidently between two groups composed largely of San Franciscans, erupted in Marin City last night, but the exchange ended sharply when one side fled.

Two groups, one inside 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 3, and the other outside, hidden behind bushes and cars, traded gunfire, but the outside group fled shortly after sheriff's deputies arrived.

Nine persons were arrested and one man was wounded slightly.

The trouble reportedly started after the group from San Francisco beat a Marin City man, but the sheriff's office today said it had no information on the cause.

Reportedly, the persons inside the building were attempting to retaliate when they fired from the second story apartment. The men who allegedly did the beating fired back and fled, according to unconfirmed reports.

One deputy, who said the cause was unknown, admitted he had heard "there was a disturbance earlier" but deputies had not been wanted.

About a dozen heavily armed deputies surrounded the building at 419 Drake shortly after 6 p.m. and called for the persons inside to surrender.

About 10 minutes later, deputies said, a white rag was waved from the window and the nine came out.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, discharging a firearm and conspiracy, were Jerry Ray Wade, 19, of 105 Shaver Street, San Rafael, and Hayward L. Coleman, 18, Henry McGee, 21, Harry Lee Shorter, 23, Harker Shorter, 19, and Iraminter Shorter, 22, all of San Francisco.

Booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of the same penal code sections were Gloria Jones, 16, of 419 Drake Avenue, Apt. 3, and Joe Garrett, 16, and Carl Shorter, 16, both of San Francisco, deputies said.

Gregory Graham, 19, of 409 Drake Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a superficial wound in the forehead, possibly caused by a bullet.

The six persons booked into County Jail were held on bail of $6,250 each to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Vietnam Cease-Fire Plan Rumored In Nixon Speech

The President may propose the cease-fire during his Nov. 3 address to the nation on the Vietnam situation, a White House source said yesterday. (See moratorium story, page 6.)

Indications Nixon may, in fact, have been affected by opposition to the war expressed in last Wednesday's Vietnam Moritorium Day piled up as the President spent the weekend huddled with his top military and diplomatic advisers at Camp David.

And former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who last week emerged from a meeting with Nixon to endorse his Vietnam policy, said in Tokyo he is sure the United States will carry out "a systematical and accelerated withdrawal of U.S. forces" from South Vietnam.

The White House cautioned today against advance speculation on the Nov. 3 speech.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegeler said there will be no official or authorized discussion about the speech or any speculation on what it will cover from the White House, the State Department or the Defense Department in advance of delivery.

It will be a review of the entire Vietnam situation, Ziegler said, but he declined to comment on speculation such as reports that Nixon may propose a unilateral cease-fire or announce additional withdrawal of some 300,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Humphrey was among a number of prominent figures—in and out of the administration—who spoke out on Vietnam over the weekend.

According to Newsweek Magazine, Nixon has been urged by his military advisers to proclaim a U.S.-initiated cease fire so enemy violations could be used "as evidence of the enemy's reluctance to end the war."

The advisers feel, the magazine said, a unilateral cease-fire "would create no great risk to U.S. troops in the field."

The White House source said Nixon could be expected to announce such a cease-fire during his Vietnam address or, by not mentioning it, signal to Hanoi the idea has been rejected.

The President conferred over the weekend at the Maryland retreat with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin P. Laird, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his national security adviser, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

Humphrey said when he talked about troop withdrawals with Nixon he had "encouraged the President to give it all possible support on the executive level."

In Washington, Sen. Fred Harris, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, called for speeded up troop

Storm Laurie Heads To Louisiana Coast

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tropical storm Laurie whistled across the Gulf of Mexico toward Louisiana's vulnerable coastline with near-hurricane force winds today.

After a night of little intensification or movement, Laurie picked up speed and resumed its path to the north-northwest. Winds were 60 to 70 miles per hour.

"Laurie is expected to move toward the north-northwest at 8 to 10 miles per hour and reach hurricane force this afternoon," the Weather Bureau said in its 11 a.m. (CDT) advisory. The Weather Bureau also forecast a change to a more northerly course tonight.

An Air Force reconnaisance plane reported Laurie, which was a poorly organized mass of squalls and showers early this morning, had intensified and was better organized late this morning.

Meanwhile, a helpless tanker wallowing in seas whipped by Laurie was taken in tow for a hazardous trek toward calmer Gulf of Mexico waters.

Coast Guard officials said the cutter Diligence was plowing through 10-foot seas toward Tampa with the disabled Mission Santa Cruz.

A spokesman said the towing operation was dangerous because of the high seas, wind gusts "and especially because the Diligence is half the length" of the fuel-filled Mission Santa Cruz.

The Mission Santa Cruz lost power yesterday when her boiler tubes ruptured. She was enroute to Newport, R.I., from Corpus Christi, Tex.

Deputy Testifies Of Seeing Kennedy Car 'After' Accident

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A deputy sheriff testified today that he had seen Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile in which Mary Jo Kopechne died approximately an hour after the time Kennedy said it had gone off a bridge and overturned in a pond.

Christopher Look Jr. of Dukes County, Mass., told a hearing on a petition by a Massachusetts prosecutor for an autopsy on Miss Kopechne's body that he was heading home from work early on the morning of July 19 when he saw a black sedan.

Look said "there were two persons in the front seat and possibly another person or some object in the back" when the car drove past him and came to a stop.

"I got out of my car and as I approached the taillights shown on my uniform. The time was about 12:45 a.m. on the morning of July 19."

Look said that as he approached the car, "it suddenly took off and went down Dike Road toward the bridge and the beach.

Look was among the first witnesses to testify before Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court as the hearing opened.

"Did you have any conversation with anyone in that car?" Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., asked Look.

"No, sir!" Look replied.

"Did you cry out to anyone in that car?"

"No, sir!" Look said.

Look said he observed the license plate of the car, that it bore a Massachusetts registration, that the first letter was "L" and that "there were some 7s in it."

Kennedy's license plate number was L78207.

Kennedy, when he reported the accident, said it had occurred before midnight July 18.

Look testified he was at the scene of the accident when the partially submerged car was pulled from the water.

"The instant I saw the registration, I went to a police officer and I told him that's the same car I had seen previously the night before at approximately 12:45 on Chappaquiddick road," Look said.

Another witness, John N. Farrar, a 33-year-old scuba diver from Edgartown, described how he had brought Miss Kopechne's body to the surface.

Earlier, the judge refused to allow statements made by Kennedy to be introduced in evidence.

Police Chief Dominick J. Arena of Edgartown, Mass., the first witness at the hearing on a petition by a Massachusetts prosecutor to exhume the body of the 28-year-old former secretary, told the court that he had taken a statement from Kennedy.

AMC Agrees To Purchase Kaiser Jeep

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors announced today it has agreed to buy Kaiser Jeep Corp. for $80 million.

The agreement was announced jointly by AMC and Kaiser Industries Corp.

The agreement calls for payment of $10 million in cash, $10 million in AMC's negotiable five-year notes and 5.5 million shares of American Motors Capital stock which is currently selling for about $11 a share.

The $10 million in negotiable notes is subject to adjustment following an audit of Kaiser Jeep, AMC said. A definite agreement on the purchase is being written, AMC said, and will be subject to approval by board of directors of both firms.

"American Motors and Kaiser Jeep manufacture noncompetitive product lines with complementary management and dealer organizations," the AMC announcement said. "American Motors produces a board line of passenger vehicles in a wide range of price classes, and Kaiser Jeep specializes in the manufacture of a line of four-wheel drive pleasure and utility vehicles and heavy duty military and government vehicles."

Through Saturday, Kaiser had produced more than 73,000 trucks this year. During the same period AMC had built about 215,450 cars.

New York Hails The Championship Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The victorious Mets rode up lower Broadway's "Canyon of Heroes" today for a delirious official reception at city hall marking Mets Day in New York.

Manager Gil Hodges led the parade of open convertibles which transported the members of the amazin' baseball team from the Battery through a blizzard of tickertape and confetti to city hall. Hodges was so infected by the enthusiasm poured on his team that he frequently grabbed confetti and threw it into the air himself.

The Mets' fans repeatedly broke through police lines to surround the motorcade. They screamed, hugged and kissed their favorite players, demanded autographs, and waggled signs, most of which read, "Mets, We Love You!" Some placed wreaths around the Mets' necks.

A boisterous crowd of 5,000 jammed City Hall Plaza to greet the Mets at noon under a welcome banner that had been painted on the back of one used for the recent welcome of the moon astronauts.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who was accompanied by Mrs. Lindsay and Mets owner Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, slapped the players on the back and told them:

"For eight years, New York has loved a ball team that wasn't always easy to love, But today, it's all changed. Because today they're number one."

Last 24 Hours Bring A Hike In Vietnam Activity

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting increased sharply in the past 24 hours in Vietnam, with 197 enemy troops reported killed, but a U.S. spokesman said activity "is still at a relatively low level."

Seven Americans and six South Vietnamese were reported killed in seven clashes scattered across the country from the Mekong Delta to the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang. Sixteen Americans and 21 South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

The heaviest fighting raged deep in the Mekong Delta 142 miles southwest of Saigon. There, 400 South Vietnamese troops supported by American helicopter gunships reported killing 96 Viet Cong. It was the biggest battle of the year for the South Vietnamese.

The South Vietnamese said six of their men were killed and 16 wounded in the five-hour fight in the U Minh Forest, a swampy area of tall trees and undergrowth used by the Viet Cong as a major military base. copter gunship was shot down and destroyed during the fighting and one crewman was wounded. Another U.S. helicopter was shot down and destroyed 30 miles northwest of Saigon, and again one American was wounded.

This raised to 5,993 the total number of U.S. helicopters and fixed-wing planes reported lost in the war. There have been 3,113 helicopters reported lost and 2,880 fixed-wing aircraft.

North Vietnamese troops bombarded a 50-man U.S.-South Vietnamese platoon with mortars before dawn Sunday 63 miles southeast of Da Nang, rocket grenades. Five Americans were killed and five wounded out of the 14-man Marine squad in the platoon. Three government militiamen were wounded, and at least four of the enemy were reported killed.

South Vietnamese headquarters also reported a terrorist bomb attack and the mining of a bus that killed five civilians and wounded 37 other persons, 29 of them civilians.

The U.S. Command reported in a weekly summary that American troop strength dropped by about 4,000 men last week for the second successive week reflecting the withdrawal of 35,000 troops that began last month. The summary said that as of last Thursday, 501,900 U.S. troops were in Vietnam, compared to 505,600 the previous week.

As part of the withdrawal, the largest pullout of American air forces to date is under way, sending 67 Marine planes and helicopters to Okinawa, along with 785 airmen.

Composer Of 'Zorba' Score Sent To Prison

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Miki Theodorakis, who composed the music for the movie "Zorba the Greek." has been sent to a prison camp by the military-backed Greek government, according to reports circulating here.

Theodorakis, regarded as a leftist by the government, had been banished to a mountain village with his wife and two children a year ago.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Is Reassigned

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — An Air Force captain from San Francisco who participated in a Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstration has had an official reprimand placed on his record and is being reassigned to a base in Kansas, official sources said yesterday.

Capt. David I. Greenly, 27, was on hand at the U.S. embassy during "a silent vigil for peace" Wednesday along with his wife and agroup of Peace Corps workers. Greenly is a doctor at the Ankara American Hospital.

The local U.S. commander had issued an order putting the demonstration off limits to U.S. military personnel.

Greenly was reassigned to McConnell Air Force Base at Wichita.

Change In Seoul

SEOUL (AP) — Premier Chung Il-kwon, his cabinet and two other high government officials resigned today to clear the way for President Chung Hee Park to remold the government.

It had been widely speculated that Park would reorganize the cabinet if he won the referendum last Friday on a constitutional amendment to allow him to run for a third term in 1971. The vote was nearly 2 to 1 in his favor.

In addition to the cabinet, resignations were submitted by Kim Hyung-Wook, director of the powerful Central Intelligence Agency, and Chief Presidential Secretary Lee Hu-Rak.

Kims' secret police are under constant attack from opposition parties, which claim their chief function is to keep tabs on opposition to the government. Lee was considered one of the president's most influential advisers.

Spinach, a potherb, probably is the most admired and maligned of all food plants. One of the dictionary definitions of spinach is "something unwanted, insubstantial, or spurious"!

Bolivia Crisis

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — President Alfredo Ovando ordered all Bolivian businesses and government offices closed today. Speculation was that he hoped to gain time to prevent money from flowing out of the country because of his nationalization of Bolivia Gulf, a U.S.-owned petroleum company.

There also were reports that Ovando's military regime would suspend foreign exchange trading to prevent devaluation of the peso. The present exchange rate is 12 pesos to one U.S. dollar.

Banks in the country were closed last Friday.

Mail Strike

ROME (AP) — Millions of letters, packages and postcards piled up in Italian post offices today as mailmen went out on a four-day strike. It was the first of a series of walkouts that will affect more than five million Italian workers this week.

The mailmen struck for two days last week, delaying delivery of an estimated 13.5 million letters and 230,000 parcels. Post office officials and unions said after the four-day walkout, it would take two weeks to get deliveries back to normal.

The mailmen will be joined by other postal workers in a nationwides trike Oct. 23-24. All the workers demand a reduction in working hours and the hiring of more personnel.

Runoff In France

PARIS (AP) — Five former Gaullist cabinet ministers easily gained National Assembly seats in special elections yesterday. But former Premier Maurice Couve de Murville must enter a runoff.

Couve de Murville polled only 41 per cent of the vote against a centrist and scattering of leftists. He is expected to win the runoff next Sunday.

The other five Gaullists polled 62 per cent or more. They are Pierre Messmer, longtime defense minister; Edgar Faure, former education minister; Jean Chamant, once minister of transport; Joel le Theule, ex-information minister, and Pierre Dumas, a junior minister of social affairs until last June.

Trade Vow

GABARONE, Botswana (AP) — President Seretse Khama, elected Saturday to a second term, indicates he will try to loosen Botsmana's strong trade ties with South Africa and Rhodesia, its powerful white-ruled neighbors.

Khama said he would strive for trade "interdependence" although the geographic position and trade patterns established while the country was the British protectorate of Bechuanaland make Botswana "pretty well dependent" on South Africa. The country has South Africa, South-West Africa and Rhodesia on three sides.

Hanoi In A New Anti-U.S. Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — North Vietnam vowed again today that the people of North and South Vietnam will fight on until all U.S. troops are removed from Vietnam.

North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong and Premier Alexei Kosygin signed a joint communique after a week of talks. It said:

"Carrying into life the behests of Ho Chi Minh, the people of South Vietnam, together with their compatriots in the North of the country, relying on the support of all progressive forces of the world, are determined to carry forward their armed political and diplomatic struggle until the national aspirations of the Vietnamese people are fully satisfied and until Vietnamese soil is cleared of the American aggressors and their henchmen."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Moscow "stated its readiness to continue the necessary assistance to the Vietnamese people in their struggle for the liberation of South Vietnam, in defense of North Vietnam and for the peaceful reunification of the homeland."

The 1970 military and economic aid agreement, signed Wednesday, called for Moscow to send Hanoi an undisclosed amount of arms, ammunition, other military equipment, food, oil, metals, cloth, medicine and other supplies. Washington has estimated the value of previous Soviet aid to Hanoi at more than $1 billion a year.

The Soviet Union in turn insisted on "the full and unconditional withdrawal" of U.S. troops and their allies from South Vietnam.

The communique said Moscow fully supports the positions of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and its creation, the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

The communique said Pham Van Dong left today. He was scheduled to stop in Peking en route home.

Successor Due

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Parliament is expected to name a successor for assassinated President Abdirashid Ali Shermarke within a month. Acting President Muktar Mohamed Hussein and Abdullah Issa Mohamud, minister of commerce and industry, are reported among the top candidates.

Shermarke, who was elected in June 1967, was to be buried here today. He was shot to death last Wednesday during a tour of the drought-stricken north.

ENTRY BLANK — Yachtsmen must fill in this blank and send it to San Rafael Chamber of Commerce offices at 824 Fifth Avenue by tomorrow in order to enter the Nov. 2 parade on San Rafael Canal.

Canal Boat Parade Deadline Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the deadline for entries in the Nov. 2 boat parade on San Rafael Canal, sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

The parade is part of the chamber's Marine Holiday, which will include free boat rides.

Nearly 200 boats are expected to compete for trophies to be awarded for best holiday theme, most unique design, best overall decoration amd most representative by a yacht club.

The parade will begin at 1 p.m. at the birdcage marker. Commodores of local yacht clubs will judge.

Free rides will be available from 9 a.m. to noon at Seaway Marine and Channel Boat Sales.

Planning Director, Staff Due Before Supervisors

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will open tomorrow's meeting at 9 a.m. with a workshop session with County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker and his staff.

Zucker will outline the work of his 28-man staff and the programs and budget figures of his department for the past four years.

Supervisors will then go into another closed meeting to discuss charges against Dr. Clyde G. Miller, director of community mental health services, and Dr. Donald P. Wilson, director of the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital.

In the afternoon, the supervisors will appoint three from among six nominees to the board of directors of Fair-Marin. The six are Stephen A. Zellerbach, Dudley F. Miller, R. H. Miehling, Thomas Foris, Stanto Nash and Mrs. R. S. O'Connor.

County Administrator Alan Bruce will report on citizen complaints that Miller used county funds to mail documents in his defense in the current controversy between himself and Wilson. "There is nothing in the package distributed which can be construed as self-servicing or as personal defense of Dr. Miller on personal questions," said Bruce.

Supervisors will review the workable program for community improvement, a document prepared by the planning department to qualify the county for federal housing funds and discuss a priority list of highway projects to be recommended to the State Highway Commission.

The board also is expected to reject a $25,000 claim by Glenn E. Sykes of Corte Madera for stab wounds he suffered at Manzanita School in Marin City last Nov. 8 when he was attacked while picking up his daughter, a teacher's aide at the school.

Sykes alleged that the county and the county superintendent of schools office allowed dangerous conditions on the school premises and failed to provide adequate lighting.

Pipe Wrench Burglar Hits A Hub Business

A burglar armed with a pipe wrench stole office machines valued at $805 from a San Anselmo firm Saturday, then apparently was frightened off while burgling a doctor's office, San Anselmo police reported.

At 9:30 p.m., Dr. John E. Dumon entered his office at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and found office equipment piled on the reception room couch. As he went through the office, Dr. Dumon heard noises at the rear of the office, evidently the burglar escaping, police said.

Dr. Dumon found nothing missing, but the rear door had been forced, the burglar using a pipe wrench to twist the doorknob and break it.

Almost simultaneously, a policeman on patrol at 9:35 p.m. found the door to Scottish and Newcastle Importers, 412 Red Hill Avenue, had been forced open in the same way. Missing were a typewriter and an adding machine.

Cache Of Sleeping Pills Brings Youth's Arrest

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was booked into Marin County Jail early yesterday after sheriff's deputies reported they found a cache of Seconal in his glove compartment.

Dennis Joseph Taylor, 18, of 145 Mabry Way, was booked on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and possession for sale, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and being drunk.

Deputies said they discovered Taylor with two juvenile girls parked on Civic Center Drive about 12:30 a.m. yesterday. The trio appeared to be intoxicated deputies said.

Officers placed them under arrest and discovered the pills in a search of the car.

One of the girls, a 16-year-old from San Rafael, could not be roused and she was taken to Marin General Hospital, where she was revived and then taken to the mental health center, deputies said.

Three of the pills were found in her pocket and she was arrested for possession of dangerous drugs and curfew violation.

The other girl, a 15-year-old from Terra Linda, was cited for curfew violation.

Taylor was released on $1,250 bail to appear at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Conn., for a study into marijuana usage.

The new proposal would make a second conviction a felony with penalties of up to two years in prison and a $10,000 fine, with comparable higher sentences for marijuana sellers.

The new administration stand represents a victory for governmental health officials who publicly disagreed with the more stringent stand taken by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In his September testimony, the attorney general proposed that marijuana be put in the same category with such hard drugs as heroin with a possession conviction resulting in a two to 10-year jail sentence, a maximum $20,000 fine, or both.

turns, looked at his financial statements, and his statements to senators, and had considered reports of the Justice Department and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Nixon disputed opposition contentions that Haynsworth should have disqualified himself in cases involving litigants who were customers of a firm in which the nominee held stock. He said Haynsworth in no instance was influenced by the stock ownership and that the American Bar Association also took this position.

If stock ownership were to be considered, he said, probably half of the federal judges would be impeached, including Supreme Court justices.

The President took issue, too, with contentions that Haynsworth had a substantial interest in litigation in a case before his court.

Fire Hits USO Club In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Two explosions and a fire roared through the American USO club in downtown Saigon early Tuesday (Saigon time) causing extensive damage and forcing scores of Vietnamese to flee from nearby apartments.

There was no immediate report of deaths or injuries in the fire that broke out about midnight with a massive blast, apparently caused by propane gas exploding in the service club kitchen.

The explosion was heard throughout downtown Saigon and attracted hundreds of persons into the streets despite the curfew.

200,000 Gallons Of Water Lost In Break

Some 200,000 gallons of water cascaded through Stinson Beach early yesterday caused by a fire hydrant broken from its pipe by an unknown driver of a car about midnight, reported George P. Leonard, owner of the Stinson Beach Water Company.

The damaged hydrant on Lincoln Avenue, above the business section, was not discovered until 5 a.m., Leonard said. There half-million gallons of water were at hand and service is back to normal today.

withdrawals and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said United Nations Secretary-General U Thant should negotiate a political settlement of the war.

Harris spoke on the NBC radio-television program "Meet the Press" and Muskie appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Harris said Nixon has acknowledged the war can't be won militarily and added that the President "ought to get about getting us out of it on a much more rapid and systematic basis.

"I think the key word is systematic," the Oklahoma Democrat said. "It's by that way that we can signal Hanoi and signal Saigon in a meaningful way that we are on the way to allowing the people of South Vietnam to achieve self determination."

Muskie said U Thant would be "a natural" to get the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—together on a coalition government for South Vietnam.

"He's an Asian himself," Muskie said. "He knows the area—is known there. And he knows how to move in an Asian situation of this kind."

And Sweden's new prime minister, Olof Palme, in an interview Sunday, defended his country's humanitarian aid to North Vietnam and asserted that in the South "the NLF at present is more representative of the aspirations of the Vietnamese people than the junta in Saigon."

The prime minister was interviewed in Stockholm for the CBS program "Face the Nation," broadcast yesterday from Washington.

The Saigon government also came under attack from Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., who has proposed that Congress require a complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam by Dec. 1, 1970.

Nitrogen Jet Engine Tested

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass reported today that Soviet scientists are testing an experimental jet engine which uses nitrogen for fuel and may be capable of use on "superfast" airliners flying in the upper atmosphere.

Tass said new tests of "automatic apparatuses" aboard "flying laboratories"—apparently protoypes of the engine—achieved "an unprecedentedly high speed of the flow of a jet gas stream in flight—120 kilometers per second." This is about 75 miles a second.

Tass did not say when or where the tests were conducted.

College Student Body Officers Hit Rafferty

Student body officers from nine Bay Area Colleges, meeting at the College of Marin on Saturday, passed resolutions condemning Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, and the Regents of the University of California.

About 100 student leaders, representing Area 7 of the California Junior College Association attended. Present were student officers from Chabot, Diablo Valley, Contra Costa, Redwoods, Laney, Merritt, Napa, Santa Rosa, Solano and Marin.

The resolution condemning Rafferty for his "Operation Turn-off," a program of student locker searches to find concealed drugs, drew cheers and whistles from the young people and passed 9-0.

The students also voted to censure the Regents for their handling of the Angela Davis case. Miss Davis, a philosophy teacher at the University of California at Los Angeles was first fired because she is a member of the Communist Party, then permitted to lecture noncredit courses.

The students leaders asked that teachers in the state be judged on the basis of "their academic ability, not their political beliefs."

A resolution censuring Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed budget cuts for higher education was met with cheers.

By a 6-1 vote, with Diablo Valley opposed and two colleges, Chabot and Napa abstaining, the students voted to support the planned November Moratorium and urged immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam.

The students passed 20 resolutions which will be voted on at the November state convention of the state-wide junior college association.

Other Resolutions Passed Included:

DRAFT COUNSELOR — Establishment of a draft counselor, to be salaried by the state association, on every junior college campus.

ANTICENSORSHIP — No censorship of student publications, either by faculty or administration.

BOARD REPRESENTATION — Election of a student, with voting privileges, to sit on each junior college board of trustees.

NEW CLASSES — Classes in ecological and environmental studies for all colleges.

POLITICAL GROUPS — Establishment fo a political group, including representatives of political organization on every campus. The group would discuss and make recommendations on all educational and political questions affecting students.

VOTING AGE — Immediate action to lower the voting age to 18.

Draft Guess Game Likely In Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's draft lottery system — if it passes Congress — is sure to bring out a talent among the country's 18-year-olds for figuring mathematical probabilities.

Critics say the plan will leave most young men guessing about just when they might be called the following year and their chances for escaping the draft entirely.

But armed with a few basic figures those guesses can get pretty close. And some men won't have to guess at all.

The plan for drafting 19-year-olds first on a lottery basis is likely to pass the House late this week. It is still an open question in the Senate.

The 365 birthdates for the following year would be drawn out of a fish bowl at a public lottery in late September or early October each year.

There's little guesswork for able-bodied men whose 19th birthdays fall on the first dates drawn: they'll be among the first men called early the next year.

And men with birthdays on the last 150 or more dates drawn will likely escape the draft entirely.

Everybody else will have to take out his scratchpad and pencil and start figuring the odds on the basis of the number of men in the draft pool and the rate at which they're being called up each month.

If the system were in effect now, as Selective Service officials explain it, 18-year-olds would figure there would be something like 600,000 available for the draft next year after rejects and deferments.

Draft calls hopefully will drop off to something like 200,000 from this year's 300,000 plus.

That would mean men with birthdays on the last 200 or so dates drawn in the lottery would likely escape the draft and those with the first 100 birthdates drawn would probably be called. The remaining 65 birthdates would be borderline cases.

The callups vary from month to month but a man who drew the 100th date could figure he'd be called near the end of the year, a man who drew 50 would probably be called about mid-year.

Students and technical people getting deferments would draw their draft eligibility placement for their 19th years like everyone else and would come back into the draft pool with that same placement when their deferments ended four years later.

All this is how the lottery system is to work when it is well established.

Secret War In Laos Will Be Scrutinized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, declaring it a "travesty" to deny that Americans are fighting and dying in Laos, today began a week-long effort to plumb the depths of U.S. involvement in that shadowy Asian nation.

The Missouri Democrat is chairman of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee which has called Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and other top officials to testify behind closed doors.

Some of the witnesses will be soldiers and civilians summoned home from Laos just to testify.

Although the hearings are closed, Symington has promised to make the record public as soon as possible and has indicated there may be open hearings later.

The main question Symington has set out to answer is deceptively simple: Are an increasing number of Americans fighting and dying in a war that may become another Vietnam?

"To deny there is fighting is a travesty, when not only the enemy but also the American participants, including those who are casualties and some of their families, know the truth," Symington said in a statement.

The senator said trips to Laos by subcommittee aides and members convinced him "the secrecy surrounding our relations with that country has gone on far too long."

"If whatever we have done is right, the American people deserve to know it," he said. "If whatever has been done is wrong the secrecy can only compound that wrong rather than right it."

The hearings into Laos are part of a broad look at American commitments abroad which the subcommittee began earlier this month with closed sessions on the Philippines.

Although the Symington hearings are the first formal inquiry into the U.S. involvement in Laos, people have been asking questions for years.

It is known that U.S. carrier-based jets were bombing Communist-led forces there five years ago. When the U.S. build-up in Vietnam started Air Force jets joined in the pounding of Laos and North Vietnam.

Nearly 100 U.S. fliers have been lost over Laos.

THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the news that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," is the way one of our buyers put it.

Hospital Land To Be Sought

Developer Paul Golis and attorney Maurice Fredericks are expected to ask the Rohnert Park City Council tonight to donate six acres of land for a hospital site.

Golis and Fredericks are also expected to urge the council to form a seven-member committee to plan medical facilities in the area.

The council will also hear a presentation from John Henman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, on plans to have the organization become automomous through membership dues.

Henman is expected to ask the council to do away with the business license tax since the annual chamber allocation would not be necessary.

Agnew Attacks Viet Moratorium

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Backers of Nixon administration Vietnam policy, led by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, have launched a counter-offensive against effects of last Wednesday's Vietnam Moratorium Day and those planned for days ahead. (See related war policy story, page 1.)

Agnew yesterday blasted leaders of the antiwar protest movement as "hard-core dissidents and professional anarchists" who are being encouraged by "an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals."

But like President Richard M. Nixon's promise that he would not be affected by demonstrations against the war, Agnew's attacks were likely to spur Moratorium leaders to greater efforts.

"We think that it would be un-American and immoral to stop our actions now," said Jerome Grossman, a stationery manufacturer from the Boston suburb of Newton and one of the Moratorium's earliest organizers.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed in Long Beach, that Americans demonstrate in support of U.S. troops in Vietnam on Nov. 11—Veterans Day.

And Gen. William Westmoreland, former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said American fighting men were disillusioned and disappointed by the Oct. 15 call for an immediate withdrawal from the southeast Asian country.

"My guess is that the vast majority of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam are rather disappointed to see this development," said Westmoreland, now Army chief of staff, at a news conference in Brownwood, Tex.

The vice president, apparently selected to be the administration's spokesman on antiwar protests, said last Wednesday's demonstrations served only "as an emotional purgative for those who feel the need to cleanse themselves of their lack of ability to offer a constructive solution to the problem.

"Unfortunately, we have not seen the end. The hard-core dissidents and professional anarchists within the so-called peace movement will continue to exacerbate the situation," Agnew said at a Republican fund-raising dinner in New Orleans.

Goldwater, claiming "the majority of responsible Americans" support the President's Vietnam policy, said Veterans Day demonstration—coming just two days before the second round of antiwar activities are scheduled to begin—would be "not only fitting but, I believe, entirely necessary."

Grossman said Moratorium Day planners hoped to focus on local activities rather than large, central rallies during November.

He said local committees will urge congressmen to return home to discuss Vietnam with their constituents. Various groups have planned activities for Nov. 13, 14 and 15—with one group calling for a massive demonstration in Washington Nov. 15.

"We hope that President Nixon in his speech on Nov. 3 will accede to the expressed desire of the American people for an immediate end to the war," Grossman said. "If he does, we will fold our tents, and be happy to go back to our 'business as usual' activities.

"But we think that it would be un-American and immoral to stop our activities now," he said.

Fill Control Ordinance Hearing Set

All owners of property along shorelines and waterways in Marin will be affected by a proposed new ordinance to control filling, excavating or building on tidal waterways and wetlands.

The ordinance, entitled "Protection of Tidal Waterways," will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission next Monday on the third floor of the Civic Center administration building.

Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning in the county planning department, said those interested in the hearing should call the planning department at Civic Center on Friday to get the approximate time of the hearing.

Under the proposed ordinance, major fills and excavations would be under the jurisdiction of the planning commission while minor fills and excavations would come before a fill committee. The planning staff proposes that the fill committee be composed of the public works director, planning director and the director of parks and recreation.

The ordinance would take the place of several other existing regulations. If approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, these other regulations such as the Richardson Bay fill regulations and the Tomales Bay interim ordinance could be repealed.

Top McCormack Aide Denies Stock Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said today his suspended top aide denied taking any money for arranging a meeting about a stock case before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

McCormack said the aide, Martin Sweig, made an appointment for the meeting at the SEC and attended the session.

"He told me he just went there and didn't participate in the meeting in any way," the speaker told a news conference. "He said he was looking at the pictures on the wall. He admitted he made a serious error in judgment."

McCormack announced Sweig's suspension last Thursday after his administrative assistant was named in an SEC complaint as having interceded in the stock case along with Nathan Voloshen, a long-time McCormack friend.

The complaint said Voloshen was retained by Parvin-Dohrmann Co., to try to lift a ban ordered by the SEC on the sale of its stock. The complaint said Sweig arranged a meeting with the SEC for Voloshen, who was paid $50,000 by Parvin-Dohrmann for his efforts.

"Did you ask Mr. Sweig if he took any money from Mr. Voloshen," McCormack was asked.

"Yes I did," the Speaker replied. "He (Sweig) denied it emphatically."

In the SEC suit, which accuses a group of Parvin-Dohrmann stockholders of fraudulent activities in taking over the firm last year.

McCormack said he suspended Sweig because he had always told those associated with him: "I did not want them to make any appointment with any sensitive departments. That has been my policy for years."

"At the appropriate time, when I have obtained all the facts," McCormack said, "I will take such further action as is warranted. In the meantime, I want to point out that under our system of government, a man is assumed innocent until proven guilty."

McCormack, in response to questions, said he has "no interest, directly or indirectly" in the Parvin-Dohrmann firm.

McCormack said he has known Voloshen at least 10 years and described their friendship as "a public one, as distinguished from a personal or private friendship."

However, McCormack said when he learned several weeks ago that Voloshen was under investigation "I told him that I did not want him to come into my office any more."

Wrecks of five Civil War blockade runners have been found off the South Carolina coast.

East Germans Skyjack Plane, Given Asylum

BERLIN (AP) — Two East German hijackers were granted asylum in West Germany yesterday, and the Polish airliner they commandeered at gunpoint returned to the eastern zone with its other 63 passengers and nine crewmen.

The two men, described only as being in their early 20s, stepped from the plane at Tegel Field, in the French sector of Berlin, seconds after landing and said they were defecting. One had a pistol in his hand.

Witnesses at the field said two Communist MIGs shadowed the Lot Airlines plane, a four-engine Ilyushin 18, as it made its approach but "it landed anyway," a policeman said.

There were unconfirmed reports that a crew member was injured slightly by the hijackers when they commandeered the plane over East Berlin.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said airmen in the Tegel control center had no idea that the plane was about to land.

"He came out of nowhere," the spokesman said, "then he just landed. There was no voice communications with him. He flew a very irregular pattern."

The Polish government television service said "two armed individuals" forced their way into the pilot's cabin and terrorized the crew. It said the pilot notified the Warsaw airport of the hijacking immediately after the two entered the cabin.

The flight originated at Warsaw, was scheduled to stop in East Berlin and then Brussels.

The plane stayed three hours in West Berlin, then flew to East Berlin's Schenefeld Airport. Another Polish airliner picked up the Brussels passengers there and flew them to the Belgian capital.

One American was reported among the passengers, but he was not identified.

At the Berlin Wall, another East German escaped by climbing the 10-foot barrier as East German border guards fired at him with machine pistols.

Identified as a 34-year-old East Berliner, he came through the hail of bullets untouched, but injured his legs when he dropped into West Berlin. He was taken to a hospital.

Stabbed Body Of 2-Year-Old Girl Is Found

LOS GATOS (AP) — A neighbor found the stabbed body of a baby girl in a vineyard last night 90 minutes after her parents had reported her missing.

Santa Clara County sheriff's deputies quoted other neighbors as saying a tall man about 20 years old wearing a T-shirt was seen sprinting from the area moments before the discovery.

The child was Shelly Holmboe, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Holmboe.

Deputies said they had no clues but were checking to determine if there was any connection with the death and the killings of Deborah Furlong, 14, and Kathy Snoozy, 15, whose stabbed bodies were found in nearby San Jose Aug. 3.

They said they also were checking to see if there was any connection with the deaths of five San Francisco Bay Area persons whom a phantom writer named Zodiac counts as his murder victims.

Tip Of Arab Bomb Aboard Israeli Ship

LONDON (AP) — Police and customs officials in all British ports have orders to search all arriving Israeli ships. The orders came from the London Port Authority which said it learned an Israeli ship headed for Britain might be carrying a bomb planted by an Arab.

The name of the ship was not announced. Officials said Scotland Yard relayed the bomb warning after receiving a tip from Israeli intelligence.

The only Israeli vessel to arrive this weekend was the Zim Line's 2,325-ton freighter Kineret. She was searched after she docked in London Saturday but no bomb was found. Arab terrorist set off a bomb at Zim's London office in August.

A Zim spokesman in the Israeli port of Haifa said the line's 4,000-ton Rachel, on its way to London with a crew of 24, was searched yesterday for a bomb but none was found.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli government spokesman and the Israeli command said they had no knowledge of the bomb report.

One report said Israeli intelligence was trying to contact other Israeli ships at sea and tell them to start searches for bombs.

Copter Cable Breaks, But Three Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three youths being rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter after their raft ran into shoals plunged 25 feet into San Francisco Bay yesterday when the hoist cable on the copter broke.

The Coast Guard said it was the first time to their knowledge that a Coast Guard hoist-basket cable ever had broken during a rescue.

Mike Henry, 22, and Danny Thomas, 11, had cuts on the arms and legs and were taken to the Public Health Service Hospital for a checkup of a complaint of back injuries. Ronnie Stewart, 13, was unhurt. All are from San Francisco.

The Coast Guard said the Stewart boy swam back to rocks from where he was picked up in a basket hoist by a second helicopter.

The other two were fished from the water where Henry was keeping the Thomas boy from sinking. The first helicopter landed in the water to get them.

The after-dark operation near the foot of Carroll Street was helped by headlights from automobiles parked on the shore.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the hoist-basket cable is tested out to support a dead weight of 600 pounds, which is more than the weight of the rescued trio. He said a Coast Guard board would investigate.

Food Stand Amendment Introduced

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A bill to allow elderly persons to exchange food stamps under certain circumstances for meals perpared and served by nonprofit organizations has been introduced by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

The bill would amend the Food Stamp Act of 1964 to authorize the secretary of agriculture to designate specific church, and other charitable groups, to accept food stamps in exchange for prepared meals.

Under the present act, persons who otherwise meet age, residency and income requirements are not eligible for food stamps if they do not have cooking facilities. The effect of the present act, Clausen said, is to deny food stamps to physically handicapped or sick persons unable to shop or prepare their own food.

The prie-dieu on which President Dwight D. Eisenhower kneeled when he was baptized, after becoming President, will be housed in the Chapel of the Presidents in the new National Presbyterian Church and Center in Washington, D.C.

Czech Brass Gets Hearty Airport Fete

MOSCOW (AP) —The three top Czechoslovak leaders arrived here today for a big Kremlin welcome, including a 21-salvo artillery salute, designed to show approval for the recent purge of Prague liberals.

Communist Party chief Gustav Husak, who replaced liberal reformer Alexander Dubcek last spring under Soviet pressure, Premier Oldrich Cernik and President Ludvik Svoboda stepped from their plane at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport to what Tass, the Soviet news agency, described as a hearty welcome.

The airport was decked with flags of both countries, a band played the Soviet and Czechoslovak national anthems, and a 21-salvo artillery salute was fired to mark their arrival, Tass said.

With Svoboda, Husak and Cernik were top members of the Prague leadership. They included Lubomir Strougal, a party secretary and chief of the regional Czech party; Vasil Bilak, a party secretary, and Stefan Sadovsky, chief of the regional Slovak party. All three are members of the party's ruling Presidium.

Appointment To Board On Tap

Attorney Ronald D. Schenck of 728 Eucalyptus Avenue, Novato, will be considered for appointment to the Novato Unified School District board when the board meets at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

Schenck was a candidate for the board in the April election but lost by five votes to Carolyn M. Crabtree. Jean A. Ansley, a member of the former San Jose School board and a member of the Novato Unified School board since the two districts unified, resigned her post on Oct. 6. Her term expires on June 30, 1971.

Other items to come before the board include reducing the district negotiating council from nine to seven members, a pay increase for coaches, appointments to an ethnic study committee and a report on the summer school.

Auction Of Antiques, Silver Set Saturday

Antiques, silver and Persian rugs are among the articles from three estates which will be auctioned at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the lower parking area of the Marin Civic Center.

Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, who is public administrator for the county as well as coroner, is holding the sale, the first of its kind in Marin, so that the public as well as dealers may bid on the articles.

Eugene R. Fontaine, of the coroner's office, who has been cataloguing the sale articles, said they come from three estates for which Dr. Cooke is the administrator.

The proceeds from the sale will go into the estates with the county taking a share for handling the estates.

Furniture, lamps, clocks, dishes and glassware will also be offered for sale, he said.

A preview of the articles will start at 9 a.m., and if it rains, Fontaine said that the sale will be held under the arch of the new Hall of Justice.

Survey Will Be Eyed For Bonds

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission will discuss conducting public opinion survey on a proposed bond issue when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The city council has requested the survey. The city council and commission are considering purchasing the 67-acre O'Hair property on Novato Boulevard at Sutro Avenue for a major city park. The property has been offered to the city for $500,000.

The commission will also discuss how the property should be developed before suggesting a figure to the council for a bond issue.

The commission will also hear a report on the progress of development of Pioneer Memorial Park on Simmons Lane and hear a report on creek development policy.

Artificial Sweetener In 15 Pct. Of Drinks

CHICAGO (AP) — The major producer of cyclamate says 15 per cent of all soft drinks sold in the United States in 1968 contained the artificial sweetener which has been banned by the federal government.

Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago, which manufactured more than half the cyclamate used in this country, said yesterday it had stopped producing the sweetener "pending further discussions."

Millions of weight-conscious Americans will have to turn to new low-calorie nourishment. The artificial sweetener has been widely used in about $1 billion worth of foodstuffs sold annually—not only soft drinks but canned fruits and vegetables, ice cream, cookies and diet mixtures.

A spokesman for Pillsbury Co. in Minneapolis said the firm would replace cyclamate with other sweeteners in its no-calorie and low-calorie lines.

One soft drink manufacturer —PepsiCo—announced that it would soon start marketing a cyclamate-free diet drink with only one-sixth the calories of Pepsi-Cola.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has banned the sale of cyclamate sweetened beverages as of Jan. 1, and of other foodstuffs containing the substance as of Feb. 1.

The department acted Saturday after receiving reports of two studies indicating that rats given big doses of cyclamate developed cancer.

Meanwhile, a Cambridge, Mass., scientist said that experiments showed large cyclamate doses injected into hamsters produced coronary disorders and death.

Dr. Fred Homburger of the Cambridge Bio-Research Institute said the effect developed within three months after t he animals were treated with the sweetener.

Another scientist, Dr. David Stone of the Worcester (Mass.) Foundation for Experimental Biology, said rats fed with cyclamate produced offspring who appeared more nervous and active than normal.

Abbott Laboratories financed one of the studies on rats which revealed cyclamate's cancer-causing properties.

A statement by the company said the rats which developed cancer had been administered more than 50 times the maximum amount of cyclamate which health agencies previously had suggested humans limit themselves to.

The Abbott statement added: "It is critically important to emph

The Abbott statement added: "It is critically important to emphasize that this new perspective on artificial sweeteners should not be a cause for panic on the part of the general public."

Cyclamates accounted for 4 per cent of Abbott's $351 million in total sales last year, the spokesman said.

Five Named To Study Abroad

Five Terra Linda High School students have been selected to participate in the Experiment in International Living as foreign exchange students next summer.

The students and the countries they will visit are Pat Delp, Spain; Nan Nebel, Germany; Debbie Amandoli, Italy; Gordon Walker, France, and Andy Bollen, Austria.

If one of the students is unable to attend, an alternate, Steve Roach, will go to Brazil.

The students will divide their time living with European families, touring the country and spending time in a metropolitan area.

Czech Skips Ship At Docking To Fulfill A Nine-Year Dream

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jiri Vokroualik says he had planned for a long time to seek freedom in America.

While biding his time in Prague, he took a machinists' course. Finally, he was able to sign on as a motor machinist on a Czech freighter.

His ship steamed slowly to Japan and then to Los Angeles for a brief refueling stop before setting out for Peru.

Immigration inspectors had finished their routine check yesterday of the Vitkovice—the first Czechoslovakian ship to call here in several years — when Vokroualik approached them on the dock and asked for political asylum.

"I plan my freedom for nine years," the dark-haired 26-year-old told newmen later. "I know of what it is, the United States, from my history books and from my radio. I know it is good place where people have liberty.

"Help me stay here. I have no family here. I have no money. I have hands. I can work good."

Vokroualik told of attending Prague's High Technical Institute to become a mechanical engineer while living with his mother, father and one younger brother.

In hesitant English he said his passion for reaching the United States was kindled when, at 17, he found an American history book on a back shelf in a library. And the passion flamed when he heard about America on Radio Free Europe.

The Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia in August 1968 confirmed his plans, he said.

"I learn how it is not to be free. I am in square when tanks come, many people die. I have only my hands. I cannot fight tanks with my hands.

"I come to America so my hands can work with machines and not to fight tanks."

Authorities turned Vokroualik over to police custody in adjacent Long Beach, pending an immigration hearing. They explained that the seaman had to be jailed temporarily because he had sneaked off his ship and technically was a deserter.

To be able to stay in the United States, an immigration official said, "he will have to convince the board of inquiry that his claim that he will be abused if he is forced to return is valid."

The official added: "There is every reason to believe he will be allowed to stay."

Youth In Wild Battle At Jail

A 20-year-old youth, arrested on a drug charge, went berserk in the Marin County Jail Saturday night and battled five sheriff's deputies for more than 15 minutes before being subdued.

Additional charges of assaulting a peace officer were filed against Gary Michael Melby, who refused to give an address.

Melby was brought to the jail about 6:30 p.m. by Tiburon police on a drug charge. During the booking procedure Melby suddenly punched jailer Doug Barrett and began attacking other deputies.

Several deputies suffered cuts and bruises and Barrett was sent to Marin General Hospital for X-rays of his back. Melby, who is being held in lieu of $6,250 bail, required 15 stitches in his head after the skirmish.

Driver Makes A Wrong Turn

A Kentfield woman who took a wrong turn on her way home from work Saturday spent the night on a deserted road trying to get her car out of the mud.

Ross police found Mrs. Cecilia Panholzer of 12 Laurel Avenue, Kentfield on Skewes-Cox Road at 5:37 a.m. yesterday placing pieces of wood beneath the wheels of her car in an effort to get it back on the pavement.

Mrs. Panholzer, who was unharmed, told police she had made a wrong left-hand turn at 10 p.m. the previous night and when she tried to turn her car car around it went off the road.

Grid Equipment Taken From Bus

Football equipment valued at $116 was stolen Saturday night from the Middelfield High School team bus while parked at Durst Field, Petaluma.

School officials said items taken included three football jerseys valued at $30, three helmets valued at $66 and two pair of cleat shores valued at $20.

Police also reported that vandals had broken the windshield wipers on the Napa High School football team bus Friday night when the team played Petaluma Senior High School.

Violin Spider Concern In Petaluma

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Concern about a South American spider has spread from Southern California to the San Francisco Peninsula, but authorities say there is no cause for alarm.

The honey bee actually is more dangerous than any crawling insect, says Benjamin Keh of the state Vector Control Bureau in Berkeley.

"Why doesn't anybody ever ask me about the deadly honey bee?" he said yesterday.

During a 10-year research period, 124 deaths from bee stings were recorded while fatal bites by spiders of all kinds totaled 66, he reported.

None of the peninsual spiders has been identified as a South American violin, named for a distinctive pattern on the back, but the concern is continuing, Keh said.

Up to 30 spiders have been brought in for identification here in San Mateo County, vector control specialist Philip A. Duffy reported.

In neighboring Santa Clara County the total is nearly 300, said insect control supervisor Dean Ecke.

The concern began to be noted after a South American violin, to which two deaths in the United States have been attributed, was discovered near Lompoc in the Central California coastal area last June.

Panel To Study Freeway Bypass

Realignment of the proposed De Long Avenue extension east of the projected Highway 101 bypass will be considered by the Novato Planning Commission in an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The state Division of Highways wants the city to select an extension route in order to be able to use dirt from the work for construction of fills for the bypass.

The De Long interchange will be the major off ramp for Novato when the freeway bypass is completed.

The commission will also consider a variance for Novato Toyota to install two signs on its garage at Highway 101 and Olive Avenue.

Indianapolis has been the capital of Indiana since 1825.

Waterfront Challengers Organize A New Group

Conservation-oriented Sausalito residents, who earlier this month challenged the proposed central waterfront plans as abandoning the waterfront to the tourist, have organized as the Sausalito Coalition for an Open Waterfront.

Stephen Fraser, coalition executive director, said today large numbers of concerned residents, including architects, urban planners, conservationists, economists "and other concerned local citizens, including many property owners," will attend the Sausalito City Council's 8 p.m. hearing today in city hall on the waterfront plan.

The council at its last meeting indicated it did not expect to adopt the plan, prepared by William E. Spangle Jr., San Mateo planning consultant, at tonight's meeting.

The plan calls for limited commercial development along the waterfront, partially on existing filled land and partially on piers and docks extending into the water.

It also calls for development of a neighborhood commercial district along Caledonia Street.

The coalition charges the city has suffered a net loss of more than $100,000 by its "open door attitude toward tourist oriented activities," noting that revenues from parking, sales taxes and fines are exceeded by the cost of fire, police and public works services for the tourist inflow.

God has listened to you enough times.

Now how about listening to Him?

More than a few things are troubling our cities, our world, our souls.
Sometimes, we raise our hands heavenward and say, "When oh when are you going to change it all, Lord?"
And "changing it all" is just what He expects us to do!
Listen: "Love your neighbor as yourself."
If that were put to practice—really to practice—ghettos would not exist, wars would cease, hunger would end inhumanity would be stricken from the dictionary.
A perfect world.
Will we ever see it?
One thing certain, we won't even begin to see it, if we don't start doing what God has asked of us for heaven only knows how long.

MacArthur's Landing Is Re-Enacted

RED BEACH, Leyte, Philippines (AP) — U.S. and Filipino troops joined forces again today for a small-scale re-enactment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines 25 years ago today.

Some 200 Filipino soldiers and marines splashed onto Red Beach from landing barges following earthshaking explosions in a mock sea and air bombardment. U.S. planes flew over, and Filipino paratroopers jumped.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos and U.S. Ambassador Henry A. Byroade led scores of military and diplomatic dignitaries attending the ceremonies. Crowds of Filipinos lined the beach.

Notable among the officials was Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Rumulo, who stepped ashore 25 years ago with MacArthur and the late Sergio Osmena, president of the Philippines at the time.

Wreaths were placed on the tombs of unknown soldiers of each country, and memorial services were held for the dead. A cornerstone was laid for a spacious Leyte Landing Memorial Park.

Speeches recalled the heroism, glory and comradeship U.S. and Filipino forces shared. But Marcos also emphasized changes in Filipino-American relations since then.

He said that while both countries must be proud of their history together, there is a demand now for a fresh assessment of the relationship. He said all current agreements and treaties between the two nations must be reassessed. He said new generations have little use for the sentimental ties of days gone by.

The United States and the Philippines will begin talks soon to renegotiate the treaties and agreements pertaining to the four bases in the country at which about 30,000 Americans are stationed.

A majority of American marine producers expect an increase during 1969 in premium volume for import cargo insurance, according to a nationwide survey by Marine Office of America. At present, foreign interests now control 70 per cent of this insurance.

Blue-Collar Workers Are Crossing The Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report shows one out of every five blue collar workers is likely to cross the job color line into a white collar position —many of them taking at least a short-term pay cut.

But most workers who make the shift from production jobs to management, professional, technical, clerical or sales positions figure the switch is worth it in the long run, the report says.

"Most respondents were convinced that their socioeconomic status had risen above that of their parents and above the current status of most of their boyhood friends," said the survey of 452 workers.

The report was published today in the Labor Department's Monthly Labor Review. It said job switching is largely haphazard, and urged government employment agencies, employers and unions to make it easier for workers to climb up the job ladder.

The study by University of Wisconsin economic professors David B. Johnson and James L. Stern said 39 per cent of blue collar workers making the switch moved into managerial jobs and increased their base pay by nearly 15 per cent.

But, it added, "Men shifting into professional-technical jobs suffered an average loss of weekly gross income of 5.7 per cent. In terms of base pay without overtime, however, the loss was only 2.7 per cent."

Blue collar workers shifting to clerical jobs lost 9.8 per cent in gross pay, 6.3 per cent when lost overtime was excluded.

The workers interviewed gave many reasons for wanting to make the job switch.

"Very prominent among them were reasons related to an improved financial situation resulting from steadier work in the white collar job, higher fringe benefits, and prospects for better long-run earning opportunities," the report said.

"The job search patterns of blue collar workers show that individual, unguided efforts were the most important means of achieving a shift to a white collar job," the report said.

"Our findings indicate that employers should give consideration to adoption of formal programs for upgrading blue collar workers into professional-technical and clerical classifications," it said.

It also urged better career guidance by federal-state Employment Service offices for blue collar workers who are frequently ignorant of opportunities to move into white collar jobs.

And, it added, new training programs are needed to move more youths into apprenticeship and free skilled blue collar workers for higher jobs without worsening the shortage of skilled men.

Deputy Has A Rought Time In Nudity Arrest

Anyone who's envied Marin County Sheriff's deputies who have made arrests on nude girl swimmers, should think again.

It's no picnic. Ask deputy Joseph Kelley.

Kelley went to Muir Beach Saturday afternoon after receiving a complaint that a girl was running nude on the beach.

The girl, Shirley S. Orman, 22, of Sebastopol, refused to go to jail peacefully, however, and Kelley was forced to aid her progress somewhat.

In the battle that followed Kelley sustained several claw marks on his face and arms, was spit on and as a grand finale, was bitten on the hand, a wound which required treatment at Marin General Hospital.

The girl was booked investigation of resisting arrest as well as for nudity. She was unable to make the $625 bail and was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today at 2 p.m.

Did Russia Fail In Troika Space Flight?

MOSCOW (AP) — The failure of Soviet cosmonauts to put together a space station on the three-ship flight last week could result in a shift of emphasis back to unmanned flights.

The lack of any spectacular achievement by the seven spacemen seems to have put the proponents of manned flights on the defensive. They talk as if they are trying to stave off a return to the policy of extreme caution that followed the Soyuz 1 crash in April 1967 in which a cosmonaut was killed.

This tragic setback obviously shook the Kremlin badly and made it extremely leery of manned flights. The Soviet press took to extolling unmanned flights, saying they were just as useful as manned missions in obtaining scientific information and preferable because no risk of human life was involved.

The de-emphasis of the cosmonaut program took some of the sting from comparisons with what the United States was accomplishing with men in space during this period.

A more favorable attitude toward manned flights started to show after the successful flight of Soyuz 3 last October and the linkup of Soyuz 4 and 5 in January.

The Soviet leaders seemed reassured of the safety of manned flights and once again confident that their space program could hold its own in direct competition with the U.S. effort.

If the Soyuz troika had produced a big leap foward, more manned flights could have been expected in the near future, with perhaps launchings to the moon or plants from an orbiting platform.

How serious the trouble was will be kept secret. Possibly it was minor and will not significantly slow down the manned program. But if it was serious and the Kremlin's old worries have revived, the Soviet leaders could well prefer to retreat to the former, safer position. This could mean a long reappraisal before any more manned flights.

In one interview, the unidentified chief designer of spaceships said: "No matter how perfect automatic equipment is and how high the level of automation, it is the man whose decisions are most important. In the conditions of flight, especially when various operations are being performed, the cosmonaut plays an extremely great role. In the formula man-machine, the machine is merely an object to be controlled."

Another unidentified scientist who took part in developing the Soyuz control system said: "The best results are yielded by a reasonable combination of man the researcher and automatic equipment."

Another space authority, identified only as a "leading specialist," declared: "The building of orbital stations is the central problem of cosmonautics today. Extraterrestrial laboratories will have to be first built on earth, then dismantled and taken into orbit and fitted together into a single whole."

The chief designer endorsed this emphasizing the importance of welding in space, tried for the first time in Soyuz 6.

"Welding in space holds great promise," he said. "some people believe now that it will be possible to build various objects in space, assembling them with the use of automation alone. But it is not like that. I believe that the assembly of various constructions will be mechanized to the utmost, but manual work will still be needed. Welding is just this type of work."

Four GIs Killed In Korea DMZ

SEOUL (AP) — The United States and South Korea requested a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission tomorrow to protest the "murder" of four U.S. soldiers in an ambush Saturday by North Koreans.

North Korea has not yet responded to the request, a U.S. spokesman said.

The spokesman said the four soldiers were aboard a one and one-half ton truck returning from a guard post inside the demilitarized zone.

The North Koreans ambushed the truck with grenades and small arms fire, the spokesman said, and the four Americans were found in the truck shot in the head.

A short time later, American patrols spotted four North Koreans fleeing back across the DMZ but lost contact after an exchange of fire, according to reports.

The spokesman said the North Koreans dropped two blood-stained items they took from the four dead soldiers, indicating they had ambushed the truck.

The incident occurred in the central portion of the 18-mile sector of the DMZ that the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division guards.

The last serious incident in the area occurred July 21. Five Americans have now been killed in DMZ clashes this year.

Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe.

The true value of this $6,367* investment becomes more apparent after your first panic stop or unexpected curve.

The announcement of the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe might easily become lost amid the din of pronouncements like "daringly different," "startlingly bold," and "dramatically new" which emanate from Detroit each year at new car introduction time.

But it hasn't escaped the notice of automotive experts and Mercedes-Benz enthusiasts. They recognize that the 250 Coupe introduces the pure, simple and honest styling of a Mercedes-Benz in a classical coupe configuration.

Sharply raked windscreen and formal rear pillars of the 250 Coupe are attractive indeed. But the true beauty lies in the way it performs in a tight situation.

Reacts professionally under stress

The rake of the windscreen and the graceful slope of the formal rear pillars give the Coupe a certain élan. Yet Mercedes-Benz scorns the concept of automobiles that rest their reputation on beauty—but then turn ugly in a tight situation. The true beauty of the Coupe, they insist, is the professional way it reacts under the stress of an emergency. A beauty you have to experience to appreciate.

You know the feeling. Another driver runs a stop sign. Or brake lights suddenly flash ahead of you on a busy, high-speed expressway. No matter how beautiful your car is on the outside, your heart shudders momentarily as you make what is aptly termed a "panic" stop.

You may still get that feeling the first time a similar situation confronts you in the 250 Coupe. But after you experience the enormous stopping power, you begin to appreciate the priceless value of this $6,367 automobile. For suddenly you are a more confident driver.

Disc brakes reduce fade

Hopefully, you will never need the heroic stopping power of disc brakes. But Mercedes-Benz refuses to just hope. So they insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Automotive engineers acknowledge the superiority of disc brakes over common drum brakes.

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in smoking panic stop situations—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus resist fading.

Racing car suspension

If you ever built a soapbox racer, you know the principle of a solid-beam rear axle—one wheel at each end of a rigid shaft.

In combination with springs and shock absorbers, a solid-beam axle is a simple, relatively inexpensive way to suspend the rear of an automobile. The design enjoys widespread acceptance—in fact all domestic sedans use solid-beam rear axles.

But like most simple solutions, it raises other problems. You have to choose between boulevard ride and surefooted handling. Soften the suspension and you sacrifice road holding—so important in those circumstances that demand sharp reflexes from both car and driver. Stiffen the suspension and the ride becomes unduly harsh. You improve cornering—at the expense of your backbone.

But there is another way. Independent rear suspension. Put four joints in the axle to allow each rear wheel to move over bumps independently of the other just as the front wheels do.

The ride is comfortable, controlled. Less pitching and wallowing. At the same time it plants the rear wheels intimately on the road.

All Grand Prix racing machines employ independent rear suspension for its tenacious road holding. So do all Mercedes-Benz automobiles.

Enjoy driving again

The sophisticated braking and suspension systems that make you a more confident driver also work to make driving enjoyable again. In an era when most automobiles are designed to transport you from point A to point B in ultimate isolation and boredom, the 250 Coupe is a revelation.

With its 2.8-liter overhead camshaft engine, the responsive and obedient Coupe is engineered for those red-blooded souls who refuse to relegate their driving skills to monotonous turnpikes. Designed for more than just "straight line" driving, Mercedes-Benz automobiles exhibit the versatility of a decathlon champion under all types of driving conditions.

So avoid the expressways when the mood strikes you. Take that interesting back road and enjoy scenery more dramatic than someone else's exhaust pipe. You'll find the 250 Coupe and all Mercedes-Benz motor cars make driving something to do—not something that must be done.

A lasting investment

It takes a bit longer than your first refreshing drive to appreciate the durability of the 250 Coupe. Perhaps 50,000 miles or so. Then you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle. For the Coupe, like every Mercedes-Benz, is not bolted into being like most cars, but fused into a single rattle-thwarting unit by thousands of welds.

But Mercedes-Benz engineers don't stop there. They stubbornly insist that each component be designed and inspected to be as staunch as the next. Vital engine parts are probed with X rays to spot invisible flaws. Tolerances are checked on special marble tables with instruments so precise a human hair propels the recording device off the scale. Even items like washers, screws and dashboard knobs are regularly sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectrography.

The end result of this demand for perfection is not something that you can see, but something you will appreciate—in time.

Understanding Mercedes-Benz styling

Ten years ago, rocket-ship taillights, bumper exhausts and wrap-around windshields were "in." Today it's decal "racing" stripes, peekaboo headlights and spoilers that don't really spoil anything at legal speeds. Tomorrow—who knows?

Mercedes-Benz does not employ "mod" designers to create and pander to these fads. For fads seldom last more than a couple of years. Certainly not the lifetime of a Mercedes-Benz.

Designed around the passengers and the machinery it encloses, the Coupe emerges with simple, functional, uncluttered lines.

Example: The graceful roof was engineered as an integral part of a sturdy safety zone surrounding the occupants.

Example: The hood covers the engine. Period. You don't push around yards of sheet metal in front of the radiator for the sake of imagined status.

Drive the 250 Coupe for ten years—and it will be on its way to becoming a "classic"—not a laughable reminder of passé fetishes.

A past president of Marin BPW, Mrs. Gottschalk is also a member of the Music Teachers Association of California.

"Women have brought new vitality to public offices and to business," she says, "because they are still striving for recognition and must perform better, produce more, study harder and be ever alert to the technological developments surrounding them."

Francis Bahl was appointed deputy public administrator of the County of Marin last July. Prior to that she served as secretary in the county office, which combines the positions of coroner, public administrator and public guardian.

Mrs. Bahl is a member of the Board of Directors of the Marin County Employees Association, a member of the Legal Secretary's Association of Marin and served as Marin BPW president from 1967 to 1968.

Discussing the place of women in business she says, "We have the right to equality with our male fellow worker, but to get equal treatment we must have equal skills; we must accept responsibility; we must be able to listen; and we must be able to contribute to the solution of problems."

STICK 'EM UP FOR BENEFIT

Make Every Penny Count

Shopping these days can be a traumatic experience for the housewife. With prices going up, up and away women are dismayed to know that this year's forecast is that inflation will hit a new high. There are some ways to make every penny count. But you've got to work at it.

1. Be A Listmaker. The smart shopper maps out her strategy before she engages in the battle of costs vs. pocketbooks. Lists are indispensible in keeping impulses under check and making the shopper walk the straight and narrow path of real economies. A list should be flexible enough to include the daily "specials" the store is featuring. Shopping list rarely contain items like macadamia nuts, grape leaves, sturgeon, however.

2. Coupon Clippers Unite. This should be your battlecry because manufacturers and food processors do have periodic deals that are to your advantage. Cents-off coupons and stickers, those get-one-free offers mean money in your pocket, so never carelessly toss away any that come your way.

3. Supermarket "Specials" Really Are. No need to be skeptical about those "special" signs in most markets; often items are lower-priced to move them out before a new shipment is expected. If you have a running familiarity with the specific prices on certain items you always buy, you'll know how valuable the "specials" are. Those large end-of-aisle displays where food is especially price-worthy are called "loss-leaders" in market parlance. They are the bait to pull you into purchasing something else you may not need. Weigh the loss leaders carefully; if you normally use the product and it's well-priced, consider stocking up; if you don't like it to begin with, even a half-priced can of peas, for example, is no bargain.

4. Learn to Read a Label. Any supermarketer worth her salt should set about on a concerted label-reading program because under the new truth-in-packaging regulations all pertinent data is inscribed there — like weights and measures. Check comparative contents and prices of several brands and you'll find the one that's a slightly better buy. Even if the saving is small, remember those little pennies saved can grow into big dollars earned at the checkout counter.

5. Stock up in Quantity on Canned Goods. The marvelous advantage of buying food in cans or glass jars is that they can be stored easily and for long periods of time. And because canned items range over just about everything you'll always have a supply of something in the house. Also, items that are out of season in your area are usually priced much higher than the same processed foods available all year.

6. Unusual Package Sizes? You Pay For It! Some manufacturers put the same product into different kinds of packaging — sometimes in a decorator flacon; other times it's a container made from a different material. Compare and you will see that with odd shaped packages, it's the customer that usually pays the bill. Most foods container sizes fall within a category of standardization. Unit costs are less, and you save without really knowing it.

7. Less-Than-Perfect Items are Priceworthy. Day-old bread and slightly crushed ladyfinger cookies, a little overripe fruit, or bruised vegetables are not necessarily to be passed by. Consider your needs; of, for example, you are making French toast, day-old bread is perfect. And a toothpaste container that has lost its outer cardboard container still has all the product inside. Opened packages should not be bought, but where the container is slightly askew and there is a reduction because of it, it's worth your consideration.

8. Practice the Art of Planning Ahead. Read the food pages of your newspaper — they offer the specials of the week. Make out your shopping list according to your particular tastes and needs. Plan your meals.

9. Finally, when you go supermarketing, try to "go it alone." There is nothing that can wreck even a carefully worked out budget faster than a winsome little boy or girl in the candy-ice-cream-cookies section. Children are incipient impulse shoppers, and it's hard to refuse a pleading eye turned toward a totally unnecessary 79-cent bubble bath plastic toy (when you know the 39-cent kind in the plain carton is just as good.)

In this day of the ever-rising price index, shopping can be a trauma or a triumph depending on how you go about it. Little economies all along add up to big savings when you reach the checkout counter.

Barbecue

Line an outdoor grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. Build the fire on the foil. The liner reflects heat and distributes it evenly over grill surface, cooking food faster. It also catches drippings and makes quick work of clean-up.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Do People Make An Issue Out Of Those Who Don't Drive?

DEAR HELEN:

I've always lived near my work, so I never needed a car. About two years ago I moved about two miles out of town in another state and found it easy to bicycle to town for my needs, several times a day if I so desired.

When I take trips, I fly, boat, bus or taxi and am more relaxed because I'm not watching the road constantly. Certainly I can afford to pay cash, even for a Rolls Royce, but I just don't care to drive.

So what's this thing about cars most everyone has? Some people will actually make an issue over my "deprivation"! I'm not exactly the village idiot. Other non-drivers I've met aren't stupid either. Yet we're looked upon as somewhat simple, especially if we choose to shop by bike. — ART

DEAR ART:

Not by me, you aren't.

I think you're a healthy, happy individualist. Stay that way! — H

DEAR HELEN: A word of cheer for the teen-ager whose mother is a hopeless alocholic. Her letter could have been written by me many years ago.

I am now age 50; my mother still calls regularly and we attempt a conversation through her drunkenness. I was never able to help her. To this day she doesn't admit she drinks.

During the early years of my marriage, I felt so inadequate and inferior that I too thought I would crack up. But I found an older friend whose insight and understanding brought me through. Here is what she told me:

"Every condition in life is a blessing, even your childhood experiences that seemed unbearable. Every hardship is a blessing. Had your life been a bed of roses, you might not be the fine person we know today. Now it is up to you to weed out all the sad experiences of your early life, think about them calmly and see that they haven't hurt you, but have only taught you to be more kind and understanding. The soul is a shining indestructible thing, and cannot be harmed by past experiences."

Well, to complete my letter, I have been married 30 years to a wonderful man. He is very successful in his profession. I finally completed college when our son was eight years old, and have been able to do the things I never dreamed possible as a teen-ager. Many of my friends, coming from happy homes, are either divorced, alocholic, discontented or sick. I feel sorry for my mother, but she cannot hurt me any more. Perhaps she helped, by forcing me to have strength to endure.

Please keep on telling young people with miserable family lives that it is up to them to live each day with as much patience, endeavor, respect and confidence as they can, even though the going is very rough. It will not last forever, and when they are removed from the condition, they will be surprised to find themselves equal to anyone or anything. — ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE

DEAR ANOTHER:

Thank you for saying it so well.

If only there was a wise and understanding listener for every miserable young person — just one adult who cared enough to help reidirect a life — think how many people might later be saved from the pyschiatric couch! — H.

Personal to "Repulsed": I can't print your letter for obvious reasons, but because I have received so many like it, I must answer: Ultra-modern marriage manuals, with their anything goes philosophy may be causing more sexual problems than they cure for husbands often disregard the end of the sentence: "If it is mutually accepted." Most women don't accept such practices, and if it isn't your pleasure, it isn't your duty. Love is sharing, not demanding — H

Florists suggest decorating the Jack O'Lantern with varying shades of chrysanthemums of yellow, bronze and red shades. Surround it with smaller pumpkins filled with an assortment of goodies to be doled out on the big night or at a Halloween party.

U.S. Politicians Get Fashion Nod

LONDON (AP) — Tailor and Cutter, bible of men's clothing, compared the dress of American and British politicians and found the fashion prizes belong overseas.

It said the British voter does not want his public figures to look richer, better or smarter than himself —and "the average public figure is only too happy to oblige."

"In the United States," the magazine observed, "success is something to be applauded. A president in a silk mohair dinner jacket and a vicuna topcoat is the public declaration of the heights to which any citizen may arise."

Art Deco's Fashion Influence

What is art deco? It is a style which captures the mood of an era and flashes it on today as an important fashion influence.

Beginning about 1910 and continuing to the late 30's, art deco dramatized both fashions and home furnishings. In fashion, it's characterized by fluid, body-following lines; soft geometrics in prints; deep-colored geometric shapes in jewelry and imaginative uses and combinations of colors and materials.

For fall 1969, accessories flashback the art deco measage, with verve.

In handbags, the art deco direction takes to swingy little mesh bags, grained leathers and distinctive trims such as mirror effects, buckles and other belted looks.

The pantsuit set turns to bold and rustic-looking shoulder bags and large luggage-handled satchels with outside pockets, stitching, touches of gold hardware and intricate closings.

Box handbags fill the need for trim-line accessories to complete dress and suit turnouts. Shapes are square, elongated or oval treasure chest types.

Jewelry makes the clearest statement of the art deco feeling. Geometric shapes are carried out in white metals, bright enamels and jewel-colored glass, in rings, pendants and pins.

General trend in costume jewelry is toward the bold, heavy and colorful. Some pieces, especially body jewelry, taken on total costume significance, as in chain boleros, vests and belts.

Necklaces are close to the neck in heavy choker and jewel-collar styles. Others are simple gold wires, with an ornament at the throat.

Animal jewelry is a favorite — serpent and ram's head bracelets and rings, turtle, fish and zodiac jewelry.

Earrings are large, and many have a dangling, symmetrical Far Eastern look.

THE FIRST LADY

Mrs. Nixon became First Lady of the land on January 20, 1969. She wore this mimosa yellow gown at the Presidential inaugural ball in Washington that night.

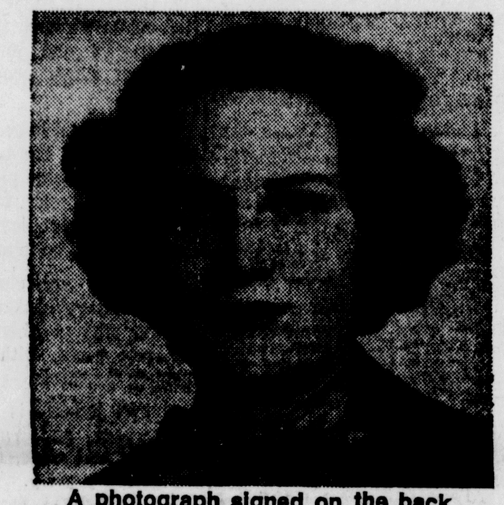
The way to the White House is never easy, or even expected. This has certainly been so for Pat Nixon. Her life, from its earliest years, has been characterized by quiet tenacity in the face of difficulties. She has worked hard and devotedly for those things which meant most to her: family, husband and children, and then the public duties consequent on the entry into political life. Love, unselfishness and determination have been evident in her tireless loyalty.

She was born Thelma Catherine Ryan on March 16, 1913, in Ely, Nev. Her Irish father, then a miner, gave her the nickname "Pat" because she was born on the eve of St. Patrick's Day. She grew up on a ranch which her father bought in Artesia, Calif., when he gave up mining. Her mother died when she was 12, and she looked after her two brothers and father. She nursed her father through his last illness; after his death, she went to New York, a 17-year-old, and worked for two years as an X-ray technician to earn the money for college.

After working her way through the University of Southern California, she taught high school in Whittier, Calif., where she met Richard Nixon; he proposed the first night. They were married in June 21, 1940, but Mrs. Nixon continued to work up to and through the war to help with their joint finances.

The first political campaign was in 1946, when Nixon was elected to Congress. Since then, at his side, she has fought through seven other campaigns, two of them particularly bitter defeats. As the wife of the vice president (1953-1961), she visited some 60 foreign countries with her husband. In 1957, she won one of the many distinctions of her own: the Homemakers Forum awarded her a silver bowl as "the nation's ideal wife."

Mrs. Nixon could justifiably feel proud of the fact that her husband is President of the United States, since he himself says of her, in one of his frequent tributes, "She is my greatest asset."

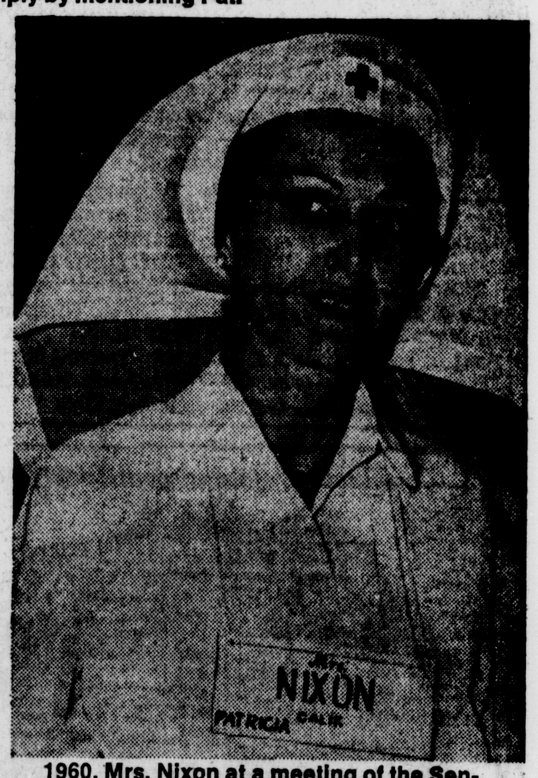


A photograph signed on the back "Patricia Ryan, April 7, 1937."

It was said of Mrs. Nixon, during the last campaign, that Nixon still won his loudest round of applause simply by mentioning Pat.

1950, the then Rep. Nixon at the start of the election campaign, in which Nixon was a successful candidate for the Senate. Their daughters Tricia (left) and Julie were then aged four and two respectively.

In 1955, traveling through South America with the then Vice President Nixon, Mrs. Nixon is greeted by a little boy in Honduras.



1960, Mrs. Nixon at a meeting of the Senate Ladies Red Cross Unit.

1960, Mrs. Nixon faced with bitter disappointment as her husband, Vice President Nixon, concedes the presidential election to his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy.

1968, a twentieth birthday party for Julie Nixon, cutting her cake as her mother watches; beside Julie is her fiance, David Eisenhower, behind are her father and her sister, Tricia.

January 20, 1969, a proud and joyful Mrs. Nixon, just after her husband had taken the oath as 37th President of the United States.

ON THE HOOD

Gray-Hair Ride For The Boss

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Harry Brodey took a 90 mile-an-hour ride yesterday—one the hood of a car.

He came out of it with cuts on his hands and possibly a gray hair or two.

Brodey, 54, president of Brodey & Brodey, Inc., a scrap metal firm, was working at his office Sunday when three men strolled up to him,.

He asked them what they wanted, and they ran.

Brodey chased them outside and leaped onto the hood of their car as they jumped inside.

"I thought they wouldn't start the engine with me on the hood, and that maybe I could buy time this way until the police arrived," he said.

Seven Brodey employes working on a loading dock heard the car screech away, saw the boss on the hood, and called police.

Brodey's head was toward the windshield. He grabbed a windshield wiper in each hand and held on.

Police gave chase and said the car reached speeds of up to 90 m.p.h. as they pursued it.

Then a train blocked the way and the men stopped and backed up to turn around. The car struck a parked car and the men fled on foot.

Still on the hood, Brodey pointed to the fleeing men and police ran after them.

Two got away, but an officer brought back a third. Brodey said he was the driver.

"I'm sure he was the driver," he said. "I was staring in his face for 10 minutes through the windshield."

Charles W. Anderson, 22, of Indianapolis, was charged with malicious trespassing, assault and battery with an automobile, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, reckless driving and fleeing a police officer.

Rotterdam is the second largest city of The Netherlands and Europe's greatest port.

OPERA REVIEW

'Grand' Is Word For The 'Aida' Opener

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Grand opera in the fullest sense of the word "grand" was the new production of Verdi's "Aida" unveiled Saturday night at the San Francisco Opera House.

It will probably be considered the high point of the season for visual splendor and for some incomparable musical moments.

The talents of British stage director Anthony Besch, making his local debut, combined with those of set designers Skalicki and West made this production of "Aida" among the most dazzling I have seen.

Sets were stunning, from the stark simplicity of the king's palace, the temple of the God Ptah and the judgment hall of the Temple of the Goddess Isis, to the ethereal beauty of a moonlite scene on the banks of the Nile to the magnificent triumphal scene within the gates of Thebes. Striking use of light and color was the secret.

Musically the performance was a major triumph for the Welsh soprano Gwyneth Jones as Aida, who proved even more than in "Fidelio" why she is world renowned, and equally Czech mezzo Margarita Lilova as the jealous Princess Aneris, a role usually sung by a contralto.

The opera was off to a slow start in Scene I, Act I when French tenor Guy Chauvet as the Egyptian officer Radames was so insecure vocally and so stodgy that I feared a fiasco. The famed aria "Celeste Aida" fell flat. Furthermore he looked more like a Roman general than an Egyptian warrior. But he improved steadily. By Act III he almost measured up to Aida.

In Act III Miss Jones was awe-inspiring in the beauty of her pianissimo singing and technical fluence in her highest register. Her rapturous aria "O Patria Mia" was exquisite and moving.

She and Miss Lilova shared honors in their Act II scene, and Miss Lilova was at her best vocally and dramatically in her final scenes in the opera.

As Aida's father Amonasro, bass-baritone James Farrar made an auspicious debut in a powerful portrayal of the savage Ethiopian warrior king. The bearing and virile bass of Clifford Grant conveyed perfectly the majesty of the king of Egypt, and Ara Berberian in the role of the high priest Ramfis had the best opportunity he has had recently to show off his resonant bass.

As always, the triumphal scene in Act II was the opera's spectacular apex for visual splendor and overwhelming sonority, largely due to the big chorus augmented by the San Francisco Civic Chorale which is directed by Marin's own Winifred Baker.

An interesting and flashy departure was a highly acrobatic male ballet instead of one danced by women. The dancing of the priestesses in Act I and Moorish slave women in Act II was not remarkable.

Sensitive rapport with the singers in their arias and other set pieces and authoritative command of all resources in the big cimaxes marked the conducting of Jean Perisson in a spirited orchestral performance.

Only one thing bothered me, and that was the final scene of the lovers' entombment. The lowering of the whole crypt on an elevator-like platform to me was surprising, inexplicable and unjustifiable.

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1969 — 19

FIRST AID — Handcuffed Donald L. Humes watches as highway patrolmen give first aid to severely injured Don Borges on the shoulder of Panoramic Highway. Borges and Humes reportedly were in a stolen car which overturned at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Patrol Copter Used In Pairs Capture

PATROL RESCUE — Injured Don Borges lies on a sling as highway patrolmen prepare to fly him to Marin General Hospital from Mount Tamalpais. Borges reportedly was at the wheel of a stolen car when it crashed on Panoramic Highway yesterday. (Photos by James C. Dukes, California Highway Patrol)

The California Highway Patrol's helicopter unit Sunday aided first in the capture and then in the evacuation of two car theft suspects said to have stolen a vehicle from the Mount Tamalpais theater parking lot and later wrecked it.

The unit was flying over Mount Tamalpais about 4 p.m. when the airborne officers received word that a car belonging to Gerald A. Laster of San Francisco had been stolen and was believed heading towards Bolinas on Highway 1.

BEACH SEARCH

The copter quickly began searching the beach area and landed next to the stolen car just three minutes after sheriff's deputy James Current found it overturned four miles east of Bolinas and Shoreline Highway.

Patrol officers said that the car has apparently hit an embankment on the right side of the road and swerved clear onto the left shoulder of the road, injuring both the driver, Don Borges, address unknown, and Donald L. Humes, of San Francisco.

Borges had been thrown from the car and was seriously injured, officers said, so he was placed in the helicopter and rushed to Marin General Hospital in just eight mintes while an ambulance carrying Humes took 50 minutes to reach the hospital.

Both men were reported in fair condition today at Marin General with lacerated eyebrows and possible head injuries.

BOTH BOOKED

Both were booked in absentia at Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft. Bail was set at $1,000 each.

Borges is also being held on a traffic warrant of $120 issued by the Atherton Police Department for a reckless driving citation, officers said.

Officers said it was the first time that the new helicopter unit had been used for capturing a suspect or for evcauation in Marin County.

Four Papers Lose Legal Advertising

Four Marin publications, the Tiburon Pelican, Larkspur-Corte Madera Times, Ross Valley Times and the Sausalito News, have lost their status as general circulation newspapers.

The ruling against the publications was made Friday in Marin County Superior Court by Judge Thomas F. Keating as the result of an action filed in February by John T. Luc, publisher of the Tiburon Ebb Tide.

All the affected journals are owned by Random Hill Publications Inc.

Under terms of the ruling, the publications will no longer be permitted to publish legal advertising.

In making his decision, Judge Keating declined to spell out any reason.

Luc had contended the papers did not qualify for general circulation status because they were not published and printed in Marin County and because the publications' names had been changed. Last year all four were amalgamated into a newspaper known as the Herald Tribune.

Harry N. Johnson, a director of the publications firm, was not available for comment on the ruling this morning.

Gelding Taken

A 7-year-old Anglo Arab gelding was taken from the home of Dorothy V. Brown, Bear Valley Road, Point Reyes, Wednesday, she reported to sheriff's deputies Thursday. Value of the horse was not listed, deputies said today.

Pollution Showdown Is Expected On Thursday

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND—The war between the City of San Francisco and the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board is expected to escalate Thursday when the board sets the legal stage for forcing compliance with its antipollution regulations.

The board warned last month that it may order a halt to all new construction in San Francisco if the city continued stalling promised action on a pilot project to solve its massive pollution of the bay. A new state law, to be effective Jan. 1, will give the board this power.

To set the legal stage for this penalty, the board is to adopt cease and desist orders against the city when it meets at 10 a.m. in San Mateo City Hall, 330 West 20th Avenue. San Francisco supervisors and Mayor Joseph L. Alioto have been invited to explain their position at the meeting.

San Francisco's problem is its unique system of combining sewer and storm drains. As a result, a heavy drizzle overwhelms the city's sewage treatment plants and raw sewage is dumped into the bay.

The city repeatedly has promised to experiment with new treatment facilities to handle the huge flows in wet weather, but last month its supervisors again postponed action to begin their construction.

On the afternoon agenda, beginning at 1:30 p.m., are staff reports on progress by dischargers in meeting board requirements, including the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, San Quentin Prison and Gilardi's Resort in Sonoma County.

The evening session, beginning at 8 p.m., will be to hear state plans for continued studies under the San Francisco Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Program, which envisions a multibillion-dollar regional waste water system.

Youth Cited On Marijuana Count

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth was cited for possession of marijuana after he was arrested Saturday night when San Rafael police raided a large, noisy party at 520 C Street.

Police allegedly found a marijuana cigarette in his possession.

The youth was released in custody of his parents to appear later in the San Rafael Police Department juvenile office for a hearing.

Cyclist Treated For Crash Injuries

Donald John Gerletti, 24, of Richmond, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for bruises on the right leg and left hip suffered when his motorcycle's wheel shattered and he was thrown off, Sausalito police reported today.

The 6:55 p.m. accident was at Bridgeway and Harbor Drive, police said.

Businesses Lose $300 To Thieves

Three San Rafael businesses lost approximately $300 in cash in three weekend burglaries.

George Leonetti, manager of the Fuller Paint Store, 636 Lindaro Street, told police $200 was taken from the store's cash register sometime Saturday night. Entrance was gained by forcing a door.

In a second theft, William W. McNerney reported between $15 and $20 in change taken from the register at Mac's Saw Service, 1013 Second Street. The burglary occurred Friday night and the shop was entered by breaking a rear window, according to police.

The San Rafael Union Station, 34 Ritter Street, lost $75 in a Saturday night burglary, according to Roy Lee Taylor, an employee. Taylor told police he found the money gone and the station door open when he came to work yesterday morning.

Car Strikes Wall, Auto–Youth Hurt

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth, Richard G. Hennig of 1720 Grand Avenue, was treated for scalp and finger cuts at Marin General Hospital Saturday night following an accident on Park Street.

According to police, the mishap occurred at 10:35 p.m. when the Hennig car struck a parked auto at 190 Park Street, then hit a retaining wall. The parked car is owned by the A & S Shooter Association Inc. of San Rafael.

A passenger in the Hennig car, Thomas J. Tanages, 16, of 5 Lochinvar Road, was uninjured.

Nicasio Bussing To Be Discussed

The problem of bus transportation from Nicasio and the San Geronimo Valley to Sir Francis Drake High School will be discussed by the Nicasio School District trustees at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

The district has been faced with curtailed bus service to the high school for several months. The trustees will discuss possible alternatives with Greyhound Lines or having the students drive their own cars, according to secretary Beverly Alberigi.

The trustees will also discuss the possible purchase of approximately one acre of land from the Marin Municipal Water District to add to the school property and the purchase of a metal shed for custodial storage.

One-Way Toll System Year Old, Successful

One year ago yesterday the Golden Gate Bridge pioneered its one-way toll collection system, a now permanent system that has proven to be a complete success.

Despite grave warnings that vehicles would tangle with the toll booths as they drove through in the toll-free, northbound lanes, about 31.3 million vehicles have made it across the bridge in 12 months without a single injury accident at the toll plaza, bridge officials reported.

As a result of its success, the system has been adopted by the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings on many of its bridges, and toll bridges around the world are considering switching to the system, which speeds traffic and reduces the number of toll collectors needed.

Figures still are being compiled on the financial effect of the system.

The present system, however, will be reversed to collect from Northbound drivers in about three years, after construction of a new southbound roadway behind the administration building.

Fresh Water Pump, Fixtures Missing

A $75 fresh water pump and two marine light fixtures were reported stolen sometime Thursday night from a cabin cruiser in the San Rafael Yacht Harbor.

Kenneth R. Ball of San Anselmo, owner of the boat, told San Rafael police the thief apparently entered through an unlocked door.

Ross Valley Kiwanis Club Installs Slate

Lawrence B. Malkin of Marinwood, as assistant administrator at Marin General Hospital, has been installed as president of Ross Valley's Kiwanis Club.

Other new officers are Roger Fields of San Anselmo, first vice president; Eugene Farrar of Greenbrae, second vice president; Jerry Frazier of San Anselmo, secretary, and Clint Waltermire, San Rafael, treasurer.

Nothing Taken In Post Office Burglary

The Inverness Post Office was burglarized Wednesday night, but nothing was believed taken, sheriff's deputies said today.

Two boxes were broken into, but both were unassigned, Postmaster Megan M. Mery told deputies Thursday.

Drug Suspect Booking Made

Noel K. Jewkes, 29, of 2 Washington Street, San Rafael, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and two traffic warrants.

Sheriff's deputies said they found Jewkes parked on a private road off Shoreline Highway and a record check produced the warrants, one from San Francisco and one from Daly City.

A subsequent search of Jewkes revealed a vegetable substance in his pocket which he identified as "marijuana cake."

He was held on bail totaling $960 to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Hair Length Talk

The "political implications" of Tamalpais High School District's controversy over hair length will be considered by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 201 of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael, committee chairman S. Robert Politzer reported.

Bridge Directors Dash Transit System Hopes

Twenty-seven years ago, the commute ferry service between Marin and San Francisco was forced out of business by the Golden Gate Bridge.

Last Thursday, directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District voted to put ferries back into business, at the district's expense.

IN THE YEARS since 1942, when the last of the ferries quit running, congestion on the bridge and its approaches — especially the approaches — has increased to the point where it is no longer possible to commute by car to San Francisco faster than it once could be done by a combination of railroad and ferries.

Principal reason for the congestion, as any bridge toll taker would tell the directors if they asked him, is that most of the cars carry only one or two riders each. The bridge, therefore, can accommodate only a small fraction of the number of commuters possible if there were adequate mass transit facilities.

The bridge directors, however, never ask the toll takers. And though they may ask their innovative new general manager, Dale W. Luehring, they are inclined to ignore his suggestions — as they never ignored the "it can't be done" ultimatums of his very non-innovative predecessor, James Adam.

LUEHRING HAD URGED that the bridge district go into the bus business. Greyhound buses carry less than a fifth of the commuters because their schedules are unsatisfactory. Greyhound Lines is not interested in improving the service because, as its officials have repeated many times, it wants to get out of the commute business.

If another fifth of the commuters could be induced to ride buses, the congestion could be reduced while steps were taken toward a rail rapid transit system — either through a tube, over another bridge, or on a second deck of the present bridge (though engineers hired on recommendation of the bridge district's former general manager always said "no" to this last).

San Francisco members of the bridge board, wedded to the past in this as in many other things pertaining to their city, insisted on ferries. Luehring then came up with a proposal to start both a bus system and a ferry system.

BUT THE SAN FRANCISCANS, over the opposition of North Bay members of the bridge district board, turned this down flatly last Thursday. They want ferries, period. Nothing else.

That this will do little to solve the problem does not bother them. That present-day ferries must be less adequate than those of a generation ago, for lack of the connecting rail system, does not bother them. They just want ferries.

The high hopes that were attached to entry of the bridge district into the transit picture have thus been dashed. Even James Adam at his most adamant could not have been more blindly stubborn than these San Francisco directors.

Suction Cup Feet

Anyone who has watched a lizard scurry across the ceiling knows that he just has to have suction cups on his feet. But examination with the naked eye and the optical microscope show only rows of ridges covering toes and soles.

How lizards managed their marvelous feats of agility remained a mystery until recently. Under the great magnification of an electron scanning microscope, the ridges proved to be made up of tens of thousands of tiny stalks, each with a tiny suction cup on the end.

For every mystery science clears up, it uncovers one or two more, however. This time the electron microscope posed another riddle. Why are the North American lizard's feet so much dirtier than his Asian cousin's?

Congress Should Seize Chance To Help End Vietnam War

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Now is the time when those who want peace in Vietnam can do something about it.

The American people and the American government can either move together to seize the moment or throw it away by allowing the extremists — left and right — to cancel the will of the realistic peace-seekers.

The opportunity for joint action by President Nixon, most of Congress and most of the nation is at hand. The ingredients for its success are coming into view.

THE ELEMENTS of such a joint initiative would be these:

1 — That it be recognized that the 1964 Tonkin Resolution, by which the Congress overwhelmingly authorized President Johnson to help defend South Vietnam, no longer reflects the realities either in Vietnam or in the United States. It is outdated by events.

2— That the Tonkin Resolution, which expressed the view of Congress on the conduct of the war, be replaced by a new resolution expressing the view of Congress on the conduct of the peace.

3 — That the President and the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Congress join to shape the peace resolution to reflect the maximum area of agreement on how the best the United States can get an acceptable peace.

THERE ARE GREAT advantages in such a course.

It would make Congress and especially the Senate, which has a constitutional duty to "advise and consent" on foreign policy, an active, helpful, responsible participant in dealing with the paramount issue before the country.

It would force Congress to replace talk with action, to come to grips with the hard but necessary choice of goals — surrender and defeat or a measured de-escalation while South Vietnam steadily takes over its own defense.

Congress ought to choose its policy and thus stand up and be counted. When it does, it will help shape a national will to carry out that policy.

FOR MONTHS now Congress has been demanding a larger participation in the shaping of foreign policy. Now is the time to do something about it. Does Congress want to share responsibility or only talk about it? Here is its opportunity — to vote its own conviction in replacing the war-guide resolution with a peace-guide resolution.

A meaningful peace resolution could be achieved only at the active initiative of the President. His is the primary constitutional duty to negotiate the peace. But he needs the support of Congress in waging the peace just as Lyndon Johnson needed the support of Congress in waging the war.

We are convinced that Mr. Nixon and the majority of Congress can reach an agreement on what such a peace resolution should contain. And when they do, it will help greatly to create a national consensus behing it.

THE AREAS of agreement between the responsible doves and President Nixon are far greater than many realize.

This is revaled by two facts:

All the leading Democratic doves voted for the minority Vietnam plank at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Today Mr. Nixon is carrying out every provision of that plank and — at points — more.

The dove-supported Democratic plank advocated "phased withdrawal" of all foreigh troops from Vietnam. Richard Nixon has gone further. He has begun phased withdrawal of U.S. troops without the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops. The dove-supported Democratic plank opposed "unilateral withdrawal." The President has gone beyond it with a beginning unilateral withdrawal.

It opposed "surrender" — and so does Mr. Nixon.

Probably some will not stand by the position they took at Chicago. But responsible leaders like Hubert Humphrey, Clark Clifford, Mike Mansfield, George Aiken and many others would.

A consensus on how best to end the war is coming into being, and the President and Congress ought to seize it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Communists Have Odd Idea Of Peace

I wonder if the people who are demanding accelarated withdrawal of troops from Vietnam ever consider the Communists' idea of "peace".

Cheddi Jagan told the International Conference of Communist and Workers Parties held recently in Moscow: "The people of the whole world owe a debt of gratitude to the heroic Vietnamese people for stalling the imperialist juggernaut. By dealing crushing blows, Vietnam transformed the U.S. political scene, and forced even hawks like George McBundy to become doves. Today, it is sounding imperialism's deathknell. Tomorrow, more battles in other areas of Asia, Africa, and Latin America (the most aggravated front of imperialism) will create its graveyard."

'Unsponsored' Plan Another Protest

In response to your editorial "Sponsorship is Spurious, But Protest is Real", I agree wholeheartedly that the protest is real. Perhaps some of the sponsorship is spurious, perhaps not. I write on behalf of many unaffiliated Marin women who are unsponsored, who may prefer to be unsponsored but who urgently feel that the United States must withdraw from the war. We will come together (as our own sponsors) this month to decide if and how we can participate in the moratorium which is nationally planned for Nov. 15. I invite all interested women to join us for an informal gathering on Oct. 23 at my home.

Not All Clergy Agree On Vietnam

Current mushrooming pressure on our federal government . . . to get out of Vietnam immediately boasts impressive support. Leading educators, senators and clergymen are being heard. They have a right to be heard. I wonder if the encouragement from the North Vietnam — Viet Cong delegations in Paris are really comforting.

I personally feel a need to state that not all clergymen and churches are joining the clamor. And I resist any inference that we who approve our government's present efforts are therefore sub-Christian, lovers of violence, or behind the times. . .

On the surface, opponents in the great argument appear to assume that we all share the will and ability to reach a mutually agreeable solution. It seems to me, however, that two vastly different philosophies are squaring off and will never be able to agree. This deep conflict divides churches and clergy. We too find ourselves poles apart. . .

Military power is certainly not the solution to human problems. It can only restrain evil. It cannot take evil out of society. We all need to get this point straight. The Bible does not offer either force or gentle restraint as able to change the ills of this world.

The Bible does offer God's power to all who come humbly confessing their sins and turning to Christ as the Savior whom God has provided. Has the Church outgrown its call to witness this central truth? . . .

SMALL WORLD

No matter how thin you slice it—

One Symphony Helps Another

Phillip S. Boone, president, San Francisco Symphony Association has made some seriously short-sighted statements (I-J, Oct. 9) about the solution to the fiscal problems of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

As one who is deeply involved as volunteer for musical enrichment of our lives through good live music, it is clear that without regional development and appreciation of music, the San Francisco Symphony would be facing even more problems than he projects.

For 18 years the Marin Symphony Guild has been building audiences and musicians not only through our very fine community orchestra, the Marin Symphony, conducted by Sandor Salgo, but also through our top-graded Marin Youth Orchestra, the Workshop for Strings, and our Music for Minors program. We sponsor and support all of these very worthwhile programs, which in turn are reflected in additional interest and support for the San Francisco Symphony. An appreciation of fine music leads to a desire to hear more not less or it. . .

Tamalpais Creek Horrible Example

This is an open invitation to all in Marin to come to Kentfield and to drive down College Avenue; take a long, hard look at the Corte Madera Flood Project. Make up your own minds whether this is an example of how you want your county to look at the cost of your tax money. Then earth-lovers, take a hard look at your world now. If you see a small area that thrills your soul, some grassy spot or rounded contour of California gold, work to preserve it. Prevention is the only answer, and no one who sees the problem can afford to wait for someone else to do it for you. What we don't preserve today, we won't have tomorrow.

Beware of whom you put in office and whom they hire to do the jobs. Be clever, be wary, be alert. Work for something we can point to and say proudly, "There is evidence of good planning for the benefit of all people." I've never heard anyone proud of Corte Madera Creek Project, except the Corps of Army Engineers and the cement manufacturers. Marin County residents will be excusing this error for years. It is now ready to be used as an example. Let Tamalpais Creek not have died in vain. Don't waste time shaking your finger in disapproval of past action; look at the rape of Tam Creek; come see the bigger concreek; act now!

'Ship Jumper' Bills Hint At Big Payoffs

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, — Since Congress convened early last January, a flood of 965 "ship jumper" bills have deluged the Senate Immigration Subcommittee.

It is estimated that Asiatics and other foreigners who entered the country illegally paid some $2 Million to lobbyists, lawyers, senatorial assistants and possibly even senators themselves to get these measures introduced.

Of the 100 senators, 84 sponsored such "private" bills, as they are officially known.

These are among the highlights so far uncovered by the staff of the Senate Ethics Committee, which is investigating what is behind the curious tidal wave of such legislation.

BILLS OF THIS kind are an old story in Congress. But they have been so numerous this session that on the demand of Sen. John Williams, R-Del., the ethics committee launched a probe. Williams cited reports that some senators claimed they knew nothing about bills that bore their names, also that sizable sums were paid to have the measures introduced.

According to some accounts, as much as $2,000 was paid for a bill.

For an alien facing deportation, that might not appear excessive. The mere introduction of such a measure automatically causes the Immigration Bureau to defer deportation proceedings for a year. In many cases, the individuals involved are "ship jumpers" — hence the designation "ship jumper" bills.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ethics committee chairman stressed that intent of the investigation is to get at the bottom of charges that such measures have been introduced "without the full knowledge of sponsoring senators," and that "payments were made to senators."

THE SENATE Immigration Subcommittee, shich has jurisdiction over "ship jumper" bills, is headed by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., who is also chairman of the judiciary committee, of which the subcommittee is a part.

With two exceptions, every one of the eight member subcommittee is listed as sponsoring several or more of these measures. The exceptions are Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and John McClellan, D-Ark.

One subcommitteeman, Philip Hart, D-Mich., is one of the biggest sponsors of this type of legislation. Thirty-three of these bills were introduced in his name.

Other significant facts brought to light by ethics committee staff probers:

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., tips the list with 71 "ship jumper" measures. Next highest are Senators Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., with 57; Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, with 52; Walter Mondale, D-Minn., with 43; Hugh Scott, Pa., Republican floor leader, with 42; Joseph Tydings, D-Md., with 41; Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., with 31; Spessard Holland, D-Fla., with 30.

SEN. JOHN Sherman Cooper, Ky., ranking Republican member of the ethics committee, holds that the solution to this problem is relatively simple. He contends it is to be found in two corrective measures:

Prohibit the immigration subcommittee from accepting such "private" bills. Cooper points out that the House Judiciary Committee took such action several years ago, with the result that "ship jumper" measures no longer appear in the House.

Require all bills to be offered from the floor of the Senate chamber and solely by the members sponsoring them. This would put an end to bills being given committees by members of senators" staffs with the legislator's name typed in — as is the case with virtually all the "ship jumper" measures.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

'Understanding Gap' Endangers Education, Controller Says

By JAMES K. WOODWORTH

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — "Higher education is threatened by an 'understanding gap' between the campus and the general public."

That statement, made recently by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, could be the understatement of the year.

Flournoy was referring to the Angela Davis case at the University of California at Los Angeles, where Miss Davis has been fired by the board of regents because she is an admitted Communist. She, in turn, has claimed the firing resulted, not becuase she is a Communist, but because she is a Negro.

THE CONTROLLER said he was appalled at the gap reflected in faculty members' lack of understanding of the public's current attitudes toward the campuses and the public's lack of understanding of the attitudes of faculties and students.

Flournoy cited the need to restore in faculties and administrators the belief that "the people of California are, in fact, committed to quality public education and the academic freedom it requires." But he warned that it is also necessary to restore in the public the belief "that the role of quality education requires the interchange and examination of widely divergent views, the academic freedom necessary for any effective exchange or exposure."

THE STATE CONTROLLER said the principle of academic freedom was "unnecessarily jeopardized" by the action of a faculty member in assigning Miss Davis to teach a course at UCLA after the board of regents had initiated proceedings to dismiss her for her Communist membership.

This, he said, was "unbelievable" and "unnecessarily provocative and inflaming."

Flournoy said, "On the other hand, I'm equally concerned by the frequently manifested public attitude that attacks individual faculty appointments or guest appearances. This is an attack on academic freedom which is so vital to quality in public institutions and higher education."

AS POINTED OUT by the state controller, there is a common notion among faculty members and students that "the public should keep its nose out of their business."

"So long as we are trying to preserve and expand a system of public higher education, the public will have the ultimate power to effectuate its reaction to campus doings through the power of the purse, or through pressure upon the citizen governing boards," he pointed out.

"The furor or threat of retribution over a single appointment can do extensive damage to academic freedom and quality public higher education."

The policy of the board of regents, that no Communist will be employed in higher education, is a logical position for that board to take.

Just One More Chance To See Marin Art And Garden Fair

The Marin Art and Garden Fair, taken for granted as a traditional Marin event for 24 years, will become a thing of the past after next year's performance in Ross.

There will be one more showing in Ross next July. After that, it will move to the Civic Center. Even the name will be changed because Fair-Marin Inc. will run it from 1971. The Ross property is owned by a non-profit corporation known as the Marin Art and Garden Center, and that name won't move to the Civic Center.

THE ART AND GARDEN Center is proud of its accomplishments during the quarter century existence of the fair. No funds from the county treasury have been spent on the fair. The center has put on the show with the help of annual appropriations from the State Division of Fairs.

Because of its success, the state has appropriated capital allocations over the years totalling $1,985,000, of which $1,176,000 was used for site development and construction of the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

For probably the last time, manager Marcelle McCoy presented her annual fair budget to the county supervisors a couple weeks ago. It was a routine item that was sent on to the state for approval and an annual appropriation of $57,797.

But for the fair, the 1970 budget represents the end of an era. From the woodsy setting in Ross, the 1971 fair will move into the spanking new auditorium, and the whole atmosphere will necessarily change.

IN THE VAST open area around the auditorium, you just can't create overnight the atmosphere in Ross, where age-old trees interlock overhead to create a natural canopy.

The auditorium building will have to be the focal point, and the fair designed for interior showing rather than in a sprawling garden atmosphere. Trees such as those in Ross just can't be grown in a year or two.

If you want to see the Marin Art and Garden Fair, your last chance is next July. Thereafter, there will be a totally different show.

DESPITE ALL the careful attention paid to the skylight in the new Hall of Justice, it still leaks. But not nearly as badly as the older administration building.

Apparently it just isn't possible to make the plastic-type canopy water tight. After a long dry summer, openings seem to develop at the seams, and it takes the first good drenching to seal them together. Even then, a few drops keep drizzling down onto the floors below.

FLOYD HOVLAND, who's in charge of shrubbery and landscaping at the Civic Center, is right proud of his famed Clivia (Kaffir lily) which comes out with gorgeous orange blooms each year around February and March in the central planting area of the Civic Center's basement floor.

But he wishes they wouldn't get so uppity and start blooming in October. One clivia blossomed out the other day, which was fine. Except that everybody kept stopping Hovland to ask him how come this time of year.

To save time and the embarrassment of trying to explain the freak display. Hovland quietly snipped off the bloom and warned the rest of the clivia to wait until next spring.

DID YOU KNOW that W.P. Duhamel, former veterans service officer, used to be an optometrist in San Francisco until the 1930's? That's where he got the name Doc. Next to his optometrist's office, he used to have a veterans' employment office. This got him interested in veterans' affairs.

T. N. ALEXAKOS

Cold Bay Is A Nothing Place —But Oh! To Be There Now!

Cold Bay, Alaska, is a nothing place — nothing at all — nothing.

It is barren, bleak, windswept, desolate. As a nothing place it has few peers, except perhaps Kiska, Iwo Jima, Parece Vela, or Gallup, New Mexico.

The mountains jab at the gray sullen skies and the peaks are lost in clouds. You don't know whether they're real mountains or just monstrous piles of snow and ice which never melt and are most of the time gray and only some of the time white and glistening in the seldom sun.

The waters of the bays and inlets are gray, lead-gray, heavy-gray and ominous. And there's a coldness to the waters, a coldness so cold, a coldness so cutting it's difficult to believe it sustains life. Yet the streams pulse with fish and the bay bulges with Alaskan king crab, so dedicious with sour bread and a chilled good bottle of Chablis or Riesling.

THE MAN in the quonset hut on the north side of the long air strip — the airlines sometimes use Cold Bay, Alaska, as a refueling stop when the winds are bad and against them on the great circle route to Tokyo — the man in the shack, Moresby by name, is always and understandably glad to see us. He never fails to ask if I brought my rifle along, for he knows how much I enjoy hunting and how much I'd like to get in the way of one of those big bears that live there. He knows this and his eyes shine as he pours coffee for us. The coffee smell fills the air and the warmth of the cup feels good to your hands and good to your face as you bring the cup up. He laughs and tells of — you know the story. You've heard it before. You know it but you listen and you laugh at the excitement that comes each time he gets to the part where he says: " . . . and there he was — big as a barn, I tell you, and he came at me cracking across the muskeg. It was raining a fine rain, a drizzle. I snapped my rifle up. My foot slipped in the mud and I fell. I scrambled up and tried to get my feet on something solid. That big bruiser was coming down on me like a freight train. Man! He was all mouth and teeth and mad! I looked through the scope and he was close, so close all I could see through the glass was hair . . . !"

THEY TELL some great stories up there in Cold Bay, Alaska and some not so great. And you listen to their great and their not so great stories and all the while your mind is clicking off how you're going to make it back there, back with your rifle, that is, and your heavy down jacket and your sleeping roll.

You ask him: "Where do you go to get the big ones?"

Casually he waves out there. "Just across the runway," he says and you blink, thinking, "I'm getting the business," and you're thinking, "but that's all right. It's part of the business. You've got to know what's true and what's the ol' business. It's all right for thats part of the business, getting the business."

It's a Robert Service land it is and his lines come to you out of the night:

"Were you ever out in the Great Alone,
When the moon was awful clear,
And the icy mountains hemmed you in
With a silence you most could hear . . . ."

Yes, Cold Bay, Alaska, is a nothing place —nothing at all — nothing! But I'd give a full month's pay to be there, me and my rifle, for a couple weeks this fall. Me and my rifle and that great big brownie, a the great Alaskan bear.

Men reject their prophets and slay them, but they love their martyrs and honor those whom they have slain. — Fyodor Dostoievsky.

Improve Gnoss Field, Novato Chamber Urges

Funds spent on airport improvement by the County of Marin should be spent at Gnoss Field, the county airport in Novato, not at Smith Ranch Airport in Santa Venetia, the Novato Chamber of Commerce board has voted, according to secretary Billie Garl.

The board, meeting Thursday, said it considered Smith Ranch Airport a private enterprise, Mrs. Garl reported.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board also:

MEMBERSHIP — Made final plans for a one-day intensive membership drive for Thursday.

BUSES — Backed the use of buses for rapid transit over other types of transportation.

BROCHURE — Named Windsor Publications of Los Angeles to produce a brochure on Novato, with expenses to be paid by advertising.

BIRTHDAY — Named Robert Dorian Chairman of a committee to make plans for observance of the city's 10th birthday.

DIRECTOR — Named Le Roy Winters to replace William Siler on the board of directors.

Senator Brooke's Wife 'Very Ill'

BOSTON (AP) — The wife of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R—Mass., who underwent surgery last Monday, had a bladder tumor, according to the senator.

"Her condition is much more serious than earlier thought," Brooke said Saturday of his wife, Remigia. "She is very ill."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hysterectomy Patients May, Rarely Go Through Pregnancy

VAN DELLEN

A 39-year-old woman with large fibroids moved along with the right tube and ovary. had her entire uterus (hysterectomy) re-

Two months later, tests revealed that she was pregnant. Shortly thereafter pain developed in the lower abdomen and emergency surgery was performed.

The woman was pregnant in the left tube. An ovum fertilized prior to surgery was trapped in the tube where it settled and began to enlarge.

THIS IS A RARE occurrence but it demonstrates the astonishing ability of some women to conceive despite seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

A group of physicians from Meadville, Pa., reviewed the medical literature relative to pregnancy following hysterectomy and found only 29 reported instances during the last 100 years. In 10 of these, conception took place before the operation.

In the remainder, the beginning of a subsequent pregnancy varied from four months to 11 years after surgery. Why?

MANY HYSTERECTOMIES are partial. The part of the uterus that protrudes into the vagina (cervix) is left in place to lend support to the pelvic organs. In many instances, the severed ends of the tubes are implanted into the cervical wall. Now and then the cervix and a part of the uterus remains.

We must assume that the open end of the tube connecting with the cervical passageway allows sperm to meet an ovum. This explains why 50 per cent of the subsequent pregnancies in this group were in the tube and 26 per cent were in the ovary or abdominal cavity.

BUT IN A SMALL percentage, the fertilized ovum became implanted in the remaining uterine tissue. None of the women delivered full-term babies. Three were premature, and of these, only one infant lived.

These investigators added one patient to the 100-year list, Following a partial hysterectomy she conceived and had two babies via caesarean section.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

BEER STINGS

S.K. writes: Whenever I drink beer I develop a stinging, prickly feeling after retiring for the evening. If I have mixed alcoholic beverages, sores show up. Does this sound like an allergy or a disease?

REPLY

This sounds like an allergic reaction although the development of sores after having a mixed drink is most unusual. I assume that your "sores" are not hives.

CONTACTS AND CATARACTS

Mr. S. C. writes: How much time must elapse before a person who has had cataract surgery can be fitted with contact lenses?

REPLY

The person can usually obtain the lenses six weeks after surgery. Some eye specialists do the fitting three to four weeks after the operation.

ENLARGED UTERUS

Mrs. B. writes: What could cause an enlargement of the uterus, other than pregnancy?

REPLY

Fibroids and cancer are common causes. Now and then, enlargement of

Safety Plan For Railroads Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by the "new and catastrophic potential for death and destruction" in train wrecks, the Nixon administration has proposed the first comprehensive federal railroad safety legislation.

Sending the recommendations to Congress, Transportation Secretary John Volpe last week cited "a steadily rising trend" in rail accidents, many involving shipments of hazardous poisons and explosives.

"Existing rail safety statutes are inadequate to enable the government to respond to the problem," Volpe said, noting that—in an abrupt about-face since last spring—the railroads themselves now seem to agree.

Unlike airlines and trucks, railroads thus far have escaped any sort of comprehensive minimum safety standards set by the government, despite attempts in the past to pass such legislation.

The proposal itself does not outline specific safety measures, rather it would permit the secretary of transportation to draw up regulations setting minimum standards for, among other items, tracks, rolling stock and loading procedures.

The administration bill, written from the report of a task force composed of railroad management, labor and government representatives, is the third such safety measures to be introduced this year.

Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., have introduced their own bills—both of which remain in committee.

All three measures are prompted, in part, by these statistics:

Since 1964, derailments of trains carrying hazardous materials have forced the warlike evacuation of more than 40 American communities.

Train accidents have increased from 4,149 in 1961 to 7,294 in 1967, up 75.8 per cent. Train accidents exceeded 8,000 in 1968.

Volpe estimates that three-fourths of all accidents are caused by factors—such as improperly maintained track and defective rolling stock—not covered by existing rail safety laws. Labor proponents of safety legislation estimate the percentage is closer to 95.

In 1968, there were 812 persons killed and 20,801 injured in train accidents, excluding grade crossing collisions between trains and motor vehicles. Some 3,816 persons died in grade crossing accidents last year.

Loss of life in accidents involving hazardous materials has been relatively light so far. But John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, points out "it is now obvious that railroad derailment accidents, dangerous enough in themselves, have acquired a new and catastrophic potential for death and destruction previously unknown."

Groppi Denied First Jail Mass

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Rev. James E. Groppi was not permitted to attend mass yesterday, but will be allowed in the future.

The militant Roman Catholic priest began a six-month jail term over the weekend, and captain of the guard Michael Colloton said his only orders were "to make sure you don't treat him (Groppi) any different than the others."

Groppi will be assigned to the medium security block and given a job in the laundry or tailor shop, a spokesman said. As a medium security prisoner he will be allowed to attend Sunday mass at the jail, but prison rules prohibit his offering mass because wine is used in the service.

Combined cash sales for E and H Savings bonds and freedom shares for September were $154,977 in Marin County, according to county savings bonds chairman William P. Murray Jr.

Remote Beach Rescue Is Made

Marin County firemen combined with Point Reyes National Seashore rangers and sheriff's deputies Saturday to rescue a Kentfield woman with a fractured leg from a remote beach near Tomales Bluff.

Caroline Spiller, of 9 North Ridgewood Road, was struck by a log in the surf while she walked with friends on a beach about 4:30 p.m. on the McClure Ranch. She sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

The firemen, rangers and deputies were summoned to the area and the firemen used cables and a basket to pull the injured 50-year-old woman up a steep 200 foot cliff.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

TV REVIEW

Frank Jr. Seems Lost In Big Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra Jr. opened his CBS special last night singing from inside a giant slipper that swings high over a Las Vegas entertainment palace. He closed it singing from the turret roof of another.

In between, the young man led the viewers on an impressive tour of the Nevada city and its environs. It was a crowded hour.

The Doodletown Pipers sang a number crawling on the desert and splashing in a fountain pool. Sammy Davis Jr. and a chorus danced around the Hoover Dam—perhaps the world's largest backdrop. Nancy Sinatra sang while wandering amid flashing neon signs. Young Sinatra rode a dune buggy while singing and poised dangerously at the top of some desert rocks. Frank Sinatra Sr. joined his son in a number.

The show used all sorts of camera tricks, from wild optical effects to slow motion. There was even an aerial ballet—to music—by the precision flying team of the U.S. Air Force.

In all this, the star of the show, a quiet-mannered fellow with a pleasant but hardly electrifying voice and presence, seemed lost.

The show made some stabs at comedy, with bits by Arte Johnson of "Laugh-In," Jack Leonard, and Jack Benny. None of it worked well and was the weak spot in the hour.

"The Advocates," a new, live series Sunday nights on a national hookup of educational stations, this week debated whether Congress should pass the Goodell bill to require withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam in 14 months.

No one-hour program could handle the enormously complex question in much depth or with great effect. This program's format works against satisfactory exploration of pros and cons. It is a strange combination of debate, interview and cross-examination, all broken into short segments.

Both sides had film clips showing the atrocities of war. There were interviews with Sen. Charles Goodell stating his case. Sen. Barry Goldwater was interviewed on his position.

Harold Robbins'
The Survivors
George Hamilton, Lana Turner, Kevin McCarthy and Ralph Bellamy star in television's first novel, created by the best-selling novelist of our time.

Nolan Says Some Changes Due For Hapless 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If man can go to the moon and the New York Mets can win the World Series, the San Francisco 49ers can win a football game.

But when?

"We're apt to make some changes," 49er Coach Dick Nolan declared yesterday after the Atlanta Falcons, without linebacker Tommy Nobis and quarterback Bob Berry, beat the 49ers 21-7 in a ragged National Football League game.

The loss, in which the 49ers gave up four fumbles and had three passes intercepted, left them 0-4-1 in NFL play. They were 0-6 in the exhibition season.

BIG DAY

Rookie safety Jim Weatherford sparked the Falcons with an interception and two fumble recoveries, one of which he returned 74 yards to give the Falcons a 14-0 first-quarter lead following Jim Butler's four-yard scoring plunge.

Weatherford wrestled the ball from the 49ers' Clifton McNeil following a pass completion and scampered down the sideline while most of the 49ers thought the play was over.

"I was already down," said McNeil. "The whistle didn't blow and Weatherford grabbed the ball away from me."

After the 49ers' Gene Washington made a leaping catch at the Atlanta one, Falcon corner back John Mallory apparently prevented a 49er score by recovering Ken Willard's fumble.

LAKES SCORES

But three plays later, Falcon quarterback Randy Johnson, hit by linebacker Dave Wilcox, fumbled and 49er tackle Roland Lakes carried the ball into the end zone from the two for San Francisco's only touchdown.

Atlanta's Bob Etter missed field goal tries of 30, 46 and 45 yards and the 49ers had a chance to tie in the last quarter when Wilcox's second interception gave them the ball on the Falcons' 13.

But after replacing 49er quarterback John Brodie, Steve Spurrier and Doug Cunningham botched the handoff. Atlanta's Ron Acks recovered.

Six minutes later, rookie Bruce Lemmerman, activated only last week, threw a 20-yard scoring pass to Gail Cogdill to clinch Atlanta's victory.

LOUD BOOS

Brodie was roundly booed by the 26,684 fans-smallest crowd of the year at Kezar-despite his 159 yards on 19 of 31 passes. But two of his passes were intercepted and a half dozen others were almost picked off.

"My right elbow and shoulder are hurting," Brodie said. "It's been with me all year. I don't seem to have any strength."

Spurrier will step in if Brodie isn't ready for Baltimore, said Nolan, who added he would make some other changes "just to shake them up."

Atlanta center Bruce Bosley, a 14-year veteran playing his first game against the 49ers after they cut him, remarked: "I feel badly about beating my old friends but not about beating the 49er organization."

San Marin Rules In Novato

By GARY TISCHLER

The upstart, the kid brother, the new kid on the block is king of the hill in Novato.

San Marin High School's unbeaten football team, only in existence for less than two seasons, severely thrashed Novato High School's proud but frustrated Hornets, to win the first great Novato rivalry, 9-0, before more than 2,000 screaming fans on a balmy, Saturday afternoon on Novato High's field.

In the end it was the toe of Urbano Bouscieguez, or the fear of what it could do, and an offense that seemed to have missed the game entirely, which betrayed Novato.

And it was Bouscieguez, the running of Steve Lambert, and a tremendous defensive effort which turned the trick for the Mustangs, who now have a string of 14 straight victories, counting an unbeaten 9-0 junior varsity season last year.

Bousciegueg kicked a 19-yard field goal the first time the Mustangs got the ball, after a Novato fumble.

That field goal loomed as big as a house and it was still on the Hornets' mind almost three quarters later when the Mustangs where in scoring position again with a fourth down on the nine. San Marin lined up in field goal position again, but what happened was that holder Pete Sorenson, a tiny, 135-pound back, got up and tossed a wobbly but accurate pass to end Bill Eckoff in the end zone for the touchdown. Ironically, Bousciegueg missed the extra point kick, the ball hitting the right goal post.

That was all the scoring, but in between, the game was everything one could hope for from a heated rivalry. The fellows obviously knew each other.

DEFENSE

After the San Marin field goal, the first half turned into a titanic defensive struggle, with neither team making any offensive headway. Linebackers Dave Perron and Neal Given, end Lynn Marritt and tackle Russ Weklych were the defensive standouts for Novato while linebacker Jack Burnam, tackle Tom Fowler and Kerry Atkinson and end Bob Fowler stopped the Novato offense cold.

The first half was also a red banner day as flags flew all over the place and both teams were faced with such impossible third down plays as third and 34 for a first down.

Nothing, however, could get the Hornets going. Novato, which had lost, 10-0, to San Rafael a week earlier, never even threatened this time, coming up with just 10 yards total offense, and one first down.

JAVEES LOSE

Another Mustang streak did come to an end that afternoon. Novato stopped San Marin's previously unbeaten junior varsity, 7-6.

The amazing Mustangs remain unbeaten In Marin County Athletic League play with a 2-0 record, and are still unbeaten on the season with a 4-0 mark

Lamonica's Passing Game Delights Record Crowd

Bills Use O.J. Simpson As A High Priced Decoy

OAKLAND (AP) — For six weeks, the Oakland Raiders had been waiting for Daryle Lamonica's passing game to get in the groove. Yesterday, it grooved all over the place.

Lamonica threw six touchdown passes — all in the first half — in leading the Raiders to a 50-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills.

It was the first time this season the Raiders have played like the American Football League title contenders they are supposed to be.

Lamonica missed his chance for a record-tying seventh touchdown pass in the second half and the fact that the Raiders led 42-7 at intermission might have had something to do with it.

NOT EASY

"I told the team to play it as though it were 0-0," said Raider Coach John Madden. "But it's not easy to play that way when you have a 35-point lead."

Though the Raiders are 5-0-1 and atop the AFL's Western Division, they have had some close calls to weak teams and Lamonica's passing had been spotty until last week when he did well in the Denver show against the Broncos.

But yesterday's performance put to rest any lingering doubts that the man who had led the Raiders to an AFL title and a Western Division crown in the last two years might have lost something.

Lamonica said he had finally gotten over the wrist injury that had troubled him earlier in the season and added: "I really felt strong today. I had more zong on my ball and I was getting set up better."

Was he upset about not getting the seventh touchdown pass?

OWN WORLD

"I don't think about things like that," he said. "When I'm out there I'm in a world all my own and the only thing I think about is winning. I've got a few more years and I'll have a chance to get seven some other time."

Both AFL and National Football League touchdown pass records are seven, with Lamonica's teammate, George Blanda, setting the AFL mark with the Houston Oilers in 1961. In the NFL, Sid Luckman, Adrian Burk, Y. A. Tittle and Joe Kapp have done it.

Two of the scoring tosses were caught by Pete Banaszak, 10 and 1 yards; two by Fred Biletnikoff, 16 and 23 yards; one by Billy Cannon, 53 yards, and one by Warren Wells, 13 yards. In all, Lamonica completed 21 of 36 passes for 313 yards.

EARLY OUT

Lamonica left the game with more than 10 minutes to go and Madden said he never had a second thought about taking him out.

"I would never chance an injury to my starting quarterback with a 40-point lead just for the sake of a record," said the Raider coach. "That would be the worst thing imaginable."

Totally lost in the glow of Lamonica's performance — which came before an Oakland Coliseum record crowd of 54,-418 — was the return to the Bay Area of O. J. Simpson, who began his football career here.

SIX CARRIES

O. J. only carried the ball six times, though he gained 50 yards, and was hard put to hide his disappointment at not doing

HE WON'T QUIT

Wyoming Coach Expects Ouster

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Coach Lloyd Eaton, who brought the University of Wyoming from a position as a regional football power to one of national prominence, hinted last night he "wouldn't be surprised" if he is released from his contract.

"But," Eaton said, "you know damned well I'm not gonna quit."

Eaton, whose Wyoming record is 55-20-2, and whose lifetime record is 12th best nationally, stirred up a controversy Friday when he dismissed 14 black gridders — six of them starters — from the unbeaten Cowboy club for disciplinary reasons.

Eaton's action sparked an all-night meeting of the universities board of trustees—including Gov. Stan Hathaway. The group eventually upheld the dismissals.

Eaton denied a report he had submitted his resignation at the meeting.

Saturday, Wyoming fielded an all-white team and rolled over Brigham Young University, the center of the controversy, 40-7 for its fifth victory this season and fourth in conference play.

The 14 athletes had worn black armbands Friday in protest of the Mormon Church's doctrine which limits Negroes to positions low in church hierarchy.

Yesterday, the faculty senate at the university voted, 21-17, to oppose the dismissals and asked instead that the athletes be temporarily suspended until a faculty-student investigation be conducted. A number of faculty members threatened to resign if the dismissal weren't rescinded.

Marin Loses Heartbreaker To West Valley Gridders

By DAVID EINSTEIN

SANTA CLARA — With shocking suddeness that turned a storybook comeback for College of Marin into a heartbreaking defeat, safety Steve Malone raced 58 yards with an interception in the final quarter Saturday night to give the state's fourth-ranked West Valley Junior College a 34-27 victory over the Tars.

Marin came right back to score its second touchdown of the quarter, which had it not been for Malone's dash would have tied the score.

The defeat, in the first league game for both teams, was a crushing blow to the Tars' hopes of repeating as cahmpions of the Camino Norte Conference.

West Valley, of Campbell, twice held two touchdown leads in the fourth quarter, after a seesaw first half.

Viking flanker Larry Ray, who tied the score at 13 all in the waning seconds of the first half on a seven yard touchdown pass from Bill Barnes, burst 23 yards midway through the third quarter to give West Valley a lead it never relinquished.

The Vikings made it 27-13 in the opening moments of the final period when Barnes capped a 56-yard drive with a 27-yard scoring toss to Scott Loomis.

It was at that point the Tars stole the momentum. They closed the score to 27-19, marching 64 yards in seven plays. Jim Peters, whose two yard sneak in the second quarter gave the Tars their only lead, dove over, agains from the two.

Following the Marin kickoff, West Valley moved for a first down, but then the Marin defense held. And then it happened.

Peters took a step back on first down, and fired a pass at

Lee Says Too Many Mistakes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There's a long National Basketball League season ahead, but coach George Lee says his San Francisco Warriors "made enough mistakes and missed enough easy shots" in their opener to last the rest of the way.

The San Diego Rockets outscored the Warriors 9-8 in overtime at the Cow Palace Saturday night to win 125-124.

Lee noted that the Warriors had 20 turnovers to 13 for the Rockets and a shooting percentage of 40 to 44 for the winners.

Stu Lantz scored the goal that the regulation time ended, and Lantz also made the jump shot that won in the extra period.

Elvin Hayes led the Rockets with 29 points, and John Block and Don Kojis each had 26 and paced the early scoring. The big guns for the Warriors were Joe Ellis with 29, Jimmy King with 23, and Jeff Mullins with 22.

San Fancisco's next game is in Atlanta Wednesday.

Taft J.C. Romps Past Sonoma St.

Shades of Arizona Western were in the air Saturday night in Sonoma State College's first-ever football game under the lights looked much like its first under the sun.

Taft Junior College romped to a 43-6 win over the Cossacks at Taft, Kern County, in a game coach Lloyd Helgeson said "looked a lot like Arizona Western." The Matadors demolished SSC 65-0 in the first football game in Cossack history a month ago.

QUICK

Taft wasted no time getting on the scoreboard as it rolled up an 18-0 lead at the quarter mark and widened it to 24-0 at the half.

Sonoma State scored its lone touchdown late in the third quarter on what Helgeson termed "our best drive of the season." Quarterback Bill Cox hit ends Jack Trujillo and Dave Dohn on short passes and used halfbacks Herman Manuel and Luther Nelson in key running situations to drive 65 yards in 12 plays. Nelson plunged over from the one for the touchdown. Tom Hickman missed an extra point for the first time this season as his conversion kick was blocked by Taft.

Taft led 30-6 after three quarters, however, and scored twice in the final stanza for the 43-6 win.

WEIRD

The Cossacks lost what should have been a touchdown in the second quarter in the most unusual play in their five-game history. Cox dropped back to pass and, seeing end Dohn all alone at the Taft 10-yard line, lofted the ball towards him. But an official, figuring Cox would throw to the middle of the field, backed into the play and the ball hit him in the head.

"Dohn was exceptional," Helgeson said of the big end. He caught four Cox aerials for long gains on the night. Benny Guerra, a rugged SSC interior lineman whose aggressive play has highlighted the Cossacks' two wins this season, and tackle Jim Baker both earned high praise from Helgeson.

The Cossacks, now 2-2, return home Saturday against the San Francisco State junior varsity in a 1 p.m. contest at Petaluma's Durst Field.

Seals To Open A Home Stand

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Seals, embarrassed at Los Angeles Saturday night, are resting today prior to opening a six-game homestand tomorrow night with the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Appearing at the Oakland Coliseum Arena between now and Nov. 7 will be Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and New York in addition to the Penguins. In the season opener, the Seals and Penguins played to a 2-2 tie at Pittsburgh.

Coach Fred Glover, disappointed with Oakland's 5-0 loss to the Kings at Los Angeles Saturday night, planned to strees fundamentals and forechecking today in a workout.

Jack's Back On Golf Scene

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's bad news for golf's touring pros: Big Jack—the real Jack Nicklaus — is back, once again flashing the awesome form that made him the most feared competitor in the game.

"I guess you'd have to go back to Baltusrol" where he won the U.S. Open in 1967 "to find a tournament where "I've played so well," the Ohio strongman said yesterday after romping in with an easy victory in the $100,000 Sahara Invitational.

Nicklaus, who notched his 30th career victory before his 30th birthday, closed with a brilliant 65, six under par on the 6,751 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, for a 272 total, 12 under par.

He had a four-stroke margin over Frank Beard, the third-round leader, who finished with a 70 for 276. Dave Hill, 69, and Dale Douglass, 66, tied for third at 277 with Grier Jones, 68, and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, 69, next at 278.

But while it was business as usual for Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer had his troubles. The 40-year-old charger, attempting a comeback after a two-month absence forced by a hip ailment, closed with a disappointing 73 for 285, far back in the field.

Nicklaus, who has won this particular tournament four times in the last seven years, quipped: "I only need to win a couple more to get even with the (gambling) tables."

The powerful, golden-haired Nicklaus hadn't won since the San Diego Open early this year and has been on a diet for the last three weeks, dropping 15 pounds from his usual playing weight of 210.

Jack trailed Beard by one stroke going into the final round, but caught him on the first hole, chipping within six feet and canning the putt.

Tomales '11' Crushes Foe By 62-0

Tomales High School's football team may just be a little too good for the North Central II conference.

Tomales tore apart what was supposed to be an outstanding Middletown team, 62-0, at Durst Field in Pataluma Saturday night, going wild against a team that had allowed only six points in four games, all victories, while scoring 86 points.

Ron Petroni, the big halfback who rushed for more than 1,000 yards last season, had a tremendous day, scoring four touchdowns and 26 points while rushing for 144 yards in 11 carries.

Quarterback Dennis Rodoni completed 12 of 17 passes for two touchdowns and scored twice himself as Tomales rolled up 577 yards in total offense while holding Middletown to just 37 yards total offense and three first downs.

The game was the NCL-II league opener for Tomales, which has won the crown for the past two years.

PACIFIC-8 ROUNDUP

Stanford Vs. UCLA Top Game On Slate

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stanford and UCLA, who rate 1-2 in offensive power in the Pacific 8 Conference at the football season's halfway mark, clash at Stanford Saturday in the league's weekend headliner.

The unbeaten Bruins, 5-0, won their third Pac-8 contest by humbling the California Bears 32-0 Saturday. Stanford 3-2, brought its league record to 2-1 by outclassing the Washington State Cougars 49-0.

Jim Plunkett, the Pac-8's leading passer, has quarterbacked a Stanford offense that has compiled just over 2,500 yards in five games.

DUMMIT

Against the Indians, who are in a must-win situation, will be the league's second-ranked passer, Dennis Dummit. His Uclans have averaged nearly 300 yards against six opponents.

Plunkett threw two touchdown passes against Washington State and his third-quarter relief, Don Bunce, threw one and ran 43 yards for another.

Dummit passed for the Bruins' first two touchdowns and in the closing minutes, reserve tailback Bill Bolden scored two more on runs of 65 and 41 yards.

California and Washington State, meet in Spokane Saturday and a third conference game has Washington at Oregon. Nonconference action has Southern Cal entertaining Georgia Tech and Oregon State meeting Utah at Portland in a night gaem.

Like Washington State, Washington will be trying for its first Pac-8 victory. The Huskies lost 10-6 in the last second to Oregon State at Seattle Saturday.

Steve Endicott, who had five throws intercepted, connected on the big one, a 49-yarder to end Jim Scheele to win for the Breavers.

0-5 MARK

Washington is 0-5, with three conference losses, and Oregon is 1-1 in the Pac-8 and 3-2 overall. Oregon took a 60-13 pasting from the Air Force Academy in Colorado Saturday.

Southern Cal's home game with Georgia Tech is its last this year outside the conference. The Trojans were held to a 14-14 tie by Notre Dame in South Bend Saturday and have a 4-0-1 record with two conference victories.

Southern Cal had a slight edge in offensive statistics, but the Irish improved in the second half, got a break on a blocked kick and scored the tying touchdown. In the final minutes Notre Dame missed victory when a 48-yard field goal attempt bounced back off the crossbar.

Mill Valley Golf

Cliff Snow netted 62 yesterday to score a one stroke victory in the Mill Valley Golf Club's medal handicap tournament at the Mill Valley municipal course.

Leading scores:

Snow, 74-12—62; Syl Auteri, 73-10—63; Frank Lyman, 77-14—63 Bill Hogan, 71-6—65; Lou Long, 80-15—65.

Asked if he objected to being used as a decoy for other runners, Simpson said: "I wouldn't mind if we were winning, but we weren't and I don't like it."

The Bills record is now 2-4, the losses representing as many defeats as Simpson's teams suffered in four years at college — two at the City College of San Francisco and two at Southern California.

AFL ROUNDUP

No Conflict With Heidi And Raiders

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Daryle Lamonica didn't wait for "Heidi' this year.

A year ago, NBC-TV, which televises the American Football League "Game of the Week," pulled a classic boner by cutting into the end of the New York Jets-Oakland Raiders game to show a two-hour special of the famed children's book, "Heidi."

The Raiders and "Heidi" were both scheduled for NBC yesterday. Rallying behind the six touchdown passes of Lamonica, the Raiders took command early and soundly thrashed the Buffalo Bills, 50-21. The Raiders even got the job done before the scheduled air time of the children's classis, 7 p.m., PDT.

In other AFL action, Kansas City defeated Miami, 17-10; San Diego beat Boston, 13-10; and Denver topped Cincinnati, 30-23. The Jets entertain the Houston Oilers at Shea Stadium tonight.

The Kansas City Chiefs held on to second place in the West by riding the passing of Mike Livingston to a 17-0 halftime advantage, then staving off a late Miami rally.

The Chargers, two-touchdown favorites, fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter and didn't get the lead from Boston until the fourth quarter when quarterback John Hadl ran six yards for a touchdown.

Steve Tensi, playing in his hometown of Cincinnati, fired two touchdown passes and Floyd Little gained a team record 166 yards rushing to pace the Broncos' victory.

Lions' Mel Farr Out For Season

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions halfback Mel Farr, the National Football League's fourth leading rusher going into yesterday's play, will be lost for the season after suffering a knee injury in Detroit's 13-7 win over the Chicago Bears.

Farr was injured early in the first quarter and a Lions spokesman said he apparently tore ligaments in his right knee. He was scheduled to have surgery today.

He was replaced by rookie Larry Watkins, who gained 51 yards in 14 carries.

NFL HIGHLIGHTS

Early Look At Champs?

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The National Football League championship game is scheduled for Jan. 4, 1970, but a sneak preview may be forthcoming Nov. 23 when the Dallas Cowboys play the Los Angeles Rams in a regular season contest.

The two clubs were treated to record performances by their respective quarterbacks yesterday as both ran their records to 5-0 with convincing victories.

The quarterbacks in question are Craig Morton of the Cowboys and Roman Gabriel of the Rams, physically two of the bigger signal callers in the game with both standing 6-foot-4 and each weighing 215 pounds.

Despite a sore shoulder, Morton tied a Dallas club record by throwing five touchdown passes in the Cowboys' 49-14 victory over the hapless Philadelphia Eagles. All five scoring tosses came in the first half, three to Lance Rentzel and the others to Bob Hayes and Pettis Norman.

Gabriel, who passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more in Los Angeles' 34-21 victory over the Green Bay Packers, etched his name into the Rams' record book when he became the club's all-time leading passer with a career total of 1,019 completions. The former mark of 1,011 was held by Norm Van Brocklin.

In other NFL games, Minnesota beat St. Louis, 27-10; Washington tripped New York, 2014; Baltimore clubbed New Orleans, 30-10; Atlanta upset San Francisco, 21-7; Detroit held off Chicago, 13-7; and in a contest played Saturday night, Cleveland outlasted Pittsburgh, 42-31.

Rickie Harris scooted 86-yards with a punt return for a touchdown that capped a 20-point second half rally and powered Washington past New York.

Johnny Unitas looked like the "Johnny U." of old as he completed 20 to 28 passes for 309-yards and three touchdowns in the Colts' triumph over the Saints.

WIN OVER DRAKE

Redwood Stays In First Place

Redwood High School's football team still leads the Marin County Athletic League and the Giants will rule the roost for at least another two weeks since they have a non-league foe coming up this weekend.

The Giants made it three in a row over MCAL foes, topping Drake, 6-0, to inaugurate Giantsville Stadium in Larkspur Saturday and make a Homecoming Crowd, of 2,200 fans happy.

Quarterback Pete Cooney did all the scoring in the game when he climaxed a 70-yard scoring drive with a one-yard run to give the Giants the game.

The running of Mike Farley, Jay Lehman and Bob Piper, plus a 15-yard penalty, kept the drive going. The big play was a 12-yard bootleg run by Cooney, setting Redwood up with a first down on the two-yard line. Three plays later, Cooney burrowed into the end zone.

The lead looked mighty wobbly in the fourth quarter, when the Giants fumbled away a punt on their own 12-yard line. But Drake, which failed to get a first down in the second half, managed only six yards and couldn't score.

Tackles Tom Wickert and Ross Gondak, and linebackers Rick Puccinelli and Andy Annixter sparked a tremendous Redwood defensive effort which held the luckless Pirates to 77 yards total offense.

Redwood in now 3-0 in league play, a step ahead of Terra Linda and San Marin, at 2-0. The Giants are 4-1 on the season while Drake dropped to 1-2 in league play and 1-4 on the season.

Marin Footballers Lose To West Valley

split end Don James. But Malone, coming fast from his safety spot, gathered it in on the dead run and just kept going.

Again down by a pair of touchdowns, with about half the period gone, the Tars once more came back.

This time it was Kevin Wilson, replacing a stunned and dismayed Peters, who engineered the drive. He took the team 66 yards in 12 plays.

Three times along the way Wilson completer passes in crucial situations. On third down and nine from his own 45, he hit Mike Biber for 12 yards. On the following sequence, with third and five, he hit Keith Stirling, who scored the Tars first touchdown on a 14 yard run, with a 30 yard shot to the Viking six.

2,000 FANS

Then on fourth down, still on the six, Stirling slanted out of the backfield again, and Wilson found him for the touchdown, with 3:30 left in the game.

West Valley, before 2,000 fans, half visibly relieved, half bitterly disappointed, ran out the clock.

Sharon Walsh Bows In Finals

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, after pulling off a semifinal upset, lost in the finals of the State Center Tennis Tournament at Fresno yesterday.

Sharon, the national girls 18 champion, whipped Denise Carter of Los Altos, 6-4, 6-4 in Saturday's semifinals but lost to second-seeded Esme Emannual of South Africa, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5, in yesterday's finals.

Sharon then teamed up with Esme in doubles play, losing to Denise Carter and Katie Latham, 6-4, 6-3, in the finals.

Placaks Score In Swim Meet

The Placaks of San Rafael, representing the San Rafael Swim Club, did quite well at the Pleasant Hill "A" age group swim meet in Pleasant Hill Saturday and Sunday.

Bobby Placak picked up a second, two thirds, a fifth and a sixth in the boys 10-under group while Linda Placak got a third and a sixth and Nancy Placak got a fifth and a sixth in the girls 8-under group. Linda and Nancy are twins.

San Rafael Blanks Marin Catholic '11'

Scott Duncan scored on runs of 18 and 89 yards to give San Rafael High School a 14-0 non league victory over Marin Catholic High Saturday on San Rafael's field.

The Bulldog defense, which grabbed off five Marin Catholic Wildcat passes, set up the winning score, midway through the second quarter. Bob Peterson intercepted a Mat Hamilton pass on the San Rafael 32 and ran it back 23 yards.

From there, under the direction of quarterback Dirk Gansloser, the Bulldogs took five plays to score. Duncan, who led all rushers with 146 yards in 13 carries, took a pitchout on the 18 and rambled in for the touchdown.

An identical pitchout resulted in the final touchdown. In the last minute of the third period, following a Wildcat punt that put the ball on the San Rafael nine-yard line, Duncan took a lateral, this time from Lowell Widmer, and raced 89 yards untouched.

Every man in the San Rafael secondary got an interception, with Bruce Nave picking off a pair. The Marin Catholic offense, however, moved well on the ground, picking up all first downs that way. Mark Lewis was the workhorse, with 94 yards on 22 carries.

The field, which almost qualified as a marsh Friday night during the Tamalpais-Terra Linda game, was much improved and presented no real problems. Unexpected sunny skies brought out a crowd of nearly 600.

Sonoma Dragons Upset El Molino

By STEVE WYNNE

FORESTVILLE — Sonoma High School quarterback Dan Briggs ran, passed and kicked the Dragons to an upset 14-12 win over defending champion El Molino in a North Bay League Section II football contest here Saturday night.

Briggs ran for one touchdown, passed to tight end Glen Moll for another and booted a pair of extra points to figure in all the Sonoma scoring.

HEROICS

The Dragon effort barely overcame the heroics of brilliant Lion quarterback Perry Kozlowski, who scored every one of El Molino's points.

El Molino struck early in the game when it took the opening kickoff and marched 64 yards in nine plays to take a 6-0 lead. Kozlowski scampered the final two yards to paydirt. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

After halting the Sonoma offense, the Lions returned a punt to their own 46 and moved to their second and final touchdown. Kozlowski once again ran it in from the two for a 12-0 El Molino advantage. Again, the conversion attempt failed.

Sonoma dented the scoreboard in the waning minutes of the first half when Briggs capped an 30-yard drive by flipping a 24-yard scoring pass to Moll. Briggs kicked the extra point to cut the Lion lead to 12-7 at the half.

WINNER

Briggs scored the winning touchdown midway through the third quarter on a two-yard run. He again booted the extra point for the final 14-12 Dragon advantage.

The win was Sonoma's first in NBL-II play this season against one loss and a tie. El Molino is in the cellar with an 0-2 mark.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't Let A Singleton Cause You To Panic During Action

Millions of otherwise rational bridge players go through life in fear of small animals: They're in a hurry to take their aces before the mice get at them. I have made a patient study of both the European and the American mouse, and can assure my readers that the normal mouse has only a mild interest in aces. And after all, what bridge player wants to admit that he's worried about abnormal mice.

IN THE DUMMY

Declarer took the first trick with dummy's ten of hearts in order to lead the singleton spade. The average mouse-fearing bridge player would play the ace of spades at once from the East hand, and that would end the defense. East returns a trump, but South wins and ruffs a low spade in dummy.

South returns to his hand with the ace of diamonds to draw the last trump, and then he leads the king of spades. The queen of spades drops, and South is home. South needs luck, and helpful defense, to make the contract, largely because the opening trump lead got the defenders off on the right foot.

BETTER DEFENSE

East does better if he is not worried that the mice will get at his ace of spades. When declarer leads dummy's eight of spades at the second trick, East must casually play low.

East cannot lose his ace. South can ruff only two spades in the dummy, and East will eventually get his ace even if South guesses the winning play.

FINESSE TRY

In this position, however, South is almost sure to try a finesse with the jack of spades on the theory that East doesn't have the ace if he doesn't play it. South's natural bad guess allows West to take the queen of spades and return a second trump. Then South will go down two instead of making his contract.

An expert defender should make up his mind in advance that he will almost never play his ace when dummy's singleton is led through him. This bold decision will seldom cost a trick; and it will often pay big dividends.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠— Q 7 2
♥— 8 7 6
♦— K 9 2
♣— K 7 5 4
What do you say?

ANSWE: Bid two spades.

Your flat distribution tempts you to bid 1-NT, but then you won't know what to do if partner bids two spades. You can't afford to bid twice with this hand, but you also cannot afford to withhold the spade support. Show the support at your first opportunity and you can safely leave the rest to your partner.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1969 with 72 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1918, the Germans accepted President Woodrow Wilson's terms to end World War I.

In 1944, American troops landed on the eastern coast of Leyte Gulf in the Philippines. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who had been forced to leave the island two and one-half years earlier, said "I have returned."

In 1964 former President Herbert Hoover died at the age of 90.

In 1968, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy married Aristotle Onassis.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain said, "Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of joy you must have somebody to divide it with."

Corte Madera Police Shift Eyed

A proposal that a now-vacant police lieutenant slot be changed to a sergeant's position will be discussed when the Corte Madera Town Council meets at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The lieutenant post fell vacant when David L. McIntosh moved up to police chief. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher is recommending the spot be filled by a sergeant, which would give the force three sergeants and three-shift supervision.

The council also will discuss bicycle paths in the Marin County parks and recreation plan.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Nest Egg Should Stay In Bank

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband plans to retire next year as his health is poor. We will have interest from savings of $15,000 and pensions of $250 a month. My husband would like to invest our savings in utility stocks for more interest than we get from the bank. I am not in favor; I think all stocks are a risk. What would you advise? — G. M.

A. Since part of your savings is in the form of E bonds your nest egg probably yields no more than an average of 4.6 per cent which works out to $690 a year. Even if you invested half your capital in high yield 8 6.5 per cent utility issues — the increment in annual income would be less than $150. The additional income is not sufficient to justify the worry that stock ownership would involve. I agree, all stocks entail risk. With many years of retirement and possible medical expenses you should not take that risk.

Q. I bought Aileen Inc. in 1961 at 25⅜. It went downhill and apparently skidded off the Board completely as I can't find it listed in the paper. What is a poor dumb investor like me to do now? — L. S.

A. Aileen is listed in the American Stock Exchange, but not all papers carry complete listings. Since 1961, Aileen has paid three 2 per cent stock dividends and in June, shares split two-for-one. Adjusted for these distributions your cost per share would be $11.96, for a gain if 256 per cent.

Aileen, a leading maker of knit dresses and sportswear for girls and women, has benefited from the growing popularity of casual knitwear. By manufacturing all its own knit goods, Aileen has achieved flexibility at substantial savings.

Profit margins have widened sharply to 11.9 per cent after tax in 1968 and 14.5 per cent in the first six months of 1969.

Cadillac Breaks Sales Records

DETROIT (BW) — Record Cadillac new car sales of 7,684 in the first 10 days of October were more than 16 per cent ahead of the former high sent in 1963.

Breaking the former Oct. 1-10 high of 6,580, the 7,684 domestic deliveries are more than 20 per cent over the 6,400 delivered a year ago in this period.

It was the third consecutive 10-day sales record following the introduction of the 1970 models and raises the year's domestic deliveries to 189,321. In the same period in 1968, Jan. 1 to Oct. 10, Cadillac dealers sold 165,232.
